Messrs. Heat and Humidity are noted among the recent visitors to this office.

Speaking of apologies, it would seem that Governor Morrison is due something like that to Mr. Maxwell.

The "builders' strike" has not yet struck Dunn. New buildings are going up on every hand.

Don't lose sight of the fact that one bale of cotton which sells for 20 cents a point means more to the grower than two bales which sell for 10 cents.

The farmer who grows his own feed and food supplies wears a different smile from that of the one who plants all his acres in cotton.

If the boll weevil has not changed his ways, it is very likely that he will cut down the estimated cotton crop a few hundred thousand bales.

And it now appears that Price, Waterhouse and Company found the same thing that Maxwell found. Yet the auditors were paid $43,000 to find it.

Where does the money come from? North Carolina citizens are spending something like $3,000,000 a month for gasoline.

The North Carolina Co-Operative Cotton Marketing association has made a habit of selecting able men to manage its affairs.

Add this to the unusual. A child recently born into the world at Draper barely missed being born with the toothache.

President Coolidge won much of his political popularity as a result of the policemen's strike in Boston.

While we would not criticize the town fathers for their act in doing away with the whole-time public health nurse.

Recent reports from Washington would lead one to believe that the Coolidge Administration is to give recognition to one Marion Butler.

Of those of the ancient Democratic household of faith, nurtured in the belief that in his political, financial, personal and any other possible sort of morals.

The ambassador to Mexico will be one of the few officials of that rank who will really need to be a diplomat.

body in London understands that the American government really has more sense than its diplomatic representative in London would lead the Britishers to believe.

Realizing that the county-wide sing, to be held here on September 10th, meant more than a mere singing contest.

MAKE DONATIONS TO COUNTY SING

County Boards Appropriate $100 Each To Finance Coming Event

On the other side of the county's legislature, the board of education did the same thing.

A local committee appeared before the boards and presented to them the great advantage of fostering the sing movement.

Promoting officials of the sing organizations are much encouraged at the stand taken by the two boards.

County commissioners reverted to equalization matters to some degree Monday when they found quite a number of complainants on hand.

Instructions were given to Superintendent Lanier of the county convict gang to allow the prisoners the sum of seventy-five cents as compensation.

12-year old youth of Democrat, this county, was drowned in Big Ivey Creek this afternoon while attempting to rescue his cousin, M. L. Mowry, Jr., aged 12, who called for help when he slipped into a deep hole.

Rez Dillingham, 18 years old, dived into the creek and brought M. L. Mowry, Jr., unconscious to land. He responded to first aid treatment.

You never can tell. Many a fellow who asserts that he would not stand for a certain thing promptly proceeds to fall for it.

This is the loftiest region of its extent on the globe.

The only man who is always sure of a job is the bill collector.

ALBERT S. JOHNSON, LILLINGTON, DIES

After an extended illness, which took him to Johns Hopkins hospital for treatment a few weeks ago, Mr. Albert Sidney Johnson, one of Lillington's most highly esteemed citizens, passed away at his home Monday night.

Mr. Johnson was about 59 years of age, and is survived by his wife; son, Hall; daughters, Mrs. David H. Bradley, Mrs. Sheppard B. Caviness, of Lillington, and Mrs. Murph. N. Matthews, of Raleigh; three brothers, Messrs. Ed B. and R. I. half brothers, Mr. Bytham B. Johnson, of near Clayton, and Mr. Frank P. Johnson, of Lillington; one half sister, Mrs. Parrish, of Clayton.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. F. Menius, with interment at Summerdale Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

An Orthodox Sermon

(C. D. Smith, Rowland.)
Dey tells us now Marce Adam mout
Have been de fus' real man.

En dat dey chattered in de swamps,
Er clam de highest trees,
En spent dey're morning's hours
In de woods, dey're morning's hours.

En dough we favors ome,
Cept when a 'possum bees up dar,
A tree don't seem lak home.

En who our great-granddaddies wuz
Don't matter nary a bit
When Satan lifts dat red-hot led
En draps us in his pit.

En dough de man has monkey's ways,
De monkey puts on style;
Dey's no mo' chance er mixin' 'em
Den mixin' water's ile.

En dough de man has monkey's ways,
De monkey puts on style;
Dey's no mo' chance er mixin' 'em
Den mixin' water's ile.

En dough de man has monkey's ways,
De monkey puts on style;
Dey's no mo' chance er mixin' 'em
Den mixin' water's ile.

En dough de man has monkey's ways,
De monkey puts on style;

Raleigh, N. C., August 4.—With 797 farmers and their wives registered for rooms in the college dormitories on the second day and the number greatly swelled by automobiles coming in loaded with occupants on each of the three days, the twenty-first annual convention of farm folks passed into history last week as one of the most successful events of its kind yet held at the State college.

There were a greater number of farm women than ever before. The women's section decided to unite its program for the future under the Home Bureau, and the convention from now on will be "The Farmers' and Home Bureau Convention of North Carolina."

Business matters, farm finance, livestock and the boll weevil were the main topics for the men. Selling surplus produce, putting the garden into the pantry, and beautifying the home and farmstead, were the leading topics discussed by the women.

A report was heard of the first year's operation of the "Co-Op," and the farmers generally seemed much encouraged by the results obtained in the brief time that co-operative marketing has been under way.

Bob Scott, of Haw River, was again elected president of the farmers' section after twenty years had passed since he was the first president and started the organization on the road to its present size and importance. Mrs. Rosalind A. Redfearn, of Anson county, was elected president of the women's section. James M. Gray will continue to handle matters as general secretary, while Mrs. Estelle T. Smith, of Goldsboro, will fill the position of secretary of the women's section for the coming year.
