Revival At Lower Big Pine Baptist

The Lower Big Pine Baptist Church will hold a revival beginning on Oct. 28. Pastor Danny Little invites everyone to attend.

Seminar At M.H. Baptist

Dr. Leo Hawkins, an extension specialist in human relations for the North Carolina Dept. of Agriculture, will lead a seminar on "Families and Stress" at the Mars Hill Baptist Church on Oct. 28 from 3 until 5 p.m.

Hawkins will discuss ways of helping families cope with stresses placed on the family and individual family members. The seminar is being sponsored by the Home Demonstration Clubs of Madison County and the Mars Hill Baptist Church and is open to the public at no charge.

The Marshall Freewill Baptist Church and the Shoal Hill Baptist Church will hold a rummage sale on Nov. 1 through 3 in the basement of Dr. Robert Adams' office on Main Street.

There will be a benefit gospel singing at Mountain Heritage H.S. in Burnsville on Sunday at 2 p.m. Proceeds from the singing will benefit Keith Wilson, a 14-year old student at Bee Log Elementary School. Keith recently underwent a serious heart operation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Wilson of Burnsville.

Among the singers expected to attend are the Christianeers of Mars Hill, the Happy Hearts of Oteen and the Robinson family of Burnsville. No admission will be charged.

Honors Grayson, Hope

Pauline Wall Grayson and C.C. Hope, Jr. were honored as the alumni of the year Saturday during the annual Homecoming ceremonies at Mars Hill College. They were honored at a dinner following Saturday's football game.

Mrs. Grayson is a 1934 graduate of the college. Her parents and brothers and sister all attended the school and her uncle, Dr. Robert L. Moore, served as the college's president for 41 years.

Mrs. Grayson is the wife of California financier Wesley Grayson. Together, they established the Grayson Scholars Program to provide scholarships to Mars Hill College students. The scholarship fund is currently valued at nearly $3 million.

C.C. Hope, Jr. is a 1941 graduate of Mars Hill. He continued his education at Wake Forest University, Harvard Business School and the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University. Following service in the U.S. Navy in World War II, Hope began his banking career with Union National Bank.

Beginning as a bank teller, Hope rose to become vice-chairman of the board of First Union National Bank, a position he currently holds.

He has assisted Mars Hill College by helping the college's Development Office to prepare proposals for major grants from corporations and foundations.

Hope has served as chairman of the board of trustees at Wake Forest University, chairman of the board of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital, dean of the School of Banking at Southern Methodist University and chairman of the development council of the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Living & Growing

Take a moment if you will, and imagine that today is the last day of your life. It sounds a bit morbid, but give it a try anyway. All your days are past, and today is your last shot at life. Get into that thought.

Now, assuming that today is the last day of your life, what are you going to do with it? Will you continue doing what you are, or change channels in another direction? I would like for you to also think about which people you would reach out to. Are there some folks who's companionship you would seek? Finally, realizing that today is the end, what would you change about your yesterdays. Would your life paths be any different? Would your attitudes, values, and behavior be the same?

It's a shame that we are unable to see things with the clarity of one who is about to leave this world. It puts life in a totally different perspective. Instead of a never ending supply of tomorrows, we find ourselves with a future of question marks. No matter how strong our faith about what comes after death, we can only trust in the specifics of that experience. Would we be so casual about life today, if we knew that death waited for us around the corner?

Life is precious. It's made to be seeded, cultivated, harvested and savored. If most of us grew our gardens like we run our lives, we would wind up eating weeds instead of tomatoes. Life was not meant just to be survived. We have the resources to take a step beyond that. Living, fully, should be our goal. It's never too late to assess the direction of your life. From the moment we stop taking it for granted, life acquires an entirely different flavor. It's sweeter and more fulfilling than before.

We have no guarantees that our days will be many. We can, however, work at making those we do have worth the effort. A life of existence counts, but for how much? There is no price to be attached to one that is lived to the fullest of our abilities. How about it? Are you getting by, or getting it all?

Jamerson Promoted

Boiler Technician First Class Petty Officer Warren D. Jamerson was promoted to E-6 recently while serving aboard the U.S.S. Trippe, homeported in Charleston, S.C.

Jamerson's six-year service record has included three letters of appreciation for outstanding service, a letter of commendation from the Secretary of the Navy and a good conduct medal.

He has taken part in three Mediterranean Sea-Indian Ocean cruises, a North Atlantic cruise and numerous deployments in the Caribbean Sea. Jamerson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Jamerson of Mars Hill. He is married to the former Myra Ingle of Mars Hill.

The Tiller That's Really a Walk-Behind Tractor

BCS tillers do a lot more than till. Because the tiller unit can be replaced by a lot of other implements. Like the snow blower. Or a lawn mower. Or a sickle-bar cutter. And it only takes a few minutes to make the change. But you really have to see it to appreciate it.

Come in and check out this mechanical masterpiece. Ask to see the BCS in action.
