John Deen, characterized as a "Bad Nigger," was this morning sentenced to serve six months on the roads when he appeared before Judge Smith under charge of having toted a wicked gun. John was pinched in a negro restaurant last night following complaint that he had appeared to be on the way path for the chief of police. He made a grab for his gun when arrested, but the cops were too quick for him. It is thought that he is a partner of Archie McAllister, the negro who was shot earlier in the day while fleeing from the police.

We are by the San Antonio papers that our William C. Lee is commanding one of the companies in the battalion of the second division that won all honors last year. Lee is a native of the American army. "Bill," as most of our folk know him, is a son of Squire Eldridge Lee and a brother to our good postmaster. He has been in the army since the outbreak of the big war, spent several months in Germany, after the fight was won, and came home last year. Since last fall he has been down in Texas showing the rest of the army how to make a crack outfit out of the doughboys he found in his company. In another part of this issue we reprint what a Santa Fe paper said about Bill's outfit.

With Girard, Wilson home from the University and playing first base and Doyle Stewart of Raleigh pitching, Dunn beat the Empire State team by the score of 15 to 5 in the local lot Saturday afternoon. Cap'n Girard went down first three batters, and with a clean-cut to deep center for three bases.

The local boys looked better in Saturday's performance than they have on any previous occasion this year. They probably would have held the visitors, scoreless had they not gotten a formidable lead in the beginning. Stewart held the visitors to five hits in the seven innings he pitched. Three of these came in the seventh and were responsible for three of the runs. A little faster fielding in the outer ranges, however, would have killed two of these.

"The Southern Cinderella" is the title of a play to be presented in Metropolitan Theatre Wednesday night by the Dunn Graded School Faculty. Proceeds are to be turned into the fund being raised for further beautification of the public school grounds. Misses Turberville, Thomas, Perkins, Carroll, Ippock, Ellis and Ballard are included in the cast of characters.

Dr. J. R. Butler has been appointed dentist to all ex-servicemen. Any man who was in the armed service of the nation during the war is entitled to free dental service and will be served by Dr. Butler whenever such service is needed. Dr. Butler requests us to invite all such to visit his office whenever their teeth need attention.

Millions of Dollars Destroyed By Tornado

No further reports of deaths but property loss mounting to millions.

Birmingham, April 17.—While no further reports of deaths have been received from the Alabama area swept by Sunday's wind, property and crop damage figures have mounted until the estimates are placed at many millions of dollars. Houses and barns were wrecked by the hundreds and much freshly plowed farm land was washed flat by overflowed streams.

Information received in Birmingham tonight from Wapleville says the damage in that vicinity will total a quarter of a million dollars. Twenty-five houses there were demolished and a large number of others badly damaged. Several persons were injured.

Telegraph and telephone lines which were blown down are being repaired and the debris in the various communities is being cleared.

In Birmingham the street and electric services have been restored. In some sections of the city street paving was washed away. A large number of local telephones are still out of commission although long distance lines are again in operation. Numerous buildings were wrecked or damaged here, and trees and telegraph poles were blown over in all sections of the city. Down town streets were not badly damaged.

THE WOMAN IDEA OF QUALIFICATIONS FOR MAYOR

Nearly all the towns and cities in North Carolina are talking about electing a woman, or have been. It is a matter of utmost importance to every community to choose as its chief executive a man with vision, brains, courage and character. Either one of these qualities is excellent, but no man should make a good city leader until he has all four. Of course the foundation stone is character. Unless a quality man is often himself he cannot expect to win the respect of his fellow citizens. He must look ahead and plan for big things. Raleigh received its chief stimulus when it had faith a dozen years ago to build the auditorium found in any city of its size in the country. That was due to vision plus brains to translate the vision.

For the first time this year the women will take part in selecting city officers. After all, government, particularly municipal government, is largely a matter of housekeeping. How shall city housekeeping be made good? That is a question women are asking themselves all over the country. A few days ago leading women in New York, including such leaders as Mrs. Catt and Miss Hay, gathered to talk about this matter in the great metropolis. Miss Hay said what the women wanted—(and good men wish the same everywhere) is a mayor, are the qualities which the enumerated as follows:

First, I should say, women want a fearless man. When I say fearless I do not mean pugnacious and tactless. A fearless man is one who is not cowed by his party or its bosses, or by the big interests, not deterred from doing his duty because it may have possible unpleasant consequences as regards his own political career.

Second, women want a man fitted to perform the duties of his office. We do not believe in putting a plumber in a minister's place, nor do we expect an editor to function well as a carpenter. A man who is elevated to the mayoralty should have had experience in public life should understand the problems of our big metropolis, have an insight into its needs and should be desirous of promoting its best interests.

Third, women want an honest man. No matter how intelligent a man may be, if he lacks common, ordinary honesty, he is a menace to our government.

Fourth, women want a dignified man, one who will stand before the world as a fitting representative of the biggest city in the country.

Fifth, women want a progressive man, one who can look ahead, who has vision to see what the growth of the city is to be, who plans for posterity as well as for the present.

Sixth, women want a man who respects the opinions of others, who is willing to consult others better informed than himself, and works well with others. That he may choose wisely the heads of city departments, he must be a man who recognizes ability when he sees it.

Seventh, and this above all, women want a man who is devoted to the city who places its interests above those of his party and above his personal ambitions.

Where will you find a better summary of the qualifications for a city chief executive? The proper emphasis she places on honesty. "No matter how intelligent a man may be," she says, "if he lacks common, ordinary honesty he is a menace to our government."

You cannot gather grapes from thorns or figs from thistles. You cannot secure clean and honest administration except from clean and honest men. Given a man of unclean life, and no matter what his promises, he will fall down at the very time when he must stand erect. A man with a shady life carries with him the inability to serve with cleanliness and courage.

ANDY COLLINS, VETERAN OF WORLD WAR, LAID TO REST IN HIS NATIVE SOIL SUNDAY

Probably the largest attendance at any funeral in recent times in Harnett county was that which paid last respect to the remains of Andy Collins at Olive Branch Sunday. Soldier Collins was killed in France on November 8, 1918. He was a member of the 81st division.

The remains were escorted to Lillington by Private Joe Reese, Co. H, 88th Infantry, Camp Meade, Md. The casket and fallen hero arrived Saturday morning. Members of the local post American Legion made arrangements for a military funeral to be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock and members of the Legion were seen once more to don the khaki to pay tribute to the Cause, the Flag, the Soldier. Guns were secured from Camp Bragg for firing the salute at the grave.

It is estimated that fully twelve hundred people witnessed the funeral ceremony and interment. Olive Branch cemetery. Although the weather was threatening, the people did not hesitate to honor the soldier who fell in the discharge of his duty to his country.—Harnett County News.

Prepared to launch a terrific attack upon profiteering landlords, five carloads of militant tenants from Chicago arrived in Springfield recently. Upon their arrival they formed a line and paraded to the capital waving banners and placards designed to produce the proper effect upon the members of the legislature.

SAMPSON'S HUCKLEBERRY CROP RUINED BY RECENT SPELL OF COLD WEATHER
(Clinton, April 16.—Calamity has befallen old Sampson. There was the most promising crop of huckleberries seen in a quarter of a century and they were woefully advanced for the season. It is probable that the crop would have brought into the county nearly a quarter of a million dollars, but this hope of an influx of spring and summer money is blighted. The frost of Monday night last simply wiped out the whole prospect and dead berries could be gathered by the handful on Tuesday and Wednesday. The peach crop seems not to have suffered so complete a loss, yet it is probable that a great part of those that appear to survive the ordeal will fall off before maturity. Likewise the grapes have suffered irreparable disaster, the vines in many cases appearing as if scorched by fire.
