DON'T NEED TWO ARTILLERY CAMPS

choice Lies Between Camp Bragg and Camp Knox; One Will Be Sold

Washington, Jan. 10.—Sale of cores of tracts owned by the War Department and the consolidation and abolishment of a number of arm activities are recommended by a House sub-committee, which, after months of investigation into the advisability of disposing of War Department property, made public its report today. The findings must be approved by the House military committee before action can be taken on them by the House and Senate.

The sub-committee approved in their entirety recommendations of the War Department as to the disposal of dozens of army posts and minor reservations no longer needed for war purposes. Recommendations Made. In addition to the sub-committee the consolidation at Camp Benning, Ga., of the infantry school conducted there and the instruction activities carried on for the signal corps at Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., for tank officers at Camp Meade, Maryland, and for the engineering corps at Camp Humphreys, Va. The schools conducted at the latter three camps would be abandoned.

The report also recommended the abolishment of three motor repair depots maintained by the army with civilian instructors at Camps Holabird, Maryland; Jesma, Georgia, and Normoyle, Texas. Every military post the sub-committee held, should have shop facilities with sufficient mechanics among enlisted men to do repair work.

Abandonment of remount depots at Fort Reno, Oklahoma, and Front Royal, Va., was recommended, with the suggestion that all remount activities be centered at Forts Keogh, Montana, and Robinson, Nebraska. See Artillery Ranges. Two artillery ranges are not needed in the Southeastern part of the United States, the report stated, recommending "emphatically" that either Camp Bragg, North Carolina, which is a tract of 120,000 acres, or Camp Knox, Ky., which is 30,000 acres in size, be sold.

The report stated that a large number of bases utilized during the war by the army for warehouses should be sold. Property in the South, which the War Department said it no longer needed, and which the sub-committee recommended should be sold, included Beacon Island and Fort Macon.

Why Suffer? Cardal "Old Wonders for Me." Declares This Lady.

I would have been down stairs in my side and back—especially severe across my back, and down in my side there was a great deal of soreness. I was nervous and easily upset.
