STORY OF A VISIT TO AN EDUCATION FACTORY
 When February, a month full of blizzards, came in, there came to the writer a letter from that good man, Rev. J. A. Campbell, pastor, educator, these twenty-five years, to visit Buie's Creek Academy, in the county of Harnett. For in all the writer's life has he had a letter of the sort which gripped his heart more, for it told in a paragraph the story of human endeavor and dedication to work which makes Professor Campbell a marked man in our North Carolina, in the class of B. B. Dougherty, who conceived and carried out the Appalachian Training School at Boone in high Watauga county. Here is the gripping paragraph referred to:

Take it from me
 old man - put some money in the bank - It will help you and make you secure
 Do it now

THE 'BOSS' KNOWS THAT THE MAN WHO IS PUTTING MONEY IN THE BANK IS NOT WASTING TIME SPENDING IT. HE MAY NOT BE ON THE JOB, HE KNOWS THE VALUE OF HIS JOB - AND HIS TIME - HE DOESN'T LOSE EITHER. HE KNOWS TIME IS MONEY - HE WANTS MONEY.

WHEN HE GETS IT HE PUTS IT IN THE BANK. IT IS SAFE THERE. IT HELPS TO HAVE A BANK BOOK. HAVE ONE

CANNING CLUB WORK
 The beginning is to be made in Harnett county in canning club work. The beginning will be in a modest way, yet it will start the industry, and once started we believe that it will prove its value in both an educative and a business sense.

The board of education of the county has just voted $150 to begin the work. The purpose is to make this a starter, to keep at it with earnestness, and to do those things which will build up the interest and co-operation of the people.

This is the right thing to have done, and the county board of education of that county has done the right thing in making the appropriation, for there is an educative influence in the canning club work. It is educative not alone for those engaged in it, but it has a reflex action which benefits all who have to do with it in any way.

We are glad to see Harnett county take the action it has, for that is an inspiration to the cause and will set other places to thinking. We have seen Harnett county grow and we expect to see it now grow more rapidly because of the increasing opportunities which come to it. The people of that county are among the best to be found in the State, and the new step which has been taken by Harnett can be made of the greatest advantage to the people of the county as an objective and cooperative work.

The people of all the counties in North Carolina should use the canning goods made in North Carolina. Every wholesale house, every commission merchant, every retailer, has the opportunity to take a part in aiding the canning club work, and the individuals of the State should in preference to other brands of canned goods use those put up by North Carolina girls. Harnett county folks can make the canning club movement in that county a success if they do the right thing. News and Observer.

Governor Craig Coming.

Chairman Ross has secured the address of Governor Craig to be given at the Democratic Convention, Saturday, April 22. This is a great honor for the county, and a great honor for our people will show their appreciation by giving the Governor an enthusiastic welcome. We expect, and still hear talked of, the great speech Governor Craig made here during the campaign four years ago. It was freely said at that time that it was the greatest political speech ever delivered in the county. No man in North Carolina is better prepared by information, interest and natural gifts to sound a key note speech for the opening battle in the determined campaign that Harnett County Democrats propose to inaugurate for the restoration of Harnett to the Democratic ranks to which it really belongs. We predict that there will be a great gathering in Lillington on April 22nd.—Harnett Reporter.

Poll Tax Time Again.

This is poll tax month. If he has not already paid it, no adult man can say he is an all-round American citizen at the end of this month unless he pays his poll tax between now and that time. For if the tax is not paid by the first day of May he will lose his right to vote.

What does it mean for a man in a country like this to lose his right to vote? It means, first of all, that he loses the greatest power a free man ever possessed. It means that by his neglect he tramples underfoot the Declaration of Independence and says to the world that it is a useless scrap of paper. It means that he is not interested in the promotion of the things which will insure the continued prosperity and progress of this great country. It means that he does not wish to have a hand in running the government under which he and his children and his children's children must live.

Now, the Journal does not believe that any citizen of North Carolina would willingly throw away a sacred right to gain which his fathers sacrificed so much. If by failure to pay his poll tax he permits himself to be disfranchised it will be because he isn't thinking. This paper's appeal to its readers, therefore, is to think. Don't forget that your tax must be paid by May 1st, in order that you may exercise the proud privilege which is yours—in order that you may be able to do your full duty as a citizen.—Winston-Salem.

Let me remind you not to expect too much. Remember in 1887 Raleigh, thirty miles away, was our trading point; that fire destroyed everything at the school in 1900; that we have no public funds, State or denominational, to draw upon; that the head of the school has had no superior talent or friends of wealth to call on. Just come along to see what God can do and meet, so I believe, the finest crowd of boys and girls gathered in the State, the sort to make great men and women. I am glad you are coming and that you are to be in our home here."

Of course one must needs visit a school which strikes as high and fine a note as this, and you, gentle reader, would as surely have answered that call out of the long leaf pines. It may be said here and now that the realization, after a visit to the school, exceeded all the anticipation and that Buie's Creek Academy is a real education factory, struggling all the time, poor always in money, in debt, in fact, but rich beyond your dreams in zeal, in hopefulness, in results.

The writer was telling stories to the teachers and pupils in the pitiful shack which they call the public school-house at Coats, in Harnett, about four miles from Buie's Creek, when Principal Campbell came for him, and the journey was made over an apology for a highway, a survival of the roads of fifty years ago, a cross between a nightmare, a mud-hole and a roller coaster. Township by township Harnett is now building roads and has some fine ones but the people in the Coats section not long ago did what they thought was a great stunt by "voting against the road" two to one, so now the unfortunate outsider who enters that zone pays the penalty of their folly by wallowing through mud and water. That four-mile ride from Coats to Buie's Creek is even exceeded in the roughness of road by the six-mile one from Buie's Creek to Lillington.

There are 485 pupils at Buie's Creek Academy, all the way from the first grade through the eleventh. The male boarding pupils live in homes or in clubs in the little village, at a cost of from $6 to $7.50 a month. The boarding girls in a recently built dormitory, at $10 to $11.50 a month. Some of the young men have lived in the clubs on $4 a month. There is no "high cost of living" at that place; forget it.

It was in 1887 that this school started, in a little wooden building 48x32 feet, the best citizens declaring that it was impossible to operate a five-month school. Professor Campbell, the pioneer, showed them it could be done. The next term another room had to be added. Five years later there came yet another, and then he was so daring as to buy an acre of land and build as annex a two-story wooden house, with a tower, this being occupied until 1898. Fifteen years ago fire swept all away and he had $100 left, but on the ground was a big wooden tabernacle, merely an open shelter, used at commencement time. This was boarded in and for three years was the school house. As rude as a barn it stands to this day and is used as an auditorium. Its unpainted sides tell the story and girls who ring true show when it comes to digging out an education. One day, soon after the fire, a committee composed of Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists came over from Sanford and urged Campbell to transfer the school to that town, promising all the money needed, but he said nay, because some people had built homes by reason of the school's existence and it would not treat them fairly to move it elsewhere. It was decided to rebuild on the spot and the girls took the lead of raising money to pay for cutting wood for use in burning the brick at forty cents a cord. The boys pitched in, the brick was made on the spot and in 1903 the present main building, of brick, was occupied, having cost about $25,000. Mr. M. C. Treat of Pennsylvania, made a contribution, though he had never seen the school, because the roughness of the quarters in the auditorium appealed to him, and he gave $500 to put on the roof. This is the largest contribution ever made to the school.

Mr. Treat did something more, for he gave $1,000 as a "starter" for a dormitory for girls, and this has been named for him and was occupied three years ago. It is steam-heated, while old-fashioned stoves are used in the other buildings, and it cost $18,000. Within the past few weeks a primary department building, of brick, has been occupied, this having cost $6,000, in it are the first four grades, and it is named for the late William Pearson, father of Mr. John S. Pearson, who was for some time a resident of Raleigh. Mr. Pearson died last May and he raised $350 used in building that first school house in 1887.

A really handsome church of brick with memorial windows, and a $2,000 organ, is on the school grounds and is almost complete, having been in several weeks. It is well to tell this plain way the story of the school, for it is the type of some of the North Carolina, begun by men with visions, with a definite purpose ahead; real education factories, plants turning out men and women which are going to make our North Carolina bigger, busier, better.

The writer talked to every class in the school, to all the primary children, to the pupils in the high school, and last of all, to the students and villagers in the crowded auditorium, about North Carolina, its pioneers in the past, men and women, and for the infinite demand now for more and yet more of pioneers of the real sort.

MORTGAGE SALE OF LAND

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed executed by W. T. Warren and wife, Alice Warren, to and underwritten, which mortgage deed is recorded in book 105 on page 225 records of Harnett county, default having been made in the payment of the debt thereby secured, the undersigned will sell to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door in Lillington, N. C., on Monday May 8th 1916 at 12 o'clock P. M. the following described lands:

Being a part of the land of the estate of John Smith, deceased, and being a part of lot No. 4 of the division of said land, beginning at a state with post oak and pine pointers in the line of lot No. 3 of said division 70 chains from the sycamore below the ferry, and runs with the line of lot No. 6, N 3 E, 17 chains and 80 links crossing the Bass Ferry road to a stake and pointers; then N 75 1/2 E 61 chains crossing the Bass Ferry road to a stake and pointers on the state road, a corner of lot No. 5; then at the road S 24 1/2 W 23.50 chains to a stake; then S 29 W 14 chains to the corner of No. 3 N 87 1/2 W 17 chains to the beginning containing 124 acres more or less. This being the same land conveyed to W. T. Warren by John Williams, Commissioner, by deed dated March 7th, 1902 and recorded in Book M. No. 5, page 469 records of Cumberland county.

This April 7th 1916.

TRIM STREET SUITS FOR SPRING AND SUMMER

One-Piece Frocks of Taffeta and Other Soft Silks Also Popular. Hip or Knee Length Jackets Favored.

New York, April 13th.—Although the fashions are still undergoing changes—and before summer is fairly here, we shall probably find many novelties which have as yet not put in an appearance—for street wear, at least styles are established. The panners, bustles, ruffles, wired hip pockets and other weird effects are relegated to the house for evening and afternoons. The Morning Walk on the Avenue.

THE BUSIEST SPOT IN TOWN

One is gratified at the simple, trim street suits and the smart little frocks of taffeta and other silks which greet our eyes in a morning walk on the Avenue. The jackets of the serge, gabardine, and novelty wool suits are hip or knee length, fitted well through the shoulders and at the waist, which is usually a trifle raised, and are finished with full basques. The skirts, many of them the comfort and becomingness of the simple one-piece frock of silk to let it disappear from view even for a summer. They are being used for the street, for the house, and for evening wear this season, being even more popular than for the past season or two. Plain, crisp taffetas are used in their fashioning, soft crepes, and crepe de Chine, foulards and printed silks in checked and flowered effects. Mme. Collet sends us a charming little model of plain navy blue taffeta, combined with Pompadour silk; it has a full gathered skirt of the plain blue, and a quaint corsage and bustle effect of the Pompadour silk. In its soft, delicate colorings. There is a quaint, laced bodice which lends a dainty touch. The sleeves and body portion of the waist, are of white lawn, and the belt-girdle is laced over the bust and held in place with shoulder straps.

There are any number of interesting sleeveless coats or three-piece dress effects which strongly appeal to many. These are of taffeta or satin, and are to a great extent replacing the short capes introduced a little earlier.

NOT FOR SELF

"An old man going a lone highway. Came at the evening cold and gray. To a chasm vast and deep and wide. The old man crossed in the twilight dim, The sullen stream had no fear for him; But he turned when safe on the other side And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near "You are wasting your strength with building here; Your journey will end with the ending day, You never again will pass this way; You've crossed the chasm deep and wide, Why build you this bridge at eventide?"

"The builder lifted his old grey head 'Good friend, in the path I have come,' he said, 'There followeth after me today, A youth whose feet must pass this way. This chasm that has been as naught to me, To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be; He, too, must cross in the twilight dim— Good friend, I'm building this bridge for him.'—Selected.

LILLINGTON INSTALLS MODERN UTILITIES

Lillington, April 14.—According to present expectations Lillington will have an up-to-date water, sewer and light system installed by August 1. An Atlantic construction company has the contract and is now unloading the material, several carloads of which have arrived. Next Tuesday the citizens of the town will vote on a bond issue of $15,000, the proceeds of which would be added to the fund of improvements. The indications are that the election will carry almost unanimously. With the contemplated improvements completed, Lillington will be one of the prettiest and cleanest towns in the State.

JOHNSON BROTHERS
 "The Store of Quality"
EAST BROAD ST. DUNN, N. C.

Adaptation of a Petret Model one of the circular gored models and hung full and gracefully from the top of a high inside belt. The effect of these jackets, worn with this type skirt, or with one of the numerous pleated models which are equally popular, is exceedingly smart; and more to the point, perhaps, most becoming to almost all types of figure. Styles Which Conceal Either Slenderness or Avardness.

The spring and summer styles, many of them, seem to be designed with the idea of concealing slenderness, but at the same time, fortunately, they serve equally well to conceal an overabundance of flesh. For instance, let us consider the fitted jacket, with waist raised slightly above the normal, and the full, fan-tail coat, pleated or flared; such a model, while softening to angles, also straightens out curves most effectively. These coats, originates by Mme. Paquin, will in all probability be the features of the spring and summer tailored suits of serge, linen, or novelty sport materials. The Charming Summer Silk Frocks We have too thoroughly enjoyed
