 Short accounts of weddings, entertainments, club meetings, etc., are invited.

One thing that never remedies matters—worry.

Some wives make better "business men" than their husbands.

A milk cow infected with tuberculosis is a dangerous thing to have around.

We have known men who married a cook, a washer-woman and a farm hand, all in one.

France has moved, and we take it that the next move is Germany's. But the puzzle seems to be, which way to move.

A desperate effort should be made to get the Lucknow square dispute settled before the next town primary, so get busy folks.

The League of Nations is apparently functioning right well without the United States membership, but with that added, it would no doubt function much better.

"The only thing Dunn lacks of being all that could be desired in the way of a good town is an up-to-date hotel," said an out-of-town visitor. We agree with him, don't you?

It appears that it is easier for one Gaston B. Means to stay on the front page than off. We note that money is the root of most of the stories in which he is featured, however.

Down in Mississippi a man who is on the inside of a jail looking out announces his candidacy for governor of that State, and his opponent says "What is that? A jail ticket to beat a campaign, no doubt."

Burgess General Cummings informs us that "endurance dancers" will suffer "crippled hearts" and "shattered nerves." Our guess is, they are suffering from shattered brain when they begin.

"I had heard so much about Dunn that I wanted to pay it a visit," remarked a recent visitor. He then expressed himself as being more favorable impressed with the town than he had expected to be. As a live wide-awake town, Dunn is hard to beat.

Just how much damage in the case of fire is enough, we don't know. But what we started out to state is, that the linotype man made The Dispatch remark in its last issue that two local fires were extinguished before enough damage was done. Just one of those typographical errors, that's all.

They have a habit of doing the unusual in Russia. See by the papers that a bobbed-haired woman of some twenty summers sat as presiding judge at the trial of eight highway robbers. Seven of the robbers were sentenced to die by the female judge. Lawyers who practice in her court assert that her judgment was the equal of, or better, than that of most men. Of course, they meant Russian men.

NATION-WIDE ROBBERY.
 Which is the worse, to rob an individual or to rob the entire citizenship of a country? In running up the price of sugar to its present level somebody is robbing the entire citizenship of the United States. As a result of the soaring prices of sugar the American people are paying daily what has been called "an untold profit of $1,250,000" to the sugar conspirators.

This nation-wide robbery was made possible, it is said, by the Republican sugar tariff, and the robbers apparently have no fear of molestation, though plans for Federal protection have been pointing into Washington. It is within the power of the Government to remedy this condition, but will the power be utilized?

The following from an article appearing in Tuesday's Raleigh News and Observer expresses our sentiments:

"If the writer could wield the pen of a poet or the brush of an artist he would paint the picture of a home-like dining room with an innocent child eating his breakfast of oatmeal porridge and a thief going out of the window with the child's sugar-bowl in his clutches and Uncle Sam standing mute and silent in the background with his hands under his coat-tails. And on the wall would hang the admonition that has echoed and re-echoed down the corridors of time, "Thou shalt not steal."

NEGROES GOING NORTH
 See by the papers that a total of 5,000 negro laborers left North Carolina for the North in five days' time. They are also leaving the other Southern States by the thousand, it is said. Influenced by the promise of shorter hours and more money, these negroes are turning their backs on their very best friends. Yet, we doubt that the South will be the loser as a result of the migration of the darkies to other sections of the country. In the community where we grow up there was not a negro to be found, and the white folks lived just as well as in communities where there were negro laborers.

Is it not true that too much of the work has been left to the negro, anyway? Of one thing we are sure, and that is, many white parents make a mistake in leaving the care of their children to negro women. Time was when a child left in the care of a black "mammy" was in good hands, but not so today. The negroes of today are far from being like the negro of years gone by in many respects. By this we do not mean that the negro as a race has not made advances, but we do mean that the negro has lost many of the old-time traits that made them useful to others than their own race.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE
 And, again we have been asked to urge the necessity of drinks from Dunn soda fountains being served in individual cups. We have noted that one fountain proprietor in Dunn is doing that very thing, and he is to be commended for it. In very few towns the size of Dunn are the thirsty required to drink from a glass that is used probably a hundred times a day. Of course the glasses are "sterilized," but the sterilization process is not sufficient to destroy a germ, and that's what counts. If there is any "best way" to spread disease, in our opinion, it is by the use of public drinking glasses at soda fountains.

THE FARMER FEEDS THEM
 We knew this was far from an insectless age, but not until Franklin Sherman "let out" the information do we know that there are 6,800 different kinds and breeds of insects in North Carolina. And all these different insects are bent on the destruction of the cotton which, Sherman says, we are told, as the Greensboro Daily News is moved to ask, "Is it any wonder that the farmer has a hard time?"

We have often heard it said that the farmer feeds the world, and it might be added, the insects too. Truly, the farmer is our very best friend.

WAS IT A RAT-COLA?
 A wake county citizen brought suit against the Raleigh Coca-Cola Bottling Co., asking for $10,000 damages as a result of drinking a bottle of coca-cola, which the plaintiff alleged contained a rat. He lost his suit, the court refusing to give him damages. What we'd like to know is, How did a rat get into a coca-cola bottle? The rats we've been acquainted with would find a most difficult task in getting into a "dope" bottle and even a mouse would find it no easy task. And, sure after the rat had taken up the space required for him, there would have been but little room left for coca-cola. It must have been a mouse.

The farmer with no schooling earns $240 per year; with a common school education, $565.50 per year; high school education, $648.50 per year; with a short course training added, $898.95; but when he adds the full four year course in an agricultural college his average income jumps to $1,254.00 per year, find investigators at the State college.

LILLINGTON BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS

Harnett County Trust Co. Another Victim of Big Wilmington Bank

The Harnett County Trust Co., of Lillington, yesterday closed its doors, adding another to the half-dozen or more failures of State banks situated to the insolvency of the Commercial National Bank, of Wilmington. The failure is the second in Harnett county this month, but the closing of the State Bank and Trust Co. of Dunn, about 15 days ago, had no connection with the Wilmington failure.

The Lillington institution yesterday found itself unable to continue in business and closed its doors voluntarily about noon. Chief Bank Examiner Clarence Latham went to Lillington yesterday afternoon and assumed charge of the defunct bank. No receiver has yet been named by the courts.

The Harnett County Trust Co., which had a capital of $20,000, was the youngest of the two banks in Lillington, and had been in business for only five years. The bank was heavily involved in the failure of the Cumberland Railway and Power Co., about two years ago, but that matter had been adjusted and is said not to have been a factor in the failure.

B. P. Gentry was president of the defunct bank, and W. L. Sutton, cashier. Mr. Sutton stated over the telephone last night that the bank was involved to the extent of $13,000 in the failure of the Commercial National of Wilmington, and that the closing of his bank was due to the failure of the larger institution and a steady decline in deposits.

Mr. Sutton stated that he expects his bank will pay 100 cents on the dollar, and that he regards 90 cents on the dollar as the minimum amount that will be realized by depositors.—Raleigh News and Observer.

CHRISTIAN JEW TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. A. C. Feldman, of New York, Will Preach at Presbyterian Church Sunday

Rev. A. C. Feldman, of the Jewish Christian Mission of New York city, will preach at the Dunn Presbyterian church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. His subject will be "The Christian's Obligation to the Jew." Mr. Feldman is a highly educated and cultured Jewish teacher and preacher. He has traveled extensively and has spoken before many audiences in behalf of his people. He spent three years in Jerusalem and understands Zionism, and will give an explanation from the Jewish standpoint. His address should be of special and peculiar interest to both the Jew and the Gentile.

He will also deal with the question of the second coming of Christ from the Jewish-Christian standpoint. This will be of special interest to all who are concerned in the fulfillment of prophecy. The public is invited to hear this learned Jew.

dances, folk costumes and quaint dances, and best of all, a lovely May Queen—the town's choice—with stately attendants who do the courtly minuet in her honor. Nor are the least important personages the witty jester and court fool, without whom no court of medieval times was complete.

These are only a few features of the fête which the five Camp Fires of Dunn will present on the cotton yard Tuesday, May 1st. After the events centering around the Queen's coronation, there will be plenty of good things to eat on sale—salads, sandwiches, tea, ice cream, candy, etc. Fortune-tellers skilled in the art of palmistry will be there to reveal your future, and best of all there will be for the little folks a department of games, with an experienced supervisor.

Remember the date, and the purpose, and help the Camp Fires revive the Old English custom of making May day merry.

INACCURATE THERMOMETERS CAUSE POOR HATCHES

Raleigh, N. C., April 22.—Inaccurate thermometers often the cause of poor hatches, which mean weak hicks that have a heavy death rate after they are taken from the incubator. Therefore be sure the thermometer is certified and where the poultry raiser has more than one, it is a good plan to test them all at one temperature, says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, in charge of poultry investigations for the State College and Department of Agriculture. This can be done, he says, by putting them all in one incubator and reading them at the temperature of 103 degrees F. A thermometer that varies as much as 2 degrees, and Dr. Kaupp has found such, may mean an entire failure. If the thermometer reads 103 degrees when the temperature is really 105 it would mean ruined eggs and much discouragement because of the bad results.

Dr. Kaupp states that another way to test the incubator and brooder thermometers is to use a certified clinical thermometer which is known to be correct. Both these are placed in warm water and when the water reaches 103 degrees with the clinical thermometer it should also read the same with the incubator thermometer. If there is as much as a degree of difference the thermometer should not be used.

The thermometer that hangs from the top of the egg compartment with its bulb suspended so that it is just at the top level of the eggs is the best, finds Dr. Kaupp. He states that the bulb should not touch the eggs.

Such a thermometer is not likely to be broken or left out of the tray when the egg trays are taken out for turning. The eggs should be kept at a temperature will not be registered accurately, says Dr. Kaupp. If it reads against an egg containing an embryo it will register too high, and if the egg is infertile or contains a dead germ it is likely not to register high enough.
