

KENYON CALLS ON COX FOR ALL HIS EVIDENCE

But Cox Has Promised To Send "Steak Fund" Data To Read In Near Future

Dayton, O., Aug. 25.—Developments in connection with his charge that a "steak fund" of $15,000,000 was being raised for the Republican campaign and personal affairs today engaged Governor Cox, Democratic presidential candidate.

Governor Cox received a telegram from Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the senate campaign investigating committee, which resumed its sessions today at Chicago, requesting information. No reply was made by the governor as he had sent Senator Keod of Missouri, a Democratic member of the Kenyon committee, a telegram last night, promising to transmit information in the near future.

In addition to the information to be given to the committee, Governor Cox said tonight that he would make public other facts in his future addresses.

Declaring that he did not expect to testify before the senate committee, Governor Cox said:

"I will send matter to the committee later. All of the information I have will be given to the public and therefore I don't see any use in going before the committee. I think also that the committee will recognize that as a candidate I should give it out in such manner as I see fit, but I have no disposition, of course, to conceal anything from them that I have myself."

"I will give out my information as I think the public interest demands and I think I should be the judge as to when it is to be given."

Governor Cox added that no response had come from Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, to his request of yesterday for information regarding alleged division of the country by the Republicans into sub-divisions and imposition of contribution quotas upon each sub-division. Disposition of personal affairs preparatory to his departure tomorrow for another speaking tour occupied the governor largely today. He also spent some time posing for a motion picture organization and spent an hour on legal matters, he said, with his personal attorney.

THE HONESTY OF PRINTERS WITH COPY

By David Gibson, Magazine Publisher

In one particular, printers are absolutely honest.

This is the matter of information contained in copy entrusted to them. Go to any printer and offer to pay him for an advance proof of an advertisement, a report or even verbal information contained in any matter entrusted to him, and you'll get your head kicked off.

Advance information from the statements of corporations and the findings of legislative committees is of immense value in playing the stock market; there have been attempts to gain advance prices in department store advertising by a retailer, or news, in the possession of a newspaper and desired by a publisher. Some of these attempts have been made to build "underground passages" into the printing plants and operate them through printers, but none of them ever succeeded in my 25 years of knowledge of the printing industry.

The late Booth Thompson, who was at the head of the vocational training department of the International Typographical Union, 40 years a printer and universally beloved by the members of his trade and newspaper men generally, said that in his entire experience he has known of but one case of a printer betraying the trust of copy in his care, and that fellow did not remain a printer very long.

Even go in the composing room and show any curiosity about a piece of copy of the printer, and even though he may be a friend of yours, he will cover it up. Undertake to handle the copy and you will get your knuckles rapped.

No one ever told a printer that this was the course to pursue in such cases—no one of his elders ever took him aside when he entered the trade and gave him a moral lecture on the trust imposed on him; it is simply the air of the trade and is, therefore, the strongest tradition of the trade.

That is the story of Clean Easy Household Wash Soap. From every part of the country women are enthusiastic in its praise.

As they are right! There never has been anything like Clean Easy for household housework. Just think—no scrubbing, no scrubbing, no scrubbing, without rubbing or scrubbing, and for only a few cents!

Did you ever hear of anything like it? Here's all that's necessary: Soak the clothes overnight. Cut up a bar of Clean Easy into the shape of water. Then let clothes dissolve and put in clothes. considerable belt work that such tractors have been found of greatest value.

The place, however, where these tractors are especially adapted is on the truck farm, in the orchard and on the small farm—or what might be termed the "one-horse" farm. A great many folks who have from five to ten or even fifteen acres under cultivation, find these tractors especially desirable, because they can be used to break the ground, harrow it and cultivate the crop.

In this issue of the Progressive Farmer will be found illustrations of several of these small tractors, and the person who is doing truck farm work, or farming on a small scale will do well to investigate these small machines, because, even if they are small, they are capable of doing excellent work.

These small tractors cost very little more than a high class mule. They do not consume large quantities of gasoline or oil, and a great many who have had experience with them contend that for cultivating a few acres on a small farm, a few acres on a truck farm or orchard, the upkeep is

Small or One-horse Tractor Has Met Great Success

Garden or one-horse tractors are receiving quite a bit of favorable comment from a great many people in the South. There are several different makes, all of which are designed primarily for use on small farms, truck farms, orchards, etc.

These small tractors are made to pull one plow bottom only and can be depended upon to pull as much as one horse will pull. However, under favorable conditions they will pull much more. They have been used quite successfully on many farms for breaking ground, harrowing and cultivating.

These small tractors are also especially adapted to doing various kinds of belt work that do not require a large amount of power. They can be so geared up as to run the churn, cream separator, grindstone, lawn mower, small wood saw and various other pieces of light machinery. In fact it is on those farms that have

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so listless I could hardly go to all."

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish."

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset. I couldn't rest well at night and was just lifeless."

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . ."

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my housework."

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

Again the old man replied, "The doctor angrily pulled him forward till his nose almost touched the placard."

"Well, can you read it now?"

"No, sir," said the old man, sadly shaking his head. "You see, sir, I never learnt to read!"

President Wilson's health is best judged by the fact that his physician, Rear Admiral Grayson, has gone on a vacation far from Washington without leaving a substitute medical guide at the White House. "The President is doing more and better work than any man in Washington," says Secretary of State Cully.

"The Venus of Carthage," a marble figure discovered by Italian soldiers excavating near the site of ancient Carthage was secretly carried to a Roman museum where it is being admired because of its perfect form. The statue represents a much younger woman than the Venus of Milo.

NO WONDER

The old man was applying at the eye hospital for some spectacles and the doctor was making a test of his eyes.

A card was fixed on the wall a little distance away from where the old man was sitting and the doctor asked him:

"Can you read that, my man?"

"No, sir," said the old man. "I can't!"

The doctor told him to go nearer.

"Well, can you read it now?"

How is the Solid Truck Tire Buyer Going to Get What He Wants

ANY man who does his hauling on trucks equipped with solid tires knows what abuse does to them.

Faced as he is with the continual necessity for economy operation, he has to find tires that will stand up under severe duty without severe expense.

We might have picked out another solid truck tire instead of the U. S.—but what we were looking for was a tire built for road and hauling conditions as they actually exist.

With United States Solids, built of grainless rubber—non-splitting—with rubber and base band chemically joined—ending base separation—goes our personal service that reckons the truck owner's time as money and proper advice as something he is entitled to at all times.
