CARE OF VELVET
Velvet or velveteen clothing requires special care say extension clothing specialists at North Carolina State University.

Brushing against the pile will help restore areas crushed or through wear. A steam iron or hand steamer can also be used to remove creases and restore the plush appearance. Or hang the garment in the bathroom while showering to steam it.

Avoid clamp type skirt and pant hangers; they will crush the pile. Pin skirts and pants carefully to wire hangers or hang by the loops sewn to the waistband. Folding garments over a hanger can leave a mark unless the hanger is well padded.

Always read clothing labels. If dry cleaning is recommended, don't wash the clothing at home.

REDUCING BILLS
Was your last electric bill outrageous? Many North Carolinians used large amounts of electricity to keep warm during the recent cold snap.

Many more are pouring money down the drain. A slow drip from a hot water faucet uses 40 KWH of electricity a month, say extension specialists at North Carolina State University.

If that doesn't sound like much it is enough electricity to run a microwave oven, garbage disposal, toaster oven, waffle iron and coffee maker for a month. It only costs pennies for the do-it-yourselfer to change a washer.
