

ATTENDANCE REVIVAL SERVICES AT DUKE CHURCH

Dunn, N. C., March 21.—The revival services which have been going on at the Presbyterian Church here have been well attended. The Rev. Mr. McQueen, who has been conducting these services, has greatly impressed his hearers with his strong, powerful sermons.

Rev. Mr. J. R. Andrews, pastor of the Methodist church, left Monday for Washington, D. C., to attend the meeting of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist church, which is convening there. Rev. Mr. Andrews was formerly pastor of one of the churches in Baltimore, but owing to ill health he was forced to come south upon his doctor's orders. He will probably be gone a week.

Rev. J. A. Lloyd, Episcopal clergyman of Pinchurst, conducted services at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Webb, of Concord, spent the week-end here at the guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Holt. Mrs. Webb, however, will remain here for several days.

James R. McDowell, of Asheville, is spending several days here with W. A. Erwin, Jr.

Miss Whitney Holt, student of St. Mary's School, Raleigh, spent the week end here with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Holt.

Miss Helen Henley, of the graded school faculty, spent the week end at Winston-Salem with her parents. P. T. Daniel spent the week end in Tarboro with relatives.

W. A. Erwin, Jr., and J. E. McDowell were in Durham Sunday to attend the funeral of Julian S. Carr, Jr.

W. C. Smith, student of Bule's Creek Academy, had the misfortune of breaking his leg while playing basketball last Saturday. He was brought to the hospital here for treatment, where he is resting very well.

C. G. Hall is very ill in the Good Hope Hospital with influenza and pleurisy.

keeper of the Erwin Park Zoo, in that the elk has shed his antlers. Mr. Jones is authority for the statement that said elk has shed his antlers on March 15th for the last three consecutive seasons.

O. A. Zachary, recently elected manager and coach of the local baseball team, has issued the call for all would-be candidates of the team to report this week for spring training. "Zack," as he is familiarly known by college fans over the state, is a graduate of N. C. State College, where he played baseball last spring.

One of the most enjoyable treats of the year was the "Brunswick stew" given by George L. Sewell last Saturday. Those present report a good "feed," even though the "spliffs" were lacking.

Several of the local "fans" are planning to go to Raleigh next Friday to see Ty Cobb and his "Tigers" in action.

KEEP YOUR ENGAGEMENTS IF WORLD COMES TO END

(From Cotton Seed Oil Magazine.)

In the business world man is rated by his associates by the way he keeps his engagements. Consequently we should be extremely careful when making an engagement to be reasonably sure that we are able to keep it.

When an engagement is made, a promise is likewise made, and a promise once made but afterwards broken necessarily awakens in the mind of the one to whom it is made a suspicion as to the truthfulness of its maker. A broken engagement often results in the loss of a friend, a questioning of one's honesty and the loss of that which would otherwise have been a financial gain.

To the big business man the fulfilling of engagements comprises the larger part of the day's work, and he considers these engagements just as essential to business as opening the mail in the morning.

Business is not taken up altogether however, with engagements in the nature of business meetings. There are engagements to pay, which must be kept. If they are not there is no more credit for the gentlemen who make them. When a man's credit is gone, he soon wakes up to find himself in a serious situation and his business in the hands of a bankrupt court. But business is not all engagements to pay either. There are engagements to enter into contracts; engagements to have shipments ready at a certain time, and many others that are equally important, must be kept up.

It is often very hard to get an engagement with the more successful business men. Why? Because the men have made the biggest success in the business world know that when an engagement is once made, that it must be kept regardless of what the results might be. Though it be hard to secure an engagement from a big business man to enter into a contract, or an engagement to deliver goods at a certain time, when the engagement is once made, then you can rest assured that it will be kept.

In business time is valuable, and wasted moments do not add to the bank account. If a man makes an engagement with you for a certain time and at a certain place for the purpose of discussing a business proposition and then fails to show up, he has not only put you to a great deal of unnecessary trouble but has robbed you of that time which could have been spent in a more profitable way.

If a man makes an engagement with you to enter into a contract and then at the last moment fails to keep his engagement he has done you an injustice, which cannot be repaid. You were depending on him, if you had not been you would no doubt have entered into a contract with other parties.

If a man makes an engagement to deliver goods to you on a certain day, and then does not keep his engagement, he has cheated you out of a part of these goods, and put you in an embarrassing position with your customers.

When making engagements we should think first, because the man who is always ready to make engagements but seldom remembers to keep them is soon regarded with distrust and suspicion.

When an engagement is made, keep it regardless of the outcome, whether it be to pay your creditors, to enter into a contract, to deliver goods, to discuss business with other business men, or to indulge in some social entertainment. Remember, your word should be worth more than great riches.

FERTILIZER

Listen to what Mr. O. B. Tew, of Cooper, N. C., Says:

"I wrote to The Department of Agriculture relative to MEALYMONIA and had a reply stating that MEALYMONIA was better than cotton seed meal for home raising."

Mr. Tew got enough MEALYMONIA to make forty tons of fertilizer.

See N. B. LEE or FRED BAGGETT at DUNN for MEALYMONIA or for your fertilizers.

PROVEN :: Long Staple Seed :: PROVEN
Plant Seed Only That can be Proven before
Your Eyes

The people of North Carolina were robbed of three hundred million dollars in 1920 through worthless buying on misrepresentation without facts of proof. Isn't it high time we learn to demand proof of value from the salesman who would take our money, and stop advertising ourselves as wishing to be humbugged?

400 bales of cotton—samples of which you are invited to inspect—ginned from the very seed I am offering for sale, is guaranteed to staple as follows:

- 26 bales 1 3-8 inch staple
- 79 bales 1 5-16 inch staple
- 231 bales 1 1-4 inch staple
- 64 bales 1 3-16 inch staple

400 bales total—averaging better than 1 1-4 inch staple through. This 400 bales of cotton represents whole crops, including first and last pickings, and was grown in 1921, a year recognized by all cotton authorities as an off year in length of staple with all varieties.

The above record of stapling on my cotton was not made by me but by expert staplers employed by the largest syndicate of staple cotton manufacturers in the South who are bidding to buy the cotton on this classification.

Now again, whom do you think should be the better authority on seed for you planting, the man who has studied the proposition, experimented and proved it, or the one who tells you something that he cannot prove with visible facts and is in the business with no interest but that which he can personally get out of it? Answer this question each person for himself alone and in this way only will you be wise.

It is nearly planting time and I have only a limited quantity of seed left. Every farmer should plant at least a part of his crop this year in long staple. MY SEED ARE PURE; Improved to a higher type than when I first began planting them; re-cleaned and acclimated to this section. They are the best you can get for your money: I say this with authority and without fear of successful contradiction.
