Raymond Boings Passes Sunday; Rites Tuesday

Raymond Arnold Boings, 18, of Marshall Rt. 2, died Sunday, October 31, 1965 in an Asheville hospital as a result of injuries received Monday of last week on the Biltmore Forest Country Club grounds. The Biltmore Forest Police Department reported that Boings was working on a dump truck and somehow got his head caught between the cab and bed of the truck and was crushed. Mr. Boings was a native of Madison County and was an employee of Biltmore Forest Country Club. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Panay Cutshall Boings; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Boings of Marshall Rt. 2; two sisters, the Misses Margaret and Wanda Boings, and two brothers, David and Benny Boings, all of the home. Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 p. m., in Grapevine Church of God. The Rev. Champ Rice and the Rev. Quillon Ammons officiated and burial was in Holcombe Cemetery. Pallbearers were friends of the family. Bowman Funeral Home was in charge.

Hot Springs News

R. C. KIRBY, Correspondent

Mrs. Ethel Wallin, home demonstration agent, assisted by Fred Boss, assistant farm agent, conducted a county-wide tour of homes in several sections of the county on Thursday, Oct. 28. All the clubs of the county were invited and many responded. Lunch was had at the Madison Grill. Many joined the group from communities along the route. All the ladies report a most interesting day. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Lewis of Roanoke, Va., have returned home after several days visit. Mrs. Lewis is a native of Hot Springs and is the daughter of Mrs. Allie Church and a sister of Mrs. Swann Huff at Alpine Court. Mr. Lewis is a former Southern Railway employee and was stationed here for sometime and has many friends who were please to have them return on a visit. Union services at the Baptist Church Sunday were well attended. Rev. Harry Sellers, Methodist minister, brought the message. Rev. Harry Sellers and family were week-end visitors to Harry's parents in Asheville. Mrs. Fritz VanNest left Monday for a two weeks' visit in St. Louis. Mr. Rufus Lampkin of Knoxville, Tenn., came up on the special train Sunday to visit his sister, Mrs. A. C. Gentry; however, Mrs. Gentry had gone to various points in Virginia to visit children there. Mr. Lampkins had a nice visit with Pat and James Gentry and their families. Sunday morning about 11:30 many were surprised to see a long special Southern Railway passenger train pull into the siding here. It proved to be a Presbyterian Sunday School picnic from Knoxville and there were 600 passengers aboard. The hotel grounds were shortly practically filled with people and baskets of food. After lunch many of the young people indulged in mountain climbing, tennis and other games. The train departed on the return trip at 3:30 and all seemed to have a nice outing.

Mrs. Maggie Ramsey Passes Thursday; Rites Held Sunday

Mrs. Maggie Fortner Ramsey, 64, of Marshall Rt. 5, died Thursday, October 28, 1965 in an Asheville hospital after a long illness. Mrs. Ramsey was the widow of J. Bunnion Ramsey and was a member of Shoal Hill Free Will Baptist Church. Surviving are three sons, Ralph of Marshall Rt. 5, Robert and Charles Ramsey of Asheville; three daughters, Mrs. Bud Carrell of Biltmore, Mrs. Wade Grooms of Candler and Mrs. William Guthrie of Orlando, Fla.; and eight grandchildren. Services were held at 2 p. m., Sunday in the chapel of Bowman Funeral Home. The Rev. Jesse Rice and the Rev. Howard Cashatt officiated and burial was in the Ramsey Cemetery. Friends of the family were pallbearers.

Here Comes The Bookmobile
Minnie, we just couldn't do it. You may think you are smart enough to find your way to the Mattie Williams Hospital in Richlands, Virginia, while we turn our back to the road ahead and put the typewriter on the back seat and start pecking away on this column. But somehow we doubt it. Anyway we don't think Highway Patrolmen would approve of such doings. You see they might

Thurs the Bible use the strong- Yes, that was the place we stayed all that long time in August, and left you sitting back home in the garage wondering where we were and why you were all p-o-n-e. We promise, across our heart, honest Injun, never to do that again. We told you we weren't mad 'cause you wouldn't start when we came home. We said we would take you along the doctor if we were well or still next time we had to go to ask the sick. Well, we did; and the doctor said we weren't sick anymore. Goodbye, Gerber's baby food. Hello, turnip greens, corn bread and anything else we like to eat. We always say — All' well that ends well. Not to change the subject—but please take notice there is not one quotation mark in this whole column. Maybe we should have some to please the grammarians, but this week we are leaving them out to please Coley. He says they give him fits and starts. What's this? Little miss. Nobody's listening. No, I haven't heard a word from BLUE CLOUD. Maybe she can't write yet. Maybe we will have to write her in the Adult Education program. Or maybe after she hauls books around and checks them out to folks she will be able to read and write. We will soon see.

her thoughts and in her heart is evidenced by the fact that she tenderly prepared little garments to be taken to him once a year in the annual pilgrimage to the temple presided over by Eli the priest. What love and what longings must have gone into each little garment! What pride and joy shone from her eyes as she saw the child grow handsome and strong and willing in the service of the Lord! Herein must have lain Hannah's strength. For we can bear anything that cruel fate can inflict on us if we can but look at our children with pleasure; if we feel they are pleasing in the sight of God and in the sight of the world through our earnest efforts to help them become worthwhile human beings, contributing something of value to the human race. Parenthood is not always easy; it more often than not involves sacrifice and self-giving over and beyond what we feel is really necessary — or should be necessary. Disciplinary acts sometimes cause us pain to the extent we avoid them from purely selfish motives, and thereby we become guilty of doing the child an injustice. For — while we cannot all give to our children the material advantages other children enjoy — we can provide them with a sense of security prompted by the knowledge that they are loved, and we can instill into them the ability to recognize the difference between right and wrong. We can teach them to have a loving heart and an open mind. We can teach them that the basis of Christianity is love of our fellow-men, and gentleness, kindness, and the ability to forgive are Christlike attributes. A child is a gift from God; he is on loan to us for just as long as God desires that we have him. What he has become when we return him to the Lord is a measure of ourselves both in our own and in God's eyes.
