

COUNTY SING IS GREAT SUCCESS AT LILLINGTON

Thousands of People Flock To The County Seat For First Sing

DUNN CONTESTANTS WIN THREE OF FOUR PRIZES

Singing Class Representing Averasboro Township Wins Second Prize of $25 In Choir Contest And Dunn Quartette And Fiddler Win Out "Red Letter Day" For Harnett.

Song in all its glory held full sway in the little county seat of Harnett yesterday. Lillington threw open all her doors and welcomed about six thousand people, swarming from all parts of the county, to listen to Harnett first county wide community sing which was staged by Miss Mamie F. Camp, director of Community service work, in celebration of Labor Day. Pronounced success marked Harnett's first sing. It was a day of jubilee, harmony, melody, a day of pleasure and joy.

The songfest lasted from about ten o'clock in the morning till late afternoon, and choirs representing townships in the county, quartettes representing towns, and fiddlers representing communities, rendered selection after selection, competing for the many prizes offered. In spite of the hot, sweltering weather, which was augmented by the huge crowd of people that overflowed Harnett's county seat, the choirs and songsters were at their best. Trained for weeks for the event there was not one township that failed to make a creditable showing, and the big warehouse, prepared by Lillington's energetic people, was filled at all times during the singing, with many standing on the outside, catching old and familiar strains of wonderful song.

Dunn Figures Prominently
Bringing back three of the four largest prizes, the singing class representing Dunn and Averasboro Township figured prominently in the sing and was the real leader. The silver loving cup won by Nell's Creek township, which is the township of Baptists and Bule's Creekers, with the Academy and the Campbell's. The second prize of $25 went to the Dunn class, led by Casper Warren. The third prize of $15 went to Barbours who had the most ambitious class of the day, and who, perhaps, received the biggest ovation of applause of any.

Those were the prizes for the big choir contest. Dunn had a wonderful choir. It had been trained by Mrs. Harper Holliday and Dr. J. R. Butler, and many of Dunn's best singers were there. A majority of the choir of the Baptist church were present, with the "curtison quartette," composed of Bob Warren, "Shoggy" Denning, "Bill" Newberry, and Ed Lee. This aggregation of youthful voices rendered a mixed selection of love, wit, and pathos, and for their work they received a huge full of applause.

In the regular quartette contest, Dunn took the first prize, with Casper Warren, G. W. Gardner, George E. Prince and T. J. Daniels singing. In the fiddler's contest, L. G. Jackson of Dunn came through and captured the prize of $5.

Clifford Awards Prizes
"Ladies and gentlemen, this has been a great day for our county," said J. C. Clifford of Dunn, in making the awards of the contests. "I have been more or less identified or at least an observer in all the important events of our county for the past quarter of a century. This has been a red letter day in the history of Harnett," he continued.

Mr. Clifford paid a tribute to all the singing classes in presenting the prizes, and declared that all had made a wonderful showing. He was of the opinion that song is one of the best things we have. "No man can be a criminal if he sings as he goes, no man can be lazy if he works as he goes," declared the Dunn attorney.

The judges of the events were Dr. W. C. Horton, Raleigh; W. F. Blount, Fayetteville; Miss Beatrice Byrd of Greensboro; Mrs. E. M. Hall, Benson; Dr. J. H. Highsmith, Raleigh. Speaking in behalf of the judges Dr. Highsmith said: "I congratulate everybody who has been taking part in this singing event." He then stated that the judges were well pleased with the singing that had taken place, which had been of a high order, and he declared that the event was a pronounced success.

Dr. Highsmith made two suggestions with reference to singing in Harnett in the future. First he would have each township co-operate with the other in singing training, and second he wanted each township also to send at least one boy and one girl to school every year to get singing training. The idea of co-operation was the theme of Dr. Highsmith's interesting talk, and he believed that co-operation in the salvation of all our enterprises. He paid North Carolina a great tribute, but mourned over our standing in education. Tell the people they must come up," Dr. Highsmith commanded. "Tell them they must come up till they are first in the greatest republic on the face of the earth."

Directed by Hoffmeister
Staged by Miss Camp of the Harnett Community Service, the county sing was directed by Roy L. Hoffmeister, community service director of New York city, who was the life and the live wire of the program. Mr. Hoffmeister led the congregational

COURT OPENS TO-DAY

"They shall be allowed to sing," was the reply of Judge E. H. Cramer to pleas by Lillington citizens yesterday to have court opening postponed till today on account of the Harnett Community Sing, in celebration of Labor Day. With this plea the request made by Sheriff Bill McArtan, and Harnett Superior Court opens its two weeks session this morning, when Judge Cramer will discuss liquor, good roads, and the usual subjects in his charge to the jury.

One of the principle cases of interest to Dunn citizens that will come up in this term of court is the controversy between the town of Dunn and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad over the property of Lucknow Square. The history of this case is well known to Dunn people, and the ladies still declare that if the square is won by the town they will carry out their original plans of beautification, which would mean so much to the city.

Godwin and Williams are counsel for the town in the case and feel confident of victory.

DUNN SCHOOLS WILL OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 14

Professor Snipes Optimistic Over The Prospects For Coming School

Wednesday, September 14, is the day set for the opening of the Dunn public schools, according to an announcement by W. S. Snipes, who will be superintendent of the schools the coming session. Professor Snipes is very optimistic over prospects for the opening of the schools and believes that the enrollment will be of record size.

All plans have been completed for the school's opening, and the teachers will arrive a few days before the opening date. B. H. Bunn, a Franklin county man, who will be the principal of the schools here this session, will arrive this week and will assist Professor Snipes in opening the schools. Mr. Bunn was principal of the Taber state high school last session, and is a young man, highly recommended.

Names of the teachers with a full account of the planned opening of the school will be given in the next issue of the Dispatch. Professor Snipes who is superintendent of the Fayetteville schools for seven years has moved his family here.

BILLION WILL BE LOANED FARMERS

War Finance Corporation Making Plans For Advancing Billion Dollars

Washington, Sept. 5.—Preparations for advancing upwards of a billion dollars in agricultural and livestock credits under recent legislation have virtually been completed by the War Finance Corporation, officials said tonight. The corporation, which will be ready within the next week or so to function under its enlarged powers designed to afford needed credit relief to the farmers, it was said.

To expedite the advances, executive committees are being formed in agricultural and stock raising sections of the West and South and will attend to preliminary details of applications, making the necessary investigations and determining the adequacy of securities offered. Ten or fifteen such committees are being formed now and others will be added as the amount of loans in the different localities warrants.

The corporation's policy for financing advances, officials asserted, has not yet been definitely decided, but it is believed that little of the $400,000,000 balance with the treasury will be used for agricultural credits. Details may be made on the treasury side, but as soon as the volume of needed credits can be gauged it is believed the corporation will begin issuing its own bonds.

Current operations of the corporation in financing experts are being carried on almost exclusively out of a revolving fund authorized and established by the repayments being made on the approximately $100,000,000 in advances now outstanding.

GOLDIE BY NAME, GOLD MINE BY NATURE, WAS LAME COW

Before a certain Missouri farmer joined the cow-testing association, report specialists of the United States department of agriculture, he owned a good herd in which was an old crippled cow named "Goldie." At that very time the owner was trying to sell her for $75. To his surprise the $200 test not only placed poor, old, crippled Goldie at the head of the whole, but at the head of the whole, as shown by the records was 9,300 pounds of milk and 526 pounds of butter fat, and her yearly earning over cost of feed was $267. Goldie belonged to a herd whose average yearly butter fat production was 340 pounds, yet she was almost 50 per cent above the average of the herd, to the average daily cow of the country. Among the cows on test in the 456 cow testing associations are many like Goldie. The true production records furnished by cow-testing associations have prevented the sale of a large number of unassuming but fairly high producing cows.

WILL HAYS WANTS NAMES PUBLISHED

Public May Get Look - In At Names of Applicants For Jobs As Postmasters

(By Edward E. Britton.)
Washington, Sept. 2.—There are indications that the public is to be allowed to get a look-in at the names of the applicants for postmaster positions under the President Harding executive "Civil Service" plan of examination for the position, the plan that is understood to be so pliable as to warrant the belief that the winner will be a Republican. Heretofore, the Civil Service Commission has declined to give out for publication either the names of the applicants, the ranking of the examination or the three topmost who get the designation of "eligibles." There have been inquiries from newspapers and others as to the names, but the officials have been stony hearted and no names were given.

Hays Orders Publicity
Postmaster General Hays has given the information that he has asked the Civil Service Commission to furnish the newspapers with the names of the applicants for postmaster examinations, and following the examination of the papers to give the names of the three who are in the lead. He has been urged from time to time to do this, and especially to have made public the names of the three from whom the choice for postmaster is to be made in order that the patrons of the postoffice might be able to give their views to the Postmaster General as to the relative merits of the three. It is understood that the Civil Service Commission is ready to comply with the request to make public the names of the three eligibles for the postmaster at any given place, it is backing the proposition to give the full list of applicants because of the large number of names that it would be forced to handle.

General Carr Talks
While on his visit to Washington yesterday General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, spoke freely of the matter of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress at-large in case the State was not restricted when the reapportionment members of the House of Representatives is arranged by Congress. All the indications now are that the membership of the next House will be either 435 or 450, and in either case North Carolina will gain one additional member. Asks about the matter of his candidacy, General Carr said: "I am practicing a policy of watchful waiting. While, of course, it is necessary that there be an additional representative from North Carolina made, yet I am reasonably sure that if the Congressmen at-large to be nominated, I will carry every Congressional district in the State. The truth is, my friends throughout North Carolina feel so sanguine in the matter and express themselves in such terms to me about it that I believe that I would carry almost automatically." General Carr is in health, and says he is feeling all right and looks it.—News and Observer.

SMITHFIELD PREPARED FOR TOBACCO SEASON

Three Large Warehouses Improved For What Promises To Be Banner Year

Smithfield, Sept. 2.—The farmers and business men of Johnston county have combined their money and energy for the purpose of building up the best tobacco market in this section of the State. The Smithfield facilities here for handling the crop this year have been improved and greater number of buyers are slated to come to this point. Tobacco experts say this section has the best crop of tobacco raised in this part of the State in many years. The large concerns want this type of tobacco this year and it is believed they are going to pay good prices for it.

There are three large warehouses in this city in charge of expert tobacco men who have worked harder this season for the success of the market than ever. They say this is going to be the banner year.

Smithfield has two large redrying plants, which will be of great help to hold prices up during the season. The T. S. Ragadale Tobacco Company and the F. R. Edmondson Tobacco Company both have large plants in the city.

The Imperial Tobacco Company will be the buyer here for the opening sale and the Export and all other representative companies will have their men present. Indications are there will be keen bidding.

The season opens Tuesday, September 6th, and all indications point to Smithfield's most successful season. It is planned to make it "Raise it Here—Sell it Here" year and all business men of the county are co-operating with the farmers to make the county seat the best tobacco market in the State.

The merchants of the city are making special sales during the week of the opening and all the various rest rooms are being put in shape for the farmers wives. The Chamber of Commerce, which will have a man following the sales daily, will make a complete study of prices on this market as compared with other places.

COL. GEO. M. ROSE SUFFERS SLIGHT STROKE PARALYSIS

Fayetteville, Sept. 4.—Geo. M. Rose, of Fayetteville, dean of the Cumberland County Bar association, while on business in Goldsboro Friday suffered a slight stroke of paralysis, but was able to return to his home. There is slight change in his condition today and the physicians hope for a speedy recovery. Colonel Rose is now and has been division counsel for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad company for a great number of years.

PARDON IS SOUGHT FOR FRED DENNING

Former Dunn Boy Comes Home And Is Still In Trouble

Dunn, Sept. 4.—"Honey, why didn't you tell me of this?" sobbed a sweet-faced little woman who knelt, clasping to her breast a crippled, pale boy-faced man who had just been brought to the town jail by Policeman Page and Mopper.

"I couldn't, honey, I knew it would hurt you so, and I had planned to live straight, work hard and make you proud. The money I got was for my little Fred Denning who escaped from the state farm after serving a 12-month sentence for robbing a local veterinarian.

It is a pathetic case. When the boy committed the crime he was little more than a half-wit and suffering from paralytic insanity. He had staked in the price of a bed and dinner in Charleston, S. C., several months before. One other boy was implicated in the robbery. Through the influence of relatives and friends, however, the other escaped punishment. Little Fred had many friends, but they were impatient when his time came for sentence.

So he was carried away to state prison—one foot dragging and an arm swinging loose. Atillery he won the confidence of his keepers. They liked him and he was made a trusty. One day he decided to escape or die in the waters of the Roanoke. He dived in and much to his surprise, succeeded in swimming to safety. Beyond the woods on the other side he found an old suit of clothes draped on the form of a scare crow in a corn field. These he appropriated. After several days he found his way to the home of friends in Hertford County.

After a year of an liberty Fred regained the use of his limbs. A little while later he found his way to the Pacific coast where he worked at various jobs and became moderately successful. In Los Angeles he met and married the young woman who is now his wife. Several months ago his mother here heard from him. She appealed to a local newspaperman to get a pardon for the boy so that he could return home. Application was made to Governor Morrison, but before the formalities were completed the mother was convinced that her son was dead. So the matter was dropped.

Last week Fred and his wife arrived in a little automobile from the States. Denning had driven the car from the States. They had a long drive.

had come to bless their union because they were obliged to leave him with relatives in Denver.

But Fred was happy to be arrived. His friends were fearful for his safety from arrest, but he said "surely they will not bother a man who is in my condition."

His condition, however, did not seem to improve. Thursday night state prison officials notified Sheriff Page that they wanted Fred. Yesterday was taken to Raleigh in Deputy Sheriff Walter Tappan's big car. His wife and Chief Page accompanied him. He made no complaint, but implored his friends to do the best they could for him.

Now Chief Page is heading a movement to petition Governor Morrison for his pardon. It is probable that the governor will be asked for an immediate parole pending the completion of formalities, which will require at least 90 days according to custom.—Byron Ford in Greensboro Daily News.

WAYWARD YOUTH GIVEN CHANCE BY JUDGE KERR

Clarence Jones Told at Fayetteville To Retrive Error—His Cow-pasture Given Year on Road

Fayetteville, Sept. 2.—Judge John H. Kerr, who has been to eastern Carolina maulers for the incarceration of the hand of a dangerous man, Clarence Jones, a Hope Mills youth, who had confessed in Superior court that he had found a bottle of liquor, drunk it and robbed a store with Elsie Hill. With the boy and his aged father standing before him in tears, the judge saw an opportunity to drive home a lesson that would in all likelihood go with the prisoner through life and make a good citizen out of a wayward youth.

In eloquent terms he depicted to Jones the danger of the course he was pursuing and the sorrow he had brought to his mother and father. He could be sent to the state prison for the offense he had committed, the prisoner was told; but he was going to be given a chance; the judge was going to send him back to the arms of his faithful father and devoted mother, as honest people as Cumberland county afforded.

But Judge Kerr was not so inclined when he came to deal with Elsie Hill, a married offender whom he had had before at Raeford. Hill was the ringleader of the robbery. He got two years on the county roads, the sentence to begin at the expiration of the 18 months given him in Hoke county for attempted jail breaking. Six months of the Hoke sentence was stricken off when Judge Kerr learned that Hill fought on the Hindenburg line. "But Hill is a dangerous man," said the jurist. "If I should turn him loose he would rob every bank in this state if given time." Mrs. Hill, Jim Calhoun, a descendant of the great secessionist, and Paul Hodge were discharged when his honor directed verdicts not guilty as to them.

"TOUCHDOWN" TO REPLACE "HOMER"

Football Will Push Baseball In Background With Opening Fall Practices

Diamond giving away to the gridiron, ball and bat to the pigskin, lusty grandstand voices of "Old Men, son" to college yells and cries of youthful voices the sporting world change counterclockwise about during this and the next few weeks. The athletic world will shift its eyes, beginning this week, when football with the early fall practices, occupy the center of the stage and push baseball into the background. In this state, certainly the talk is already beginning to change, and its football prospects for the various colleges that is the topic of sport conversation rather than the pennant winners of the baseball leagues.

Today the University of North Carolina football squad reports for its first workout, with the veteran coach, Bill Foster, at its head. Prospects at Carolina, according to all reports, are exceedingly encouraging. A number of old men have reported who were doubtful at first, and with Robbins Lowe, captain-elect, as the one big star, leading the team, Foster and Carolina should feel mighty good about prospects for a winning team.

At Carolina the news has come that Sam Brown and Bill Blount, both finished football players on the Carolina squad season before last, will be back, with Fred Pharr, who broke his ankle and was out of the game the latter part of last season. Johnny Johnson has not returned, and may not be back which, indeed, is sad news to followers of Carolina football. Johnson was one of State College's stars last season and attended the University after Christmas, expecting to play football there this fall, but some misunderstanding about his work is said to have caused his not coming in, and the farmers are bright and cheerful over the prices they are receiving.

Not only new cotton, but much of last year's crop which has been steadily held by Harnett farmers, has been coming in and being marketed at good prices. During the past several days the cotton weigher's business has been picking up considerably, and fifteen and eighteen cent cotton prices proving a boon to the farmers.

Of course many are still talking of holding their cotton for still higher prices, which they feel never will come. But if the prices stay between fifteen and twenty cents farmers of this section will be well satisfied for the present and are willing to let go the larger part of their crop.

RECOVER BODIES OF DEAD AIRMEN

Martin Bombing Airplane Smeashes While En Route To West Virginia

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 5.—The bodies of four of the five members of the government Martin bombing plane, No. 5 from Langley Field, Virginia, were found today on the north side of Twenty Mile Creek, ten miles southwest of Summersville, Nicholas county, and the fifth is en route by automobile to Charleston in a serious condition, according to information received tonight by Major Davenport Johnson, in charge of the army air force stationed here.

The dead are: Lieutenant Harry L. Speck, pilot, Madford, Oregon; Sergeant Arthur R. Brown, Kentucky; Private Walter B. Howard, San Francisco.

Seriously injured: Corporal Alexander C. Hazleton, Wilmington, Delaware.

Little chance for the recovery of Corporal Hazleton was expressed by physicians tonight when it was learned that in addition to suffering broken legs the corporal was injured internally.

The crashed airplane was discovered by Ben Hughes a Nicholas county man, after a two day search party organized by hundreds of residents of the vicinity in which the tragedy occurred as well as airplanes sent out from Charleston and army searching parties.

Hughes reported to Major Johnson by telephone that he heard faint cries and groans while searching a heavily wooded and particularly rugged section. Following the direction of the sounds he said, he came upon the wrecked machine, the nose of which had buried itself in the ground in such a way that the tail remained high in the air. Its position indicated that in the final dive the ground the air plane had been upside down.

The bodies of three of the victims, Hughes said, were suspended, held in mid-air, held in their cockpit by footstraps. The fourth body, discovered hours later, after a careful search of the charred debris, was caught in the wreckage.

Immediately turning his attention to the injured man, who had managed to crawl several yards from the scene of the disaster and was found lying face downward, Hughes partially revived Corporal Hazleton by giving him a drink of water. He then made the suffering flyer as comfortable as possible and set out for help. After the arrival of several more searchers, Hazleton was carried more than a mile to the edge of the dense woods, where he was placed in an automobile and taken to Summersville, the nearest town in which there was known to be a physician.

AVERASBORO WINS PRIZES

The Averasboro township class composed principally of singers from Dunn, did not bring home the silver loving cup offered by The Bank of Harnett in the Community Sing at Lillington yesterday, but did bring home three other prizes, first, second and third prizes in the choir contest.

The local choir was trained by Mrs. Harper Holliday and Dr. J. R. Butler and was composed of many of Dunn's best singers. Mrs. Holliday was unable to attend the event in Lillington yesterday on account of sickness in her family, and Casper Warren led the choir in the contest. The hundreds of people attending the event from Averasboro Township were elated over the showing made by their singers, and many averred that singing in the class to be the best of the day.

The prizes, as awarded by the judges were as follows: Nell's Creek, first prize, silver loving cup; Averasboro, second prize, $5; Barbours, third prize, $15. Quartette contest, Dunn, first prize, set of Quartette books; Fiddler's Contest, Dunn, first prize, $5.

COTTON COMING IN AND SELLING FOR GOOD PRICES

The Farmers Around Dunn Bringing In More And Old Crop

From fifteen to eighteen cents have been the prices paid on the local market for new cotton during the past few days. With the eighteen cent cotton optimism has been shown by the farmers during the past few months. An average of about twenty-five bales per acre of new cotton has been coming in, and the farmers are bright and cheerful over the prices they are receiving.

Not only new cotton, but much of last year's crop which has been steadily held by Harnett farmers, has been coming in and being marketed at good prices. DRY PERIOD HITS PEOPLE OF THIS PART OF STATE

Continued Period Of Dry Weather Very Noticeable In This Section

Lack of rainfall in certain sections of the state has been very marked during the past week, and many towns are crying out as a result of the continued drought, with crops damaged, water supply seriously threatened, and in Raleigh, especially, citizens are facing a near water famine, and at the time of this writing are sadly in need of relief. Conservation measures have been passed and enforcement in the churches Sunday all denominations offered a pray for rain to save the state Capitol from the famine it faces.

RALEIGH AND WILSON FACE WATER FAMINES

Dunn And Community Will Have No Trouble With City Water Supply But Crops Are Suffering From Lack Of Rain And The Most Oppressive Heat Is Being Felt.

Rain, on the wretched Friday night at Raleigh helped conditions considerably and according to The News and Observer, "raised the water level in Lake Raleigh ten and one half inches, and added a week to the time that must elapse before Raleigh suffers absolute water famine with conservation measures still rigidly enforced." The rain that touched Raleigh and the points above Raleigh that caused the noticeable increase in the water supply there did not reach Dunn and the Dunn District still lacks even a shower to break the long dry spell.

The water shortage, due to the dry spell in Raleigh has become so serious that Mayor Hildridge hastily returned from an abbreviated vacation to confer with commissioners and the other townswomen about the best methods of relief should the dry weather continue. Saturday Raleigh witnessed cloudy and threatening weather but received only a slight shower that failed to help matters. It was the Mayor who requested the citizens to pray for rain and relief in the churches Sunday, and the requests were complied with, Raleigh offering an earnest prayer for rain.

Wilson is another town in the state crying out about the water situation. Citizens there are suffering from the long drought, and the city officials have also conferred and decided upon conservation measures, strongly urging the people to save water in the use of water. A ban has been placed on sprinkling the streets, lawns and washing of automobiles, as well as other uses of water that can be gone without for some time. The old pumping station there has been put back into use to "give the situation as much as possible.

Other towns and counties in the eastern and central part of the state are suffering from the long drought and the fierce hot spell. At Raleigh and Wilson, however, the cry has perhaps been loudest and conditions seem to be the most serious. In Dunn and around Dunn farmers are just now beginning to complain about the lack of rain and the dry spell and if rain comes in the next few days or two the crops will show little damage from the drought. Crops appear to be as near normal here as in any section of the state or South for that matter, and it will take a much more extended period of dry weather to really have disastrous effects.

As for the water supply in Dunn, citizens need have no fear. Owing to the peculiar source of our water, which comes from the mountains, a dry spell touching this section of the state, we are now seeing, will have little or no effect on our supply of city water. It is only where pumping facilities and other technical facilities arise that Dunn faces a water shortage of any note.

The various ponds near town are about as low as they have been for a long time, and all creeks are dusty, dry, and bare. Cape Fear river at the point near Duke and Fayetteville is exceedingly low and displays the marks of a dry period. A few small marshes are known to be dried up completely.

For the past four or five days the hottest weather of the summer has been felt in this section. Costs and time, worn in comfort the most of the summer, have come off and "mopping" has been the order of the day. The thermometer has gone higher than any time all summer, the oppressive heat coming after a week or fall and winter weather when many people in town need blankets at night and threatened to pull out their overcoats for use in the evenings.

BIG POWER PUMP BEING PUT IN OPERATION

The big pump that is to supply Lillington with water is being connected up this week and it is stated that by Friday the town will have an abundant supply of water at high pressure.

The pump is gauged to draw into the tank and mains 100 gallons of water per minute. This will keep the standpipe full at all times and will afford fire protection as well.
