

Sociobiologist Will Speak At Mars Hill On March 25

Dr. Tom Barash, professor of zoology and psychology at the University of Washington in Seattle, is the leader in a new controversial field — sociobiology. Sociobiologists in genetic and evolutionary factors control human social behavior. He will be at Mars Hill College March 25 for a public lecture at 8 p.m. in Belt Auditorium. He will also meet with biology, zoology and psychology students during the day.

Dr. Barash, a native of New York City, earned his bachelor's degree at Harpur College in Binghamton, N.Y., and his master's and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. At the very young age of 33, he has published over 80 scientific papers in this new field as well as authored the books "Whisperings Within" and "Sociobiology and Behavior" which have become standards in this new field. He has been invited to study at the Center for Advanced Studies of Behavioral Science at Stanford University, and has received numerous grants and fellowships from the National Science Foundation as well as other agencies. Sociobiologists postulate that there are genetic and

Correction

In last week's paper it was erroneously stated that Buncombe County levies a $50 fine against anyone piling garbage around green boxes that are already full.
 The story should have said Yancey County, not Buncombe.

Art Museum Plans Auction

The Asheville Art Museum Auxiliary will hold its Eleventh Annual Art Auction on April 19, from 8:30-10:30 p.m. in the Asheville Art Museum at the Civic Center.
 This auction is the auxiliary's major fund-raising project for the museum. Proceeds are donated to the museum for the purpose of maintaining operations and for the purchase of additions to the permanent collection.
 Art work may be submitted for the auction from March 24-April 2, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. The art will be professionally juried on April 3. Artist submission forms are available at the museum.

 Art on the auction block will represent a cross section of artists from the Southeast, predominately from Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee. Of those works submitted, a maximum of 75 will be selected for the sale.
 A preview showing, from April 8 to April 19, during regular museum hours, will give the public an opportunity to view the items to be auctioned. On auction night, a preview and cocktail hour is scheduled from 7-8:30 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the musical group "Going Baroque" from 7-8. The auction will begin at 8:30. The $7 admission price includes cocktails and refreshments. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

 The Art Auction is a community event, open to the public. For further information, please call the museum at 253-3227.
