

PLAN BUILDING OF NEW RAILROAD

Promoters Would Connect Twin City With New Atlantic Port

Fayetteville, April 25.—A meeting of representative business men of Coastal and Eastern Carolina held last week in Asheville may result in the building of an important railroad through the State, running east and west, from the seacoast to the coal regions, or at least connecting with the coal transporting lines.

The brick and energy of Winston-Salem, High Point, Pinebluff, Asheville, Aberdeen, Randleman, Raeford and Fayetteville sent their representatives to Asheville to confer on a plan which Ed. S. Smith, of Raeford, has worked out linking the seacoast and the mountains with a trunk line railroad. Nine of these industrial leaders were delegated by the conference to formulate a definite plan of organization by which the road may be built. This committee is headed by Ed. S. Smith, of Raeford, the other members being: W. A. Blue, of Aberdeen; Fred N. Tate, of High Point; Thomas Maslin, of Winston-Salem; C. C. Cranford, of Asheville; D. U. Sandlin, of Fayetteville; Leonard Tufin, of Pinebluff; R. F. Deal, of Randleman, and A. L. Thompson, of Fayetteville, secretary.

Fayetteville was represented by Messrs. Thompson and Sandlin, J. E. Tolar, Jr., C. W. Sandrock and O. J. McConnell. Great interest was shown by the delegations present from all the communities mentioned, and indications are that this project suggested by Mr. Smith, is really going to be consummated. His idea is to build a railroad from Swansboro to Winston-Salem to connect at that point with the coal-carrying roads. J. E. Baggett, of Lillington, who had a similar vision and had it well on the way to realization when the war came on, was present at the request of Mr. Smith and talked the plan over with the delegates present.

Swansboro is located on Onslow Bay on the Atlantic coast, and at the mouth of this bay is the making of a magnificent deep sea harbor. In 1812 the U. S. Government had made a survey of the North Carolina Atlantic coast, and the engineers making the survey reported that at the mouth of Onslow Bay was the only real deep sea harbor, in all essentials, on the coast of this State. The survey stated the soil there was clay, and that after the first dredging there would be no necessity for further work of that kind.

HOW TO CONTROL HOG CHOLERA

(N. C. Extension Service)

Raleigh, N. C., April.—The packing plants of the West first established to take care of surplus beef rapidly began to use hogs of that section and afforded the farmers a good market through which to sell their corn at a profit. This was how the middle west became to be known as the only section where hog raising could be financially successful says Dr. F. D. Owen, in charge of hog disease eradication in North Carolina. Times are changing, he thinks, as indications are now that hogs are being raised just as cheaply and marketed just as successfully in North Carolina as in that historically favored territory of the plains.

But there are some drawbacks to the industry cautions the inspector and the biggest of these is hog cholera. He gives therefore the following four suggestions about controlling this disease and believes that where they are put into practice, good results will follow:

1st. Any animal appearing off food should be immediately isolated, penning the animal in such a manner that he cannot come in contact with other hogs, either directly, through association, or indirectly, by means of running streams, or near highways. This is required by the State Livestock Sanitary Laws. If the herd has not been immunized, suspect hog cholera always, until the trouble has been proven to be something else.

2nd. Immediately burn to ashes, or bury under at least three feet of earth, and in quick-lime, the carcass of every animal that dies from any form of natural death. This is also required by the State Livestock Sanitary Laws. The practice of hauling dead animals off to the woods or swamp, or permitting such to remain unburied or burned, to be picked to pieces by buzzards or by stray dogs, cannot be too strongly condemned and owners who so dispose of their dead animals show an utter indifference not only to the law, but to the welfare of their neighbors' stock.

3rd. Make immediate arrangements with your local veterinarian or county administrator to vaccinate the herd. Remember, the cost of one animal which dies will usually be sufficient to have paid for vaccinating from 25 to 75 of the remaining animals. Also bear in mind that the serum and virus is used in vaccinating is a perishable product, therefore very few veterinarians or county administrators keep a supply on hand, but have to order from Raleigh or

LESSON FOR MAY 6

SAMUEL—JUDGE AND PROPHET

LESSON TEXT.—1 Sam. 12:1-25. GOLDEN TEXT.—Only fear the Lord, and serve him in truth with all your heart; for whether he will or no, things be hath done for you.—1 Sam. 12:8.

REFERENCE MATERIAL.—1 Chron. 22:1-19; Ps. 99; Jer. 18:1; Ex. 12:2. PICTURE.—TOPIC.—Samuel, the Boy Who Served in God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC.—The Boy Who Heard God's Call. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC.—Samuel, the Boy Who Served in God's House. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.—Samuel, the True Prophet.

Samuel means "asked of God." God gave him in answer to his mother's prayer. She promised to give him back to God. In his early childhood, his mother cared for and taught him. There is no teacher or nurse like the mother of the child. At an early age, she handed him over to the care of Eli to minister unto the Lord in the tabernacle. While ministering unto the Lord in the tabernacle, God called him. He responded to this call and spent a long life in useful service to God and his nation as judge and prophet. Our lesson today is his farewell address.

After Saul was made king, he retired and turned over the authority to the newly-chosen ruler.

I. Samuel's Challenge to the People. (vv. 1-6).

1. Reminder of the Way the King Had Been Given. (v. 1). He showed that they were directly responsible for the change in government. Though keenly feeling the reflection upon himself and their ingratitude to God in their demand for a king, he has not resisted their wish. He reminded them that they now had what they wanted.

2. Review of His Own Administration. (vv. 2, 3). (1) Walk from childhood (v. 2). Samuel's was a remarkable life; from childhood to old age he had lived an upright and pure life. How satisfying it must be to come to the end of life and to look back even to childhood days without regrets. (2) Career as judge and ruler (v. 3). He boldly challenged them to show where and how he had even in the smallest matters defrauded or oppressed anyone. He courted the most searching investigation of his life, even calling upon the Lord Himself to bear witness.

3. The Vote of Confidence by the People. (vv. 4, 5). It was Samuel's right as he laid down the reins of government to have his record vindicated and to have his integrity established beyond a doubt so that no evil-minded man could ever be able to cast reproach upon him.

II. Samuel Reviews God's Dealings from the Time of Moses. (vv. 6-18). He reasoned with them concerning the good hand of the Lord upon them from the time of Moses. Though they with ingratitude turned from the Lord and demanded a king like the other nations, he had acceded to their request and set a king over them.

1. National Prosperity Conditioned by Obedience. (v. 14). Though they had displeased God in choosing a king; if they would fear the Lord and render obedience, national prosperity would still be given. The nation which will not walk in God's way cannot expect God's blessing.

2. Disobedience to God Meant the Nation's Ruin. (v. 15). It is folly to ask God's blessing upon a nation while it is living in rebellion against Him. True statesmanship is to find out God's will concerning the nation and so direct it that in all its laws and customs there may be harmony with that will.

III. Samuel's Own Vindication. (vv. 19-18).

This was such a critical hour in the history of the nation that Samuel sought to indelibly impress this moment on their hearts. This he did by means of the thunder and rain of a season. Harvest time was not the season for thunder and rain so when it came at the call of Samuel, the people were frightened. The sign had its designed effect. The people confessed their sin of asking for a king and besought Samuel to pray for them.

IV. Samuel's Gracious Response. (vv. 20-25).

1. "Fear Not—Serve the Lord With All Your Heart." (vv. 20-25). Samuel did not minimize their sin but assured them if they would serve the Lord wholeheartedly, He would not forsake them.

2. "God Forbid That I Should Sin Against the Lord in Ceasing to Pray for You." (v. 28). Though the people had rejected Samuel, yet he had such magnanimity of soul that he had not allowed their ingratitude to keep him from interceding for them. Such failure on his part he regarded as sin.

other places as needed, and each day's delay might mean the loss of one or more animals.

4th. After the disease has subsided, clean up and disinfect about the premises and lots where the sick animals have been confined. Make up and burn all trash, such as old corn cobs or weeds, haul the manure from the infected hog lot to some portion of the farm inaccessible to hogs and show under it once if possible. Burn old bedding, troughs, if possible, stow up and stow for a season the ground on which sick hogs were confined. If not, then sprinkle lime about freely. Thoroughly clean and wash, then disinfect by sprinkling or spraying with lime and carbolic acid, the interiors of all hog houses and shelters, and apply same to the fence posts and rails giving particular attention to the corners and spaces where the sick animals have been disposed to lie. By such prompt and energetic action Dr. Owen believes hog losses can be brought under close control, and the present great losses can be brought to a minimum.

SPECTS FOR BAGGETT'S RAILROAD

in Lillington especially, and extending along the proposed line. He is keenly interested in the announcement by Senator John Baggett that his prospects are for building a railroad to extend from Lillington to Swansboro. His interest also attaches to the announcement because of the possibility that the road will be a link in the proposed line from the Kentucky mines to the North Carolina coast.

There are other interests not a thousand miles away from the already established route which would like very much to divert the line and leave Lillington and other towns off the "Carolina Central" map. These interests have powerful influence and they will be found working.

We do not know how well established the senator's financial connections are, but we trust he will see to it that his original plan is not torn up by those who would bend its road out of the best territory through which the original survey runs, and thus destroy some of its usefulness.

We believe the senator stands a good chance of having his road built, and it is the duty of every good citizen of Harnett to stand by him with all power at their command.—Harnett County News.

Letting folks know you have fresh eggs, butter or other farm products for sale is a simple matter if you let the Dispatch tell them about it. A garden will grow in almost any spot where weeds will grow says workers of the Agricultural Extension Service. Reduced food costs and better health are the results of growing vegetables at home.

LADY GOT SO WEAK COULD SCARCELY STAND

After Suffering From Many Female Troubles This Lady Heard of Cardui and Took It, She Says, "Until I Was Well."

"SOME TIME AGO," says Mrs. Buena McFarland, of R. F. D. 2, Boatie, N. C., "I suffered a great deal with weakness common to women. I had bearing-down pains, my sides and back hurt, and my limbs drew. I would get so weak in my knees I could scarcely stand."

"I was very nervous, and could not rest. I didn't feel like eating. I grew thin, and did not have ambition for anything."

"I had been trying other remedies... but did not get any better. 'Some one told us of Cardui, and what it was recommended for. I also took a Ladies Birthday Almanac and read of a case something like mine. I told my husband to get it and I would try it."

"I saw a great improvement after the first bottle (of Cardui), so I kept it up until I was well. Now I am the picture of health."

"Thousands of other women have written, to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others. Cardui has stood the test of extensive use, for more than forty years, in the treatment of troubles common to women. Try it."
