HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Jno. Parner who has been a patient at the Dunn hospital for the past week, is greatly improved.

Mrs. Hugh Prince and infant daughter, Helen Good Prince, continue to get along fine at the Dunn hospital.

Mrs. Ernest Tew, whose home is 12 miles from Dunn in Sampson county, has been seriously sick at the Dunn hospital for several days.

Duke Tew, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sampsy Tew, who was operated on for gangrenous appendix at the Dunn hospital, has made a rapid recovery, and will be able to leave the hospital in the next few days.

Mr. Ralph Koons, popular young townsman who is associated with the Dunn Insurance and Realty Co., was quite sick at the Dunn hospital for several days during the past week. His condition now, however, is much improved, according to Dr. H. C. Turlington, attending physician.

Mr. Joseph W. Strickland, prominent farmer of the Spring Branch section, was seriously ill at the Dunn hospital the past week. He is sufficiently recovered, however, to return to his home.

Charles Guy, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Guy, who was operated on at the Dunn hospital two weeks ago for ruptured appendix, has made sufficient recovery to be carried to his home, where the little fellow is still in bed and the wound dressed daily.

Mr. Fred Young, who was operated on for appendicitis, has made a complete recovery and was able to leave the hospital several days ago.

Mr. Thomas Sydney Godwin, who was operated on at the Dunn hospital, made a rapid recovery despite his advanced years. He was sufficiently improved to leave the hospital during the past week. He continues to get along nicely at his home in Sampson county.

Mr. Troy Raynor who lives in the Cape Fear section of Dunn underwent an operation at the Dunn hospital during the past week. His state of health is much improved.

Carey Isley, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Isley, was operated on at the Dunn hospital during the past week. Master Carey's manly ways and pleasing manner captivated the entire nursing force, superintendent included. His return as a patient or as a visitor will be looked forward to with pleasure.

The two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Neighbors ate an enormous quantity of Paris green Friday afternoon from a basket that had been carelessly left by the well by one of Mr. Neighbor's farm hands. Mr. Neighbors picked up the child and rushed to the Dunn hospital, where Dr. Wallace E. Coltrane, hospital physician, washed out an enormous quantity of the deadly poison from the child's stomach with a stomach pump. At the present time the child apparently is none the worse as a result of her experience.

Falcon Camp Meeting

The twenty-fourth annual session of the Falcon Camp Meeting will be held August 16 and 17, 1933.

This camp meeting is interdenominational, with one common purpose of building up the kingdom of God; and the spirit of our worship recognizes one common brotherhood among all of God's people, without any distinction of difference because of church relationship.

We believe that the whole Bible is the Word of God, and that the present dispensation affords as great privileges to the people of God as any apostle or prophet ever enjoyed; therefore we preach salvation from all sin, holiness unto the Lord, the baptism of the Holy Ghost as received by the people on the day of Pentecost; healing of all manner of diseases through faith in the atonement, and the premillennial second coming of Jesus.

We will have with us this year Rev. E. D. Reeves, of Roanoke, Va.; Rev. S. A. Bishop, of Birmingham, Ala.; Rev. Paul F. Beacham, President of Holmes Bible and Missionary Institute, Greenville, S. C.; Rev. G. F. Taylor, Editor of The Pentecostal Holiness Advocate, Franklin Springs, Ga., and other preachers and workers whose sole desire is to be helpful.

Good song service every night, singing being supplemented by the Falcon Holiness School Band.

Services at 6:00 a. m., 9:30 a. m.; preaching, 11:00 a. m.; children's service at 2:00 p. m.; preaching at 3:00 and 8:00 p. m., night service being preceded by song service at 7:30.

Good restaurant on the grounds, also cook stove to be used free by any campers who wish to do their own cooking, and the stores will sell such eatables as are generally kept in stores.

Furnished rooms may be obtained at the School Dormitory, and many private homes take boarders also and furnish sleeping accommodations at reasonable rates, there being a general spirit of co-operation on the part of residents to assist all in getting comfortable entertainment.

The campers' building also has 48 rooms, renting for $4.00, $3.00 and $2.50 per room for the ten days, the prices being arranged according to location on first, second and third floors. These rooms are furnished with straw for bedding.

A hearty invitation is extended to all who come for good.

A. E. ROBINSON, Secy.

"So you asked Geraldine to marry you?" asked a man of the other. "Yes, but I didn't have any luck," replied his friend. "She asked me if I had any prospects." "Why didn't you tell her about your rich uncle?" "I did, hang it all! Geraldine's my aunt now."—Boston Post.

WATER SUPT. BIZZELL RESIGNED LAST NIGHT

L. U. Bizzell resigned last night the position which he has held for the past 16 years as superintendent of the local water department to take effect September 1. He resigned at the same time the positions of chief of the fire department and local building inspector. The resignations were accepted by the mayor and town commissioners while in called session. The matter of electing a successor to Mr. Bizzell will be taken up by the town board at its next regular meeting Monday evening of next week. Mr. Bizzell has not yet decided what he will do. He also served also as superintendent of the local power plant until last year, when it was sold to the Carolina Power & Light Co.

TRADES HOUND DOG FOR AN OLD MULE

(Statesville Landmark) There may be some mules that would make a fair swap for Joe Gray's hound dog, but the mule that fell to Joe's lot in exchange for his hound is not one of them, he feels. Joe is a colored youth, and this feeling was so strong with him that he came to the police in tears Tuesday afternoon and asked their help in obtaining his dog's return. Joe says it was not a trade though others informed the police to the contrary; that they were present behind the City Flour Mill and witnessed the transaction.

If size is considered an element of worth, Joe got his money's worth—it is a great big mule. Around his legs are black rings suggestive of zebra blood. He is not likely to be troublesome, to judge by the philosophical countenance with which passing of many years has invested him. These compensating qualities bear no weight with Joe; he doesn't want the animal; he wants his dog. The police tried to locate the man, but were unsuccessful. Crouch is said to be his name, and the vicinity of Taylorsville his home.

Joe told the police that the man picked up his dog and put him in his buggy against his will, and since Joe is a minor they responded to his cause and to his tears, sharing the common opinion that mighty few mules would make a fair swap for a high-class, color-berd hound dog.

WEEVILS ATTACKING WELL-GROWN BOLLS

This is the critical season for boll weevil damage, according to W. E. Mabey, entomologist in charge of the local government boll weevil field station. The weevils are now beginning to attack the bolls, he says. He gathered a number of practically grown bolls that had been punctured in some fields near Kipling yesterday.

The weevil infestation is becoming general though in some fields it is much heavier than in others, Mr. Mabey stated to a Dispatch reporter this morning. Continuing, he said the cotton growers should keep a close watch for infestation at this time.

One farmer from near Apex who patronizes the Raleigh curb market has sold during the past six months $415 worth of poultry and eggs from a flock of 135 hens. He has one hundred young pullets for another year, and has fertilized his truck crops with poultry manure.

When one farmer brought the county agent of Perquimans county about one hundred punctured cotton squares on July 21, the agent used these in a demonstration to explain the life history of the boll weevil and methods for its control.

Save the whey from cottage cheese, use a small amount of lemon juice, sweeten to taste and serve as lemonade. No water is needed, and when this drink is served with cracked ice, it is very refreshing, says Miss Pix Andrews, of Robeson county.

Soprano—"Did you notice how my voice filled the hall last night?" Soubrette—"Yes dear—in fact, I noticed several people leaving to make room for it."—Richmond Evening Dispatch.

A woman entered a theatre recently, and happened to take her seat in front of a newly married couple. She was scarcely seated before they began making remarks about her. Her last year's hat and cloak were criticized with more or less giggling on the bride's part and there is no telling what might come next if the woman hadn't put a stop to the conversation by a bit of clever strategy.

She turned her head, noticed that the bride was considerably older than the bridegroom, and in smooth tones said: Madam, will you please ask your son to remove his feet from the back of my chair."—The Daily Mail (Brisbane Australia).

Foreman—"Yes, I'll give ye a job sweepin' an' keepin' the place clean." "But I'm a college graduate." "Well, then, maybe ye better start on something simpler."—Life (New York Sun).

A doctor operated on a lad's head to make him a better boy. A good many of us have a distinct recollection that our fathers operated on a different spot to make us better boys.—Charleston News and Courier.

The Court—"You say your wife received an anonymous letter informing her of something you did before your marriage? Well the best thing you can do is to confess." Poor Hubby—"I know; but she won't let me read the letter and I don't know what to confess."

An old physician was noted for his brusque manner and methods. A woman called him to treat her baby, who was slightly ailing. The doctor prescribed castor oil. "But doctor," protested the young mother, "castor oil is such an old-fashioned remedy." "Madam," replied the doctor, "babies are old-fashioned things."—Edinburg Scotsman.

The Fall Garden

Raleigh, Aug. 13.—Since August is an important month in the home garden, it deserves some attention, because much can be done now to make the fall garden a success. F. E. McCall, garden specialist for the State College and Department of Agriculture, gives a list of some vegetables that may be planted during this month to start the fall garden on its way. He says, "Plant now, stringless green pod beans, Cos lettuce, head lettuce, kale, turnips, carrots and rutabagas. Seeds may be planted late this month for winter cabbage, celery, cauliflower and collards."

"Plants of celery, cabbage, cauliflower may be set out this month for fall use." "Plant some vegetable each month so that a continuous supply will be on hand at a time when vegetables begin to get scarce." Unless this is done, states Mr.
