

Cheryl Frisby Is Bride Of William Cooke

Cheryl Marcell Frisby and William Daniel Cooke were married at 7 p.m. Friday in Beaverdam Baptist Church. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. George Moore.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest James Frisby of 16 Bassett Road, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Galdys Frisby and Mrs. Bernice Bailey, both of Marshall. She is a graduate of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in home economics and is employed by Anthony's in Asheville.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee Cooke of 50 Faircrest Road. He is a graduate of Asheville-Buncombe Technical College and is a senior in-service student at Western Carolina University where he is majoring in industrial technology. He is employed by Steelcase of Fletcher as a product engineer.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Doug Hooker of Hickory, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jan Frazier of Mount Holly, Paula Wallin of Marshall, Elaine Summerville of Charlotte, Susan Sessler and Barbee Cooke, sisters of the bridegroom, both of Asheville. Ernest Frisby Jr. of Asheville, brother of the bride, was junior attendant.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Doug Hooker of Hickory, brother-in-law of the bride; Edward Cooke, Jr., brother of the bridegroom; Bill Earwood, John Giezentanner, and Michael Hill all of Asheville. Organ music was presented by Mrs. Kathy Adams of Marshall.

A reception followed at the Inn on the Plaza.

Prepare Children Now For New Experience

If your little one is starting kindergarten this fall, you can be sure it will be a whole new world for him.

Dr. Frances Wagner, extension human development specialist at North Carolina State University, says you can get your child off on the "right foot" by starting to prepare now. "Start teaching and reviewing such things as the child's name, age, address, telephone number, parents' names and where the parents work," the specialist advises. "This is something older brothers and sisters might enjoy teaching the first time student."

Since there is a lot of demand for a teacher's attention at school, it is helpful if your child can go to the bathroom alone, can dress and undress alone and knows how to use ties, buttons and zippers.

Show your child the shortest, safest route to school or bus stop and walk it together several times. Dr. Wagner points out that it is a good idea to have your child walk it alone a few times before school starts.

Discuss the importance of going home when school is out unless other plans have been made. Point out neighbors or people along the route who could help if trouble or bad weather occurs.

"Teach your child to look carefully and watch for cars before crossing a street," Dr. Wagner adds. "Make sure he understands why to cross the street only at crossings and only with the traffic light."

Dr. Wagner recommends setting and following daily routines now so your child will be used to this when school starts. For example, have your child go to bed at roughly the same time he will go to bed during school.

When your child gets up in the morning, have him eat a good breakfast, wash hands and face, brush teeth and dress in clean clothes.

"It also helps to give your child some responsibility, as this is an unexpected part of the school routine," Dr. Wagner says. "Helping with household tasks such as cleaning a room is a good responsibility. Other possibilities include taking care of clothes or toys or caring for a pet."

Before sending your child to kindergarten, have him go through physical, dental and visual examinations. Make sure your child has all needed immunizations.
