ROASTING EARS BEGIN MOVING FROM CLINTON

Clinton, June 19.—Shipments of berries and truck have been in full swing here for weeks. The strawberry crop is again becoming an important one. Shipments of strawberries are still being made to North Carolina points. Clinton promises to become the main shipping point for dewberries. S. H. Hobbs has formulated the theory that the same characteristic of soil that makes Sampson the banner huckleberry county gives a higher quality to the dewberry. Roasting ear corn is beginning to move, also Irish potatoes. The big thing for days past has been the huckleberry shipment. Five hundred and sixty crates were shipped Saturday morning, making considerably more than a carload. The price today is $8 to $8.50 per crate, making the value of today's shipments, right at the Clinton depot, something like $4,750, and there is not more than a half crop of the big blues. It is predicted that next Saturday will see the most valuable shipment, though the price may not remain so high. Last week the price was $10 a crate, at the depot.

A LITTLE UNUSUAL

Dunn has something unusual in the way of one-armed and one-legged negro women. There are in town two negro women who in the past have been somewhat of pals. One of them is minus a leg and the other is short an arm. In other words, the two have only three arms and three legs. The one-legged negress has been such for quite a while, though the other—"Long Annie"—lost her arm last Sunday as a result of being shot by Tom Byrd, another negro.

at the meeting in total miles traveled by delegates, and Rockingham county took the loving cup for the best work done by any county in the State during the past year. The Tabernacle Baptist Baraca class, of Raleigh, R. N. Simms, president, won the banner for the best class in the State, and the Philatheas of the Kinston Gordon Street Christian church won the honors for the best reports made. Cliffside Junior Baraca class took the banner for the best class in the State for the second time.

Reidsville will entertain the next convention, to be held next June. Mrs. N. Buckner was unanimously re-elected by the executive committee as general secretary and also elected as representative to the national convention at Providence, R. I., June 28th to July 1st.

The withdrawal of the Raleigh contingent in favor of Reidsville so as to make the choice of the next convention city unanimous and resolutions drafted by the executive committee expressing the thanks of the convention to the people of Kinston, the Baraca-Philatheas here, the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and others.

The convention has been featured by most enthusiastic attendance and great work for forward strides this coming year. Kinston has enjoyed the convention and the delegates have been unable to say enough for the host city.
