

MHC Offers Classes For Gifted Students

Forty-seven ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade students are at Mars Hill College this summer to participate in a special session designed for gifted and talented students.

Entitled "Summer Scholastics and Arts Program," the objectives of the program are to enlarge on the regular classroom experience, give the students an opportunity to explore in greater detail those areas in which they are demonstrating their abilities, and to gain exposure to new and related areas that they may not have had access to in their school careers.

The program features a student-faculty ratio of 18-to-one with faculty members drawn primarily from the college's faculty. Carefully selected college students provide a counselor-student ratio of one-to-nine. The college students have considerable contact with the youngsters as they live in the apartments with them as well as serve as teacher aides during class time.

According to Dr. Smith Goodrum, director of the summer program and associate dean for admissions, the summer program is not a "drop your kids off and let them play in college." Instead, carefully structured classes provide the opportunities these students need.

The 47 students are divided into four groups, according to their interests. Each of the four groups take three classes during their stay at the college. The classes are divided into three areas: physics, computer, and the creative process. Two classes will be taught in physics, "Wave Motion: Sound and Light," in which the students study the basic physical properties of wave motion and the effects on sound and light; and "Electronics," in which the fundamentals of transistors, digital electronics, and working circuits are investigated. Two computer classes are also offered: "PASCAL," in which students become familiar with this language through problem definition and solution structuring; and "Advanced BASIC," for students with experience with the BASIC language; problem solving in math and science is the emphasis.

The creative process division includes four classes: "Photography," which includes both aesthetic consideration as well as laboratory work; "Creative Writing," which emphasizes self-expression and intuitive investigations; "Graphic Arts," which exposes students to a variety of media and techniques; and "Aesthetics," in which students attempt to integrate the experiences from their three classes into a composite of expression.

In order to provide these youngsters, who may be the ones that will have the high stress, rapid paced jobs of tomorrow, with leisure skills and an orientation to general physical health principles, all of the students participate in classes to learn about health care and either individual, two-man, or small group sports events.

Those students from your area who are participating in the Summer Scholastics and Arts Program include the following:

From Hot Springs, Susan Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daigle, Madison High.

From Mars Hill, Sharon L. Croom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Croom, Mars Hill Elementary.

REP. LISTON RAMSEY PRESENTED $15,000 to the Marshall Volunteer Fire Dept. Friday. David Worley of the fire company accepted the check.

Baseball Lions Sign

Coach Charlie Phillips of Mars Hill College has signed three freshman baseball players for the 1984-85 season.

Pitcher William Mike Herring of Mt. Pleasant, is a 1984 graduate of Mt. Pleasant High School where he was a three-year letterman in baseball. He was named to the All Conference Team and All Tournament in the Rocky River Conference in 1983. He was also a three year member of the Concord American Legion Post 51 Team.

Infielder Glenn Bud Young,

Third baseman Christopher Beal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Miller of Arden, is a 1984 graduate of T. C. Roberts High where he was a four year letterman in baseball. He was a member of the 1983 North Carolina State 3A Championship Baseball Rams and completed the 1984 season with a batting average of .306 and fielding average of .884. He plays summer baseball with the South Buncombe Senior Babe Ruth Team.

before the season ends.

Boy Scouts Join In Coke Can Cash Plan

Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts of the Daniel Boone Council are joining the Coca-Cola Cash Can Plan.

Troops and packs will scout around for beverage cans and twice a year will collect the checks for aluminum they help recycle. Coke pays scouts a premium rate for aluminum beverage cans.

"The scouts knew about the Coca-Cola Cash Can Plan in the schools and came to us to ask if they could participate," said William Y. Smith, senior vice-president for sales and marketing. "They wanted to have funds so that every scout could attend Daniel Boone Camp."

Summer is a good time to participate in the plan, Smith added. "The Boy Scouts are joining the Coca-Cola Cash Can Plan at a time of year when there is a substantially greater number of cans available to collect. Because of the hot weather, a lot more cans are sold," he said.

About 4,000 youths in the 14 counties that Daniel Boone Council serves are eligible to participate in the program said Joe Glasscock, scout executive. Cans can be a ticket to camp, he said.

"One of our main concerns is that all kids get an opportunity to go to camp," Glasscock said. "Some leaders have suggested we need a program for troops to raise money for camp and other high adventure trips around the county. The Coca-Cola Cash Can Plan may be used for camp or any other project scouts choose."

The Plan has another key point, Glasscock added. "When they collect cans to recycle, scouts have a fund raiser and a conservation project as well for the troop and the community," he said.

Scouts will collect, crush, and bag aluminum cans. They also will deliver the bags to one of four Coke sales centers. They are located in Skyland, Bryson City, Marble, and Spruce Pine. The cans go from the sales centers to Greenearth at Greenville, S.C., for recycling.

COUPON COOKBOOK CORNER

Marion Joyce

Among the millions of people trying to lose weight and become fit, many are those who have discovered using instant broth or bouillon as a low calorie snack, as a filler, or as an appetizer before a meal. You can reduce your salt intake with Herb-Ox low sodium varieties in this excellent recipe.

CHICKEN BREASTS WITH BEEF AND CHEESE

- 6 chicken breasts, skins and bones removed
- 6 slices of thin, lean brisket, cooked
- 2 packets of Herb-Ox Low Sodium Chicken-Flavored Instant-Broth and Seasoning
- 6 slices of salt-free Gouda cheese
- Freshly milled black pepper
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup small mushrooms
- 1 small can tomato paste

Serves 4-6.

Lightly flatten the chicken breasts. With a sharp knife slice each breast leaving about a 1/2 inch hinge. Open each breast to insert a slice of cooked brisket and top each with a slice of Gouda cheese. Sprinkle a 1/2 packet of Herb-Ox Low Sodium Chicken-Flavored Instant Broth and Seasoning into each breast. Fold each breast and sprinkle the rest of the packet all over them. Next, sprinkle pepper over the breasts. Prepare a broth by dissolving the other packet of Herb-Ox Low Sodium Chicken-Flavored Instant Broth and Seasoning in 1 cup of boiling water and pour into a saucepan. Add the mushrooms to the boiling broth, lower heat to a slow simmer and add the tomato paste, stirring while cooking. Cook for 4 minutes, or until sauce liquid is reduced by one-fourth. Coat a casserole dish with the melted butter or margarine, place each breast onto the casserole pan and pour the sauce over the chicken. Put the pan into a 375° oven to bake 25-30 minutes. Serve breasts with the sauce.
