Annual Red Cross Drive Nears Halfway Mark Here

Community Workers Asked To Report Results As Soon As Possible

The annual American Red Cross membership drive this week nears its halfway mark as it is hoped that the $3,000 goal will be reached by the end of October.

Co-chairmen of the drive, the Revs. Jack Thomas and David B. Roberts, urge all community workers to send in their reports as soon as possible.

"You will probably be asked in the next few days by neighbors to join the membership drive and it is our hope and desire that no one will refuse," the co-chairmen stated this week.

Published below are a few reasons you should support your Red Cross:

FARMERS URGED TO COMPLETE ACP PRACTICES

Farmers who have enrolled in the fall portion of the Agricultural Conservation cost-sharing program are urged to follow through by completing and reporting performance on the farm practices for which approvals were issued, said Ralph Ramsey, county ASCS office manager. In commenting on the county Agricultural Conservation Program, Ramsey explained that farmers who enroll in the program have two basic responsibilities. One is to carry the farm practices out in accordance with the approved specification and the other is to file a performance report after the practice is completed, but within the report date shown on the approval. He said that approximately 1200 farms within the county had made application and secured ACP cost-sharing approvals on the winter cover crop and liming practices during the past six weeks and that those who have not as yet completed these practices should do so before winter weather arrives. In conclusion, Ramsey explained that farmers can report performance on their completed practices by entering the extent in acres performed in "Col. F." of their report form, signing it and mailing it to the ASCS office in Marshall.

Social Security Official Explains Medicare Program

D. C. Nichols, field representative of the Asheville office of Social Security, was the guest speaker at the Marshall Lions Club dinner meeting at the Rock Cafe Monday night.

Following his informative talk on social security and its benefits, he then ably discussed the up-coming Medicare program which will start next year.

MADISON VOTE MOVES LEGAL, JUDGE RULES

The Madison County Commissioners and Board of Elections emerged from under an injunction cloud Thursday of last week when Superior Court Judge P. C. Fronberger dissolved two restraining orders against recent acts of the bodies.

In a lengthy finding of fact, Judge Fronberger ruled that the Board of Elections was acting within the provisions of General Statutes 163-22 when it dropped the number of Madison County voting places from 23 to eight, following an action of the commissioners which did the same thing to the county's townships.

Injunctions were issued by Judge W. K. McLean in mid-September at the request of a group which sought to class the actions as illegal and selfishly inspired.

Judge Fronberger said Thursday that the actions were not arbitrary or capricious, and were not motivated by selfish, personal, or political motives.

The plaintiffs, he said, did not make a case or show any right to relief.

Moreover, he ruled, that injunctions would have been harmful to both the defendants and the voters of the county, particularly in regard to the upcoming Nov. 2 election involving road bonds and court system changes. The legal notices governing such an election have already been made on the basis of eight precincts, and there isn't time to do them over again.

Sources outside court observed that any cloud on the legality of the voting in Madison could affect the sale of the state's bonds even if the measure passed on a statewide basis.

TOWN OF MARS HILL ENDORSES ROAD BOND ISSUE

Board Of Aldermen Also Supports Appellate Court Issue

The Mars Hill aldermen in a meeting held October 4, endorsed both the road bond issue and the issue to establish an intermediate court of appeals, to be voted upon November 2.

The Road Bond Issue Resolution follows: (The appellate court Resolution is similar.)

RESOLUTION

$300 Million Road Bond Issue WHEREAS, the 1965 General Assembly submitted to the people a $300 million road bond issue; and

WHEREAS, the $75 million which would provide for urban highways is desperately needed in order to keep pace with municipal growth;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVE by the Town Board of Aldermen of the Town of Mars Hill, North Carolina, in meeting assembled this 4th day of October, 1965, that:

Better Roads Are Vital To Industry, Tourism, Moore Says

Gov. Dan Moore said unless voters approve the $300 million road bond issue Nov. 2, "we can pay for only half the roads and road improvements we need" during the next seven years.

Moore told the governor's committee for better roads "the results to our state will be tragic" if the bond issue is turned down.

The committee was appointed to push for passage of the bond issue. Members at the kickoff luncheon received a campaign kit which included advertising material such as bumper strips and brochures.

Moore told the committee, "during the next seven years we will have less than $590 million in tax money to spend on roads. But remember that we will need over $1 billion. So you can see where we stand." He added the money needs make it vital that the bond issue be approved.

He said rejection of the bond issue could result in higher taxes, a decrease in the tourist trade and a setback in industrial growth.

Moore told the committee North Carolina is "changing from a farm and rural state to a state of industry and commerce and big cities."

"Industry throughout the nation," he said, "is talking about us. Thousands of people visited our state last year as tourists. When they left, we were more than $1 billion richer."

"But unless we keep our highways up to date . . . the industry may stop coming. The tourists may stop coming. The benefits may stop."

Better roads are needed, he added, "to protect the lives of motorists."

"Ask the people in the Department of Motor Vehicles," Moore said. "They will tell you that poor roads contributed to more than 500 fatal accidents last year."

Hot Springs - Marshall

Vital Extra Points Decide Outcome In Exciting Game Here

The best description of last Friday night's game on the Island is "hard-nosed" football.

Marshall picked up its first win of the season as the Tornadoes edged the Blue Devils of Hot Springs, 14-12 in an exciting and thrill-packed contest. As the score indicates, the difference was in extra points.

The Tornadoes took the opening kickoff and brought it back to the 20. Seven plays later Ronnie Bishop, fleet MHS halfback, (Continued to Page Four)

Mars Hill - Lee Edwards JV

Mars Hill High School's Wildcats, led by Eddie Castelloe, halfback, trounced the Lee Edwards Jayvees, of Asheville, at Mars Hill last Friday night, 34-6. It was the Jayvee's first loss of the season after winning four straight.

After a scoreless first quarter, Castelloe scored from the 10-yard line climaxing a 61-yard drive. Castelloe also ran for the extra point. Later in the quarter, Castelloe passed to Jerry Honeycutt for 20 yards for the second TD. This TD was set up when the Wildcats recovered a Jayvee fumble on the 38 yard stripe. Castelloe again plunged for the extra (Continued to Page Five)

Lions - Eagles

Carson-Newman dampened Mars Hill's homecoming and new stadium dedication at Mars Hill Saturday, turning back a fumble-plagued Lion eleven 21-0 before 4,000 mostly-partisan fans.

The Eagles from Jefferson City, Tenn., struck once in the second quarter and twice more in the final stanza as they took advantage of a stiff afternoon north wind at their backs.

Carson-Newman also had two other touchdowns called back by penalties.

Six fumbles, four of them in the first half, plus three costly pass interceptions kept the Lions from mounting any serious offensive threat.

For that matter, both teams showed good pass defenses. The Eagles completed only four of 19 aerials while Mars Hill clicked for six in 23 tries, while intercepting one Carson-Newman pass.

The loss gave Mars Hill a 1-2-1 record, while Carson-Newman has won three and dropped only one, a 13-6 defeat by Western Carolina.

Western Carolina is next on the Mars Hill schedule, for what it's worth.
