30th. This is the first real circus of the season and the second to show in Dunn for several years. The press notices lead one to believe that the show is the real thing and a large crowd is expected here on that day. It is rather early in the season, but most folks will go to a circus whether they have the money to spare or not. A Union picnic was held at Stewart's pond, five miles north of Dunn Wednesday afternoon. All the Sunday schools in Dunn were represented, making the crowd present an unusually large one. Automobiles were used for transporting the crowd to the pond, furnished by members of the various churches of the city. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and several games indulged in. Every minute of the time spent at the pond seemed to be thoroughly enjoyed and all returned home well pleased with the outing. A revival service will begin at the Duke Baptist church next Sunday morning, August 28th. The pastor, Rev. A. H. Porter, will be assisted by Evangelist H. T. Stevens, and A. E. Mr. Stevens is well known in Harnett county and throughout Eastern Carolina, where he has established a reputation as an able preacher and successful evangelist. Mr. Lynch is also well known as a splendid choir leader and will be of great assistance in the meeting. The public is cordially invited to attend the services. Perry Morgan, Field Secretary for North Carolina of the B. Y. P. U. moved his family to Raleigh last week where he has established permanent headquarters. MARKETING DRIVE IN HARNETT IS CONTINUED Lillington, Aug. 21.—Through the campaigning efforts of J. B. Swain, of the Department of Agriculture, practically all of the districts in Harnett County have signed co-operative marketing contracts. All of the districts have responded in numbers aggregating 50 per cent of the growers. The signing is continuing each day, and Mr. Swain states that he is confident that Harnett County will make as good showing as any county in the State when the final wind-up comes. Some districts have signed 90 per cent of the growers. At a general co-operative meeting here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock evidence was shown that the co-operative idea was a solid thought in the minds of the farmers of Harnett County. To use a phrase of the street, Mr. Swain has sold the co-operative marketing idea to the growers of this county, and they are "on" it. Well attended meetings have been held at Dunn and other points in the county. Mr. Swain will be in the county for at least two weeks yet. THOUGHTS ON CIRCUS DAY Tomorrow is Sunday and you're almost on the edge of a new week. The church in the morning, and dinner and lots of things, but along round the middle of the afternoon comes a time when you can dress a bit and think a bit, and thinking a bit perhaps you unconsciously lay out your plans a mite for the coming week. That's right! Very well, then, re-huge mouth that the trainer may place his entire head on the inside; and the crowning feat of the complete subjugation of these ferocious beasts comes when the trainer, with bare hands, feeds them rare tidbits of raw meat. One who knows of the savage instincts displayed by these terrible cats when feeding in their natural state can gain some conception of the wonderful character of this unparalleled feat. It may well be said that though they have not the gift of speech that is the only thing lacking to make these trained wild beasts the equal of human thespians. — Press Agent. member this, your "pa" who goes it lickety-split six days a week at the office, and you "ma", who cooks and preserve and mend little clothes, you must plan for some play as well as some work—and you'll work better and happier for playin' a bit now and then. So in making your plans for a bit of play just remember that on Tuesday August 30th the Walker L. Main Shows will give two performances at Dunn. Known as "America's Best Shows" it offers all that is now in vogue. There are clowns galore to make you laugh. Strange animals in the mammoth menagerie to marvel at, thrilling aerial acts, skilled horsemen and women, acrobatic marvels flying human butterflies, and a host of other good things too numerous to mention. At noon the big spectacular street parade will pass through the streets. It is a riot of colors and over three hundred horses take part in the display. Most of them encased in silver armor. All that the modern circus has come to be included in the Main Show while in most respects it is recognized as the leader. —Press Agent. TRAINED WILD ANIMALS That Were Trapped and Trained Have Become Clever Circus Performers More beautiful by far than painter's brush could portray are the picturesque groupings of trained wild animals exhibited and performing for public safety within the confines of a huge steel girder arena at the Walker L. Main circus, in Dunn August 30th. They form heroic pictures almost beyond the pale of mortal man's conception. Here we see the trainer's wondrous art of subjugation demonstrated to the highest state of mental and physical possibility. The biblical injunction that the lion and the lamb should lie down together is here exemplified on a scale so broad that it passes understanding. Great natural implacable foes of forest, jungle and frozen wastes are seen gathered together in amicable union, their inherent hatred or one another transformed into animal love by the gentle teachings and precepts of man. We see presented the incredible spectacle of the harmonious housing of once ferocious and lordly lions, fierce Bengal tigers, crafty and cunning leopards, snarling and snarling pumas, great rapacious polar bears, and magnificent and lovable Great Dane dogs. The trainer enters the enormous steel cage and the animals answer his bidding in awesome and sensational stunts. Colossal pyramids and graceful and beautiful tableaux are formed, the jungle terrors, the tigers, playfully engage in a game of see-saw, with a Great Dane dog balancing the board and furnishing the motive power; another tiger rides a tricycle propelled by the dogs; leopards and polar bears frolic together and do rolling a balancing stunts on barrels and chairs; lions and tigers convert themselves into a soft and downy couch upon which the trainer reclines in peaceful repose; the entire group gather around a festal board with the trainer as host, and a monster lion and lioness in the places of honor on either side; the largest tiger presently opens his

A sufficient quantity of sweet potatoes for home use can be grown under a wide range of conditions, but when the crop is to be produced commercially the soil, climate, and market should be carefully considered. Sweet potato is propagated by plants or slips and by vine cuttings. The plants are produced by sowing the seed potatoes in warm sand. The cuttings are made in the field after the plants begin to vine. When bottom heat is necessary for growing the plants the hotbed can be heated with manure, by fire, or by steam or hot-water pipes. In the improved methods of growing and storing the crop are employed good returns are realized. The sweet potato is propagated by plants or slips and by vine cuttings. The success of the crop in the field will depend largely upon the way the plants start off after being removed from the plant bed, and set in the field or garden. Sweet potatoes should be harvested carefully and graded and packed in attractive packages in order to insure profitable returns.
