Summer Courses Varied

The Continuing Education Program of Mars Hill College is offering a variety of courses this summer and fall on campus and at centers throughout Southwestern North Carolina. In the program it is possible for a student to earn a degree in six different majors. These are: allied health, business administration, education, office administration, religion, and social work. The program, with many of its courses taught by MHC faculty, is an integral part of the college and maintains the same academic standards as the residential

During the summer of 1977 the full offering of courses on the main campus are open to continuing education students. This will permit students to take courses that are so specialized that they will be offered only rarely in the various centers. The list of courses available on-campus can be obtained at the Summer School office in Spilman Dorm. A series of classes are being offered in Asheville; they are: Eng. 211, Form and Style of Linda and Johnna Webb, Barbara Winkler, Debbie Hodge, Gamble Clark, Bill and Greg Dillingham, Randy Hodge, Gene and John Clark, McCrae Roberts and Tony Craine.

"Tales With A Tail" At Mars Hill Fri.-Sat.

Memorizing lines is no problem for youngsters presenting "Tales with a Tail" this weekend in Mars Hill and for a good reason. They aren't using written scripts: they're improvising their own.

The production is an outgrowth of a 10-week Creative Performance Class taught by Deborah Compton, Third Century Artist in Madison County, and gives the young people opportunity to demonstrate the art of improvisation, pantomime and other dramatic techniques they have been studying.

Baptist Church.

Performers, all from the Mars Hill area, are: Denise Thomason, Amy Knisley, Stuart Jolley, David Adams, Edwin Cheek, Steve Fish, Kathy Croom, Edith Cheek, Elaine Randolph, Jessica Newton, Kellye Smith, Robin Hough, and Lorie Mahy.

The production consists of a folk tale, "The Bremen Town Musicians," and five Aesop's Fables: "The Grasshopper and the Ant," "Lion and the Mouse," "The Tortoise and the "The Boy and the Wolf," and "The Country Mouse and the City Mouse."

The Mars Hill College Presented with no admission Department of Theatre Arts is charge, the performances will a joint sponsor of the class be at 7:30 p.m. Friday and at which was begun as a pilot 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the lower project in hopes of organizing a auditorium of Mars Hill county-wide children's theatre program.
