HEARD AND SEEN By "POP"

Weather this past week — same as week before — leaves are changing and Fall colors are beautiful — there's nothing prettier than the mountains in the Fall — Bill and I left last Friday morning for the eastern part of the state where we visited the Grosses in Greenville — that's always a treat — and even more so at this time — John is almost a grown man — taller than Jack — Jack, "T," Bill and I attended the State Fair in Raleigh Friday night — gosh, what a crowd — but the Fair had many wonderful exhibits, including a fine 4-H exhibit from Madison County — was glad to "bump into" Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, formerly of Marshall, who were also taking in the Fair — and also glad to "run into" Mr. and Mrs. Elsherry Holcomb who were also enjoying the Fair — after spending several hours at the Fair, Jack and "T" feted us with a delicious steak dinner at the Angus Barn, about 12 miles out of Raleigh — it's one of the most beautiful eating establishments I've ever been in and the steaks were — umm ummm, delicious — before leaving Greenville, we visited Dr. Robert Holt and his family at his home — however, we had to go to the hospital to see Claire, who is recuperating from an operation — gosh, it's always nice to see Bob and Claire and their fine family — they're just "the most" — on Sunday, Bill and I attended the wedding of a cousin of mine in Gates County — it was a beautiful church wedding — after the ceremony, I was invited to play the organ at the reception at the home of the bride — I surely did enjoy playing the Conn Organ and I hope the guests overlooked my discords, etc. — left late Sunday afternoon, spent Sunday night "on the road" and arrived in Asheville just in time to head toward Waynesville for a road meeting — glad I went — met Chairman Joe Hunt and other dignitaries — after meeting visited Waynesville Mountaineer office with all its modern equipment — was treated royally by Publisher Curtis Russ and Marion Bridges — arrived in Marshall Monday night — a wonderful trip — nuff said about the trip — the photographers, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fortner, of Modern Art Studios, Knoxville, had quite a successful stay in Marshall at the Variety Shop last week-end — took many pictures — Ed and Gladys are mighty fine people and I hope they come back again soon — Marshall was shocked and saddened last Thursday at the sudden passing of W. F. Holland, civic and religious leader — Francis was a popular businessman and was always cooperative in any endeavors to improve our town — he was a loyal and faithful member of many civic clubs during his 23 years in Marshall — he will be greatly missed at the Belk-Broome store, the civic clubs, and the Marshall Baptist Church where he served in many capacities — our sympathy to the Holland family — the question in last week's column, "Can you tell me where in the Bible the Lord used a razor?" sent in by Mrs. Pearl Price, really brought results — among those supplying answers were Mrs. Oscar McDevitt, Walnut; Margie Landers, Lincoln Park, Mich.; Mrs. Addie Martin, Marshall; Mrs. Wilson Payne, Hot Springs Rt. 2; Mrs. John Roberts, Spillcort; Mrs. Jack Wilson, Marshall Rt. 6, etc., etc. — the answer is: Isaiah 7, verse 20 — if you know any items for this column, send 'em in — might can use them.

Attend Meeting Of Caseworkers

Mrs. Grace English, Mrs. Rosemary Ramsey, case workers, and Terold W. Fox, child welfare worker in the Madison County Department of Public Welfare, attended the Western District Caseworkers meeting in Murphy on Thursday of last week.

JUST A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

By DOROTHY B. SHUPE

I hope you missed me last week, but if it didn't make too much difference, you can stop reading right now and read something else. I have so much work that needs to be done that this little old column might not be the best I've ever produced.

Our report cards go out next week and I suppose not every one will be too happy for the simple reason that everyone hasn't done the very best that could be done. But we do have five more times for this event and possibly changes can be made that no one dreams of at this moment. I always think of Lane Ramsey when I write about report cards, because he said one time that he "wouldn't have gotten by with some bad grades if I hadn't mentioned in this column that they were being distributed that week!"

Oh, have you seen a picture of the new Gateway Arch that is going up on the west bank of the Mississippi River? It is 680 feet high and is tallest nonfunctional structure in the world except the Eiffel Tower in Paris. It symbolizes St. Louis' historic role in developing the west of early United States days. It has 900 tons of stainless steel in it and has 1,076 steps to an observation tower at the top. You'll be seeing about it on TV and in the papers, but remember you read it here first!

This is going to be a hectic week what with all the students wondering who the Homecoming Queen will be and which float will win the prize. I haven't figured out yet if Carol and J. C. pulled one on me when we matched to see who got stuck with making our float. But when the seniors win, they'll both probably want to take me out to dinner! Come to think of it, if they took me, they'd probably run out on me for (Continued on Page Six)
