Address all communications to The Dispatch. All departments of The Dispatch can be reached through telephone 155.

Communications upon live topics are invited, but under all circumstances the editor of such communications must furnish us with his name. It is not necessary that the name be published, but we insist that it be given as an evidence of good faith.

Short accounts of weddings, entertainments, club meetings, etc., are invited.

Harnett Will Have Many Candidates

Judging from the announcements that are being formally made in The Dispatch and the Harnett County News, the two county papers, there will be more candidates before the voters of the county in the June primary than is usually the case. With the exception of the office of sheriff and county commissioners there are two or more candidates for all the important offices, and the voters will have an opportunity to select good men to represent them in the Legislature and handle the affairs of the county.

There is much dissatisfaction among the people of the county and many are kicking because of the amount of taxes they are forced to pay. They believe that taxes are entirely too high and feel that they are entitled to some relief. For the past two years many of our wealthiest citizens have had to pay their taxes in installments, the total amount being so much they could not all it at one time. And this year more than a third of the taxpayers have been paid to date. Of course those who are being saddled with most of the blame, whether just or not being given little consolation, and unless the Democratic party nominates strong men in the June primary this disgruntled element may cause the defeat of the party.

The Dispatch hopes above all else that the voters will nominate candidates in whom the people have confidence. Character will be worth a lot to a candidate in the next election. People are becoming more exacting and more independent in their voting and are demanding candidates whose records are clean and in whom trust can be placed without fear of being betrayed.

WHITE SWEET CLOVER
 (By Geo. I. Smith.)

In the spring of 1921 I sowed two acres in White Sweet Clover seed over oats which I sowed a few weeks earlier. Prior to this time I had lined the two acre lot. I sowed 15 pounds of seed to each acre, inoculating the seed before sowing. I used a weeder running over the oats which served as working for the oats to cover the clover seed.

In June I mowed off the oats and 1 1/2 the clover coming on later. At this time some of the clover measured eight to ten inches high. The mowing machine cut the top of some of the clover off but no harm done to the clover. The summer remained very dry, but the clover held its color well and continued to root deeply in the ground. I used the root crop seed but failed to get more than 50 per cent of a stand.

Around the first of July following the mowing of the oats, I turned three head milk cows on this clover. The clover on the two acre lot was very scattering as I had only about 50 per cent of a stand. However, the two cows with scattering clover furnished enough clover through the dry summer and fall to keep the three head of cows busy. I kept these cows on this clover till the hard frosts of winter came on.

I could have mowed this clover twice the first season if I had kept the cows off. The cows did the mowing. The cold freezing weather came on. The cows and clover all went into winter quarters and the two acres of scattering clover looked like a dry clean patch but under the surface of the ground something was going on during the entire winter. Occasionally during the winter, I would visit my clover lot and dig up a bunch of the clover.

I found during the entire winter that fresh nodules continued to form on the roots of the clover. I made a study of the nodules and found that the nodules were made of a substance as the bacteria in the soil would not survive during the winter. Late in the fall and early winter snow a few formed on the roots of the clover. These snow formed a base for the new growth of a second crop. Each bunch of clover the second year has from ten to fifty new sprouts.

Business gets fine the second year with this clover. On the 5th of March 1922 I put three head of cows back on this scattering clover. Some of this clover is eight to ten inches high now and it is very doubtful if three head of cows can keep this clover down during this season. I have not fertilized this clover with anything since sowing it. If I had used 200 pounds of pure Nova Scotia land plaster per acre as a top dresser on this clover around the first of March it would have been much better than it is.

This clover does not bloom the first year. It will bloom and make seed the second year. You can mow for hay the second year as often as you can mow alfalfa. Cows can graze on this clover while the dew is on and no danger of bloating the cows. A Sweet Clover lot the second year is a paradise for the honey bee. Honey made from this clover will bring five cents per pound on any market more than from any other kind of clover.

ARBUCKLE'S THIRD TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

Scheduled To Enter Closing Week Today; Barker Will Be First Witness

San Francisco, April 9.—The third trial of Roscoe Arbusckle on a charge of manslaughter is scheduled to enter its closing week tomorrow.

Harry Barker, friend of Miss Virginia Rappe, upon whose death the charge against Arbusckle is predicated, is to be the first witness tomorrow, his examination being continued over from Saturday.

Barker testified to seeing Miss Rappe ill on a number of occasions. Mrs. Virginia Warren, Chicago nurse, and Mrs. Helen Whitehurst, defense witnesses, are under subpoena to appear before the grand jury tomorrow night to be questioned regarding their testimony.

Mr. Whitehurst repudiated a declaration signed by her in Chicago in which it was alleged that she frequently saw Miss Rappe ill at the girl's home. Mrs. Warren testified that Miss Rappe experienced a premature childbirth. Other witnesses claiming closer acquaintance with Miss Rappe said they never had heard of the incident.

DECREASE IN RETAIL PRICES FOR MARCH

Washington, April 10.—A decrease in the retail cost of food to the average family in March as compared with February was reported today by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor. Prices of 49 food articles in 51 important cities were considered. Seventeen of these articles showed decreases ranging from less than five-tenths of one per cent, on butter and tea to 3-1/2 per cent, on strictly fresh butter. 21 articles increased from less than five tenths of one per cent on cheese to 11 per cent on oranges, and six articles remained unchanged.

During the year, March 15, 1921, to March 15, 1922, the bureau added the average decrease in the retail prices of these foods was 11 per cent, 35 articles declining and eight increasing. In the nine year period ending March 15, the average of increase was placed at 15 per cent.

STOCK MARKET AGAIN SETS UP NEW RECORD

Sale of 1,650,000 Shares Highest Total in Nearly Two Years. Gulf States Steel Features

New York, April 7.—Subject only to moderate reversals, due to "crashing in" of profits, the stock market today resumed its upward sweep, 1,650,000 shares establishing another new high record for almost two years.

The further rise was characterized by net gains of two to over 10 points in popular steels, with Gulf States at the outstanding feature. That same stock several months ago outlived the market by its extraordinary gyrations, but today's gain of 10 5/8 points was almost steady and resulted from purchase of about 52,000 shares.

Rumor and stock market gossip again associated Gulf States with an important part in one or more of the several mergers or consolidations till under discussion, but today's buoyant rise was preceded by statements showing the company's excellent financial position.

Why the 10 90 USCO is better than just a 10 90 tire

On November 10, 1921, the 30 x 3 1/2 "USCO" was marked to sell for $10.90.

This odd and closely figured price was the lowest quotation ever made on any tire of known standards.

A genuine pioneering step by the makers of U. S. Tires.

Now comes a lot of different $10.90 tires being rushed into the market. "Special" tires. "New" trends.

Unfamiliar to look at—with perhaps an atmosphere of having been made to meet the price.

But the "USCO" still occupies a place by itself. A good old standby on millions of cars for years. Better than it ever was.

Still putting the emphasis on honest quality, even if it does sell for only ten dollars and ninety cents.

The $10.90 tire with the record of a proven product.

The tire that people still buy for the dignity of its quality regardless of the low amount they pay.
