UNAPPRECIATED NORTH CAROLINA

The state department of agriculture is getting out a great advertising poster, giving in brief certain facts about North Carolina that every citizen ought to know. Particularly worth while is its fact that North Carolina is one of the few states that has certain important advantages in which she is exceeded by no commonwealth; one of these in the individual wealth of the white population. Yet some people have the nerve to lament the poverty of North Carolina.

According to the department North Carolina ranks first among all the states in the following particulars:
Production of cotton to the acre.
Value of the tobacco crop.
Production of soy beans.
Home economics and development of woman's work.
Individual wealth of the white population.
The same authority announces that she holds second place in the following:
Value of farm crops per acre.
Value of farm crops per capita.
Amount of cotton goods manufactured.
We are third in production of sweet potatoes and of peanuts, fourth in value of all crops; and sixth in amount of money paid into the federal treasury as well as in earnings of individual citizens.

As sure as you are a foot high—you will like this Camel Turkish and Domestic blend!

YOU never got such cigarette-contentment as Camels hand you. Camels quality and expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic Tobaccos make this goodness possible—and make you prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

Camels mellow-mildness is a revelation! Smoke them with freedom without tiring your taste! They leave no unpleasant cigarette aftertaste nor unpleasant cigarette odor!

Give Camels every test—then compare them puff-for-puff with any cigarette in the world!

Camels are sold everywhere... M. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. Winston-Salem, N. C.

And all authorities agree that, even now, North Carolina has no more than well begun the exploitation of her potential resources. The same poster calls attention to the fact that there are in the eastern part of the state 2,400,000 acres of rich swamp land now being formed into drainage districts, most of which is capable of producing two crops a year; that in the west is one of the finest apple regions in all America. The poster doesn't mention it, but all men know that the apple industry has never been thoroughly organized, and that when it is organized, North Carolina apples will bring into the state many times the sums that are now received. The poster does, however, mention the hardwood of the west and the loblolly pine of the east, as well as the mineral wealth, which has hardly been touched.

Most strange it is that with all this before him, a North Carolina boy should ever be tempted to go west to better his fortunes. He would not, if the state had advertised its opportunities with the energy and skill that the western states have used.—Greensboro News.

CERTAIN ELECTION FIGURES (Greensboro News)

We have received from a friend in High Point a request for certain political information which we believe will interest a great enough proportion of our readers to deserve a public reply. The High Point man's letter was in part as follows:
"Did Woodrow Wilson in the presidential election in 1916 carry any of the eastern states? Was he elected without the electoral vote of New York state? Please name the states that Wilson carried in 1916 and the electoral vote received by him. No, Mr. Wilson did not carry any of the eastern states in 1916. He was elected without the electoral vote of New York. He received 277 out of the 531 votes in the electoral college, giving the vote of the following states: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Wyoming. Mr. Wilson also received one of the eight votes of West Virginia, owing, as we recall, to the death of one of the Republican electors. New Hampshire, which Wilson won by 56 votes, is listed, not as an eastern, but as a New England state. We take advantage of the opportunity to answer another question which has been asked several times lately, namely, what is the strength of the "solid south," and how much outside support must a Democratic candidate have in order to be elected? The question is a little difficult to answer, because there is always "solid south." Kentucky, for instance, is pre-dominantly Democratic, but anything but "solid." At this moment it is wabbling dangerously. However, there are 11 states that have returned Democratic majorities so consistently that there is little question raised as to the accuracy of terming them "the solid south." These are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. Their combined electoral vote is 136. Pretty nearly any Democratic candidate may figure on starting with that number. To be elected, however, he must garner from the rest of the country 130 more. If we add to the solid south the wabbling south, namely Kentucky, Missouri and Maryland, 175, and the candidate has only 31 more to seek. Arizona and New Mexico generally go Democratic, and their total of six votes would reduce the shortage to 85. But from there on, the Democratic candidate must really fight for all he gets.

FAY GROWERS SHOULD NEVER BUY NOR SELL

Virginia Farmers would wait Until they have a good price for their cotton. Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 21.—Four hundred planters from 11 counties of Piedmont Virginia in session here today adopted resolutions that it is "undesirable for growers to buy or sell any commodities of any character whatever until there has been a readjustment of prices. The resolutions set forth that manufacturers will not reduce prices until they have disposed of all articles manufactured from raw materials purchased when prices were higher, thus compelling the producers to and all the loss of the process of reduction of prices. An organization was formed to affiliate with the Virginia-Carolina Tobacco Growers Association.

HEART OF ARTICLE X. The Promise — "The Members of the League undertake to respect, and preserve as against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all Members of the League." The Plan—In case of any such aggression, or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled. For over seventy years we have "respected" the "territorial integrity" of Canada and Mexico. Why not the rest of the World? A bank with $1,000,000 capital has been organized by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The Liberty Offers Even Better Value

The New Series Liberty has such pronounced mechanical soundness that a comparison of present day market values again convincingly demonstrates our policy of building only the highest quality cars at the lowest possible price.

The Liberty has established itself with thousands of users as a distinctly good car.

The New Liberty Motor—exclusively a Liberty production—used for the first time in this Series, has established records for economy in gasoline and oil consumption, with an excess reserve power which makes the performance of the car unusually different.

We ask the opportunity of demonstrating the New Series Liberty Car to you.

In view of its quality, present Liberty prices are decidedly worth-while news:
