

The FIRST NATIONAL BANK

USED BECAUSE IT SERVES

---

The MILLION DOLLAR BANK

---

Every person who has money needs a bank—if for no other purpose than to provide a safe place for his surplus funds. This bank is a safe place. It is more than that, however. It combines with safety that service which only a good bank can give. It serves as a clearing house for the trade of the community. Through it comes the greater part of the money for the goods our merchants buy; the machines our manufacturers install; the materials with which our contractors build; into it comes funds to move our cotton, tobacco, corn and other farm products.

Without such an institution the community would be seriously hampered. Our lands would be less valuable; our town would cease to grow; our community would become stagnant; our trade would decline and our people would be without their principal agency for financial progress.

The First National serves you whether you are or are not its customer. You are either a direct or an indirect beneficiary of its success. It derives a keen degree of gratification from this service and asks that you help it to become of even greater help to you and to the community. You can do this by becoming one of our customers.

Come and let us talk it over.
