BUSINESS CONTINUES TO IMPROVE
Dunn's Review for June 3rd, has the following to say relative to business conditions:

Another month has opened with recent gains in business maintained, and with promise of further improvement to follow. Current reports from different trades and sections of the country give rise to confident expectations, and support the more general belief that recovery from previous depression has definitely developed.

Revival in some basic lines this year has steadily gathered momentum, despite various drawbacks, and idleness among workers has appreciably diminished with the increased opportunities for employment.

Labor troubles in the coal mining and textile fields, continuing for many weeks have tended to prevent a full measure of progress, but the position of most industries is distinctly stronger, and production records indicate that operations are more closely approaching capacity.

Reflecting the change in buying disposition, demand in anticipation of future requirements which had long been restricted is enlarging, while requests for quick shipments of merchandise have necessitated overtime work at certain manufacturing establishments.

With such phases present, and with an extension of the business bettirement foreshadowed, it is not strange that the price situation is firmer. Whereas the initiative in most transactions was formerly with sellers, instances in which offerings of goods are being made less freely are becoming more common, and many previous low quotations have disappeared from primary markets.

Under similar conditions, however, are seen to develop in retail channels, and it is not surprising that the buying power of consumers is being stimulated.

NOTICE TO THE CITIZENS IN THE TOWN OF DUNN
I have made two sanitary inspections in the town of Dunn, and it is yet, only about 70 per cent.

Every groceryman in this town should by all means put out good clean stuff to his customers and not allow anything put out on the side walk. Keep your stuff on the inside of your store, screen your doors and keep the flies out. No person wants to eat anything that is exposed to flies, and every woman will do their duty towards keeping a nice clean home, if they can get any help from the man folks.

Men go home after their meals, and expect to have a good hot meal ready for him, if not, he is ready to fly up in the air.

Fall in line, and help them to make a home what it should be. If you are on the sewer line and connected with the sewer, why take that old open privy out of your back yard. If you need one for your servant, and got to have one, why build one there that will comply with the state sanitary law. I hate to bring you men in court about violating the state sanitary law, and feel like you men would only be too glad to help make your own town, one of the cleanest towns in the State of North Carolina. I can not report a clean town yet. You men get busy now.

J. A. McLEOD, State Sanitary Officer.

work, having been made a member of the board on May 17, 1918, by the appointment of President Wilson. Mr. McLean says that he is gratified by the fine showing made by North Carolina and that while depression exists, it is more largely confined to the eastern section of the State, and to the cotton growing section, but that despite this depression conditions in North Carolina are comparatively better than in the other states.—News and Observer.

Discontinue your public improvements and close your schools for two years and see what will happen. Grass will grow on your streets. If you want to increase your national prosperity, if you want to increase your local prosperity, make your educational facilities better and your government so efficient that a lawless man cannot live in your community. Then you will attract to your city the best type of citizen, the kind that will boost your city and back every project it undertakes.

It is not the natural wealth of a state or section, nor its sunshine nor its soil that makes it great; it is the character of its people and their ideals. It is not what they have done as much as what they want to do. I do not want to see Augusta larger unless it is better. I do not want to see South Carolina or any other state grow in wealth unless it grows in virtue. I do not want to see America grow stronger unless it becomes more righteous. You cannot violate a law of nature and be successful. Make your city government good, make it efficient, and your city will grow.—Governor Cooper of S. C., address before the Board of Commerce August 6, Ga.

The writer would like to get the cooperation of every man in Dunn and in surrounding district. Any help will be appreciated. We want to pull together, work together and rejoice together.

THE RURAL MINISTRY

Here and there in Indiana is to be found a young man with a big vision of a better life for the people of the rural districts of the State.

He is not a young man who has just come from the city, and who is looking for a chance to make his money, but a young man who has spent his life in the rural districts, and who has seen the needs of the people.

He is not a young man who has just come from the city, and who is looking for a chance to make his money, but a young man who has spent his life in the rural districts, and who has seen the needs of the people.

They are Rev. Chas. Shake, of Vanderburg county, and Rev. J. C. Stamm, of Crawford county, Indiana. There are doubtless a few others to be found in the state.

We do not include here young ministers who are merely making their start in rural pastorate, expecting to use that as a stepping stone to a better position in some city parish, but young men who have accepted the rural field for a life work and are making an earnest study of all peculiar needs of country folk and laying foundations for a broad program of uplift that includes every phase of country life.

These two men are not merely preachers; they are ministers in the fullest sense of the term. Their work includes much that ordinarily falls to the lot of the county agent and the county superintendent of schools. But they are in a position to do much that these two cannot do. And with these services we believe lies the complete program of rural activity that is going to make over our community life.

The man who comes to your church once a week, or even once a month to preach, can do something for his people. But the man who moves in and lives with you, gives his time to organizing social activities along wholesome lines, to setting up recreational, musical, literary, and other organizations; who studies your children and helps you fit them into a useful place in the community, this man can do wonders, and will.

Where such a rural minister is found working in harmony with the county agent and the school superintendent, there we find a new conception of life beginning to make itself felt. Such a community is to be called blessed. And such a young man is to be respected and revered.—Indiana Farmers Guide.

The big bunch of Sampson's finest who went up to Raleigh Tuesday to meet with the State Highway Commission came back elated at the splendid prospects of securing a hard surface for the Clinton-Wilmington highway from Clinton to the Pender line.

This road is our pet, since we have constantly conceived it as necessary to open up the triangle between the railroad and to give the people of the upper part of the state the shortest route to the seashore. We consider money spent on roads that serve the three-fold purpose of development, local convenience, and a necessary route for through travel money spent for the very best purpose.

Besides the forty or fifty gentlemen from Sampson, too numerous to mention, there were representatives from Lillington, Sanford, Dunn, Fayetteville, and Aberdeen, on the one side, and from Bladen, Johnston, Wayne, and Hoke, on the other. From lower Sampson were Messrs. Will Ward, Ralph Highsmith, and C. T. ...

GEORGIA WOMAN IS SENTENCED TO HANG

Convicted By Jury of Killing Her Husband; No Mercy Recommendation

Atlanta, June 3.—Mrs. Cora Lou Vinson was convicted by a jury in superior court here tonight of the murder of her husband, Dr. W. D. Vinson, and sentenced to be hanged July 23.

The verdict without a recommendation to mercy was more than even solicitor General Boyden had asked, as he had urged the jury to convict the woman and fix her sentence at life imprisonment, saying he had never asked that a woman be hanged. Under verdict without recommendation carries the death penalty which the presiding Judge formally imposes.

Mrs. Vinson shot her husband in a drug store here in March while divorce proceedings were pending. He had filed a petition for divorce claiming she had threatened to kill him but she told the jury she thought he was about to shoot her when she fired. She was recently declared sane.

THE LAWYER'S BOY

(From the Youth's Companion) A certain lawyer who had always been a religious man denied all his early beliefs when his beautiful girl wife, whom he deeply loved, died in giving birth to a son. "What right had God to take her from me?" he cried again and again.

He became an atheist, a cynic who delighted in assailing the faith of others. Often in argument with guests at his home he would pooh pooh the idea of immortality. "When you're dead," he would say, "you're dead, dead as a doornail."

Meanwhile his son grew up in the care of the housekeeper. Though the boy saw little of his father, he frequently overheard his conversations and arguments. One day the housekeeper asked to speak to the lawyer. The boy had learned to swear. "You must talk to him, sir," she said. "Send him to me," replied the lawyer.

A few minutes later father and son looked at each other. "How like my dead-and-gone Lucy the boy looks!" thought the father. He spoke sternly to the boy of his fault and then sent him away. But the housekeeper came again and again with the same complaint. At last, seeking in desperation for some argument that would appeal to

A Good Reputation plus a Better Price — $10.90

THE new low mark of $10.90 for the 30 x 3 1/2 size "Usco" created something of a sensation. Naturally, the first impulsive remark was on the "wonderful price."

Even more to the point are the comments of today. People are getting more used to the $10.90 price—but the "Usco" value is still a cause for wonder. With thousands of $10.90 "Usco's" running today, every locality has had a chance to check up on the surprising value. Let all these "Usco" Tires now serving their owners so well remind you of this— Whatever the price of "Usco," it has got to deliver big value because it has always done so.
