NOTICE: The country newspaper has a character and an individuality all its own. It occupies, however small, a position in the community which no other newspaper, however big, can displace. Without disparaging in the least the larger dailies, they can not, by their very nature, ever dispute the peculiar field which the country paper and it alone occupies. It has the place of an institution in the community life, a place all its own in the community heart, and it should have the loyal and whole-hearted community support. The Red Cross, in common with the rest of the nation, owes the country press a debt of gratitude for its work in the war and a full measure of appreciation for its value to America today. In special does the Southern Division of the Red Cross feel that the newspapers in the division merit the warmest regard of Red Cross members. They were most instrumental in making the Red Cross a power in the war, and today they are a prime factor in helping to maintain the Red Cross as a lasting influence for humanity's betterment.—Red Cross Magazine.

TWO KINDS OF JUNKETS: One of the last official acts of President Taft, before going into the turmoil of the 1912 campaign, was the appointment of Miss Julia Lathrop as head of the Children's Bureau. In making up the Republican campaign book for the year Miss Lathrop's appointment elbowed all the other accomplishments aside and led all the rest, Ben Adham fashions. When President Wilson was inaugurated, he promptly re-appointed Miss Lathrop and has shown in every way his desire that this department should have every facility to carry on its work. Politics has always been adjourned so far as this department has been concerned, and it has done a great and admirable work. It remained for Senator Smoot to throw a slur upon the head of this bureau with the statement that she was neglecting her work and spending Government money in a "junketing trip" to Czechoslovakia. In this attack he was only seconded by that noble patriot, Sherman of Illinois. The simple fact is that Miss Lathrop is going at the urgent request of the Czech-Slovak republic; that she pays her own expenses and has been granted a leave of absence for ninety days, during which time she will undoubtedly gain an invaluable experience, which will make her of even greater service. Moreover, she is to receive no salary during her absence. Columbia, having heard the story of the children, lends a noble woman to a struggling young republic, that she may help those who are too young, too feeble and too poor to help themselves. Presently Senators Smoot and Sherman will take ninety-day vacations, on full pay, with their franking privileges working overtime every minute, while they go out to spread abroad the glories of the Republican party and the splendor of the accomplishments of the Sixty-sixth Congress, and, incidentally, to urge upon their constituents the necessity for re-electing them. However, there is this difference between the Smoot-Sherman junkets and Miss Lathrop's trip abroad, made at her own expense.

THE COUNTRY PRESS: Among the many things which the war brought home to the nation was the big part played and the big influence wielded in American life by what—for want of a better term—is generally referred to as the small country newspaper. It occupies a time when the country editor is the butt of jokes and the object of ridicule. That time is past, gone, we believe, forever. The war helped to do it, for the war, as in many other instances, jolted the sophisticated and lazy national consciousness into the realization of the importance, the significance and the genuine worth of the country press. One of the proudest pages in the history of America's share in the war is that devoted to the universal and unswerving loyalty of its newspapers which, almost without exception, gave the most selfless sort of service to the common cause of the country. And of America's newspapers, the patriotism and service of none were more marked than that of the country papers. Their part cannot be overestimated; their reward is gaining recognition, which they were deserved, of an importance which they have always possessed and which will be theirs in a greater degree than ever henceforth.

CLINTON MEN MEET IN BEHALF OF ROAD: Over Hundred Assemble in Interest of Proposed Raleigh-Wilmington Line. Clinton, March 23.—An enthusiastic meeting of more than a hundred representative business men of Clinton and vicinity took the initiative this evening toward promotion of the Raleigh and Wilmington railroad. Every man present pledged his financial and moral support to the enterprise. C. C. Cashwell, representing the North Carolina Landowners' Association, pledged the backing of that vigorous body to the limit. A committee of ten was appointed to confer with various commercial bodies of Raleigh and Wilmington with the view of formulating plans of procedure. The determination to build is exceedingly strong, and no grass will grow under the feet of Clinton and Sampson people. The building of this line is not only the development of an empire, but a main thoroughfare to the seaside and thence northward.

WE MERELY WANT YOU TO KNOW THAT IN THIS STORE THIS SEASON YOU WILL FIND THE BEST AND LARGEST ASSORTMENT OF WEARING APPAREL OF EVERY NATURE FOR EVERY PERSON.

Bank That Wild Dollar

EVERY DOLLAR YOU WASTE GOES TO SOMEBODY'S SURPLUS ACCOUNT

- By all means purchase the things you and your family need.
-But when the needs are cared for, don't look around for something else to spend money for.
-Somebody is going to bank the money you spend foolishly. You might as well be the beneficiary.
-Prosperity comes from the free spending of money for essentials. High cost of living comes from the too free spending for the things that we do not need.
-The money you waste for non-essentials—things that you would be much better off for not having—would earn additional money for you in our Savings Department.
-The Savings Department is the "truck patch" of thrift. Properly cultivating it will develop a plantation of prosperity for you and your family.
-Every member of your family should have a savings account with us. The minds of little boys and little girls can be turned into the channels of thrift through the possession of a savings account to which they are trained to contribute a portion of their spending money each week.

Savings Deposits pay four per cent. interest, compounded every three months. A new period begins soon. Let us explain the system to you.
