

DUKE NEWS

Duke, Oct. 22.—Mrs. J. B. Patterson died here Sunday at her home on South Park street from complications of diseases brought on by asthma and cancer. Deceased was in her fifty-third year, and had been a resident of Duke for more than fifteen years. Her husband died about a year ago while they were living in Greensboro, and after his death Mrs. Patterson moved back to Duke. She leaves five daughters and two sons to mourn her passing. Interment is to be made in the family burial plot at Antisch church, near Lillington, Tuesday morning.

A ten-days' revival began at the local Baptist church last Sunday evening, which promises to be of great interest to local folk. Rev. H. T. Howell, of Newton, is conducting it.

The Rally Day exercises held last Sunday morning at the local Presbyterian Sunday school drew the largest attendance in the history of the school. R. L. Godwin, of Dunn, addressed the congregation on the many benefits to be derived from attending Sunday school regularly. Mr. Godwin paid a splendid compliment to the superintendent of the local school, C. S. Hicks, saying that he first started to Sunday school in Dunn, while Mr. Hicks was superintendent of the Dunn school, and that Mr. Hicks more than anyone else had impressed him with the idea of attending Sunday school. An offering was collected for the Sunday school extension work of the Southern Presbyterian church.

W. A. Erwin, Jr., was host to the overseers of the mill Saturday afternoon at a very delicious barbecue served down on the bank of the Cape Fear river. Every overseer present reported a very delightful afternoon.

Dr. William P. Holt returned Saturday from Philadelphia, Pa., where he attended a series of surgical lectures at Jefferson Medical school.

Rev. N. M. McDonald and family spent Sunday in Fayetteville with relatives.

Miss Louise Geddie and Mary Carrett, students at Carolina college, Maxton, spent Sunday here with Miss Geddie's parents.

E. C. Geddie and children spent the week-end in Fayetteville with Mrs. Geddie, who is in a hospital there. Mr. Geddie says that Mrs. Geddie will be able to return home Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Swift Hooper and sons, Charles and Robert, and Mrs. Robinson Freeman, of Winston-Salem, spent several days here last week with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bost.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Godfrey and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Wilson, spent Sunday at Hillsboro with Mr. Godfrey's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Byers, of Asheville, Ala., have moved to their home on Main street here. Mr. Byers is connected with the office of the Erwin Cotton Mill Co.

Plans are being formulated here for a big celebration on Armistice Day. Cole K. Burgess, former State Adjutant of the American Legion, will make the address of the day. A more complete program will be announced later as the plans materialize.

God Advice

Congratulations to the organizers of Harnett's Fair upon the success of this year's exposition. The "biggest and best ever" in 1923 is no bar to another "biggest and best" in 1924. Let's all pull together in the effort to make Harnett county safe for agriculture.—Harriet County News.

Bradley-Harmon

Buel's Creek, Oct. 23.—A marriage of wide-spread interest was that of Miss Josephine Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Harmon, of Buel's Creek, and Paul Bradley, of Kipling, which took place at the home of the bride Sunday afternoon. Rev. J. A. Campbell, pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a satin crepe dress with gray hat, gloves and shoes.

The young couple have a host of friends throughout the State, whom their marriage will be a source of interest.

Nelson, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius M. Lee, had his left arm broken just below the elbow this morning when he was thrown down while playing with other boys at school.

One way of improving farming in North Carolina is to think over what you have seen at the fair this fall.

NOBODY TO CLAIM UNKNOWN PERSON

Victim Of Fatal Auto Accident At Maxton Still Unclaimed

Maxton, Oct. 16. Four weeks ago last night a young man or youth took a car belonging to a negro tenant and dashed out of town headed toward Fayetteville, and when about two miles beyond the corporate limits of the town, the car was seen to veer to the right, then violently to the left, leap across a ditch and into a tree.

Witnesses rushed to give aid but the car was too heavy to move from the prostrate form of the driver who lay still, either stunned or killed outright. The would-be rescuers rushed for help but before aid could be obtained fire broke out in an instant the whole car was ablaze, making a veritable fire over and around the prostrate form of the boy.

The fire had consumed all the combustible parts of the car as well as the gasoline before means of extinguishing the flames were seen. All that remained was the twisted and warped rods and bars of the car and the almost consumed charred remains of the youthful driver, a horrible spectacle. Was he white, was he Indian, or was he black? The condition of the body was such as none could tell; however, the doctors who examined the body said that he was white, so his remains were interred in Eastside Cemetery.

But who is he? Is there not a soul missing from somewhere? Maybe the wayward youth was trying to reach home when the car was taken. Maybe he was in desperation trying to reach a sick wife or child. There is no human being, but has loved ones. Perhaps his mother's face was pictured to him this Saturday night and he was trying to reach her bedside by Sunday. Somebody's son or husband or brother is buried in Eastside Cemetery and perhaps hearts are waiting his return. Who knows who it is? He was loved by someone. Will it ever be known? Maybe not.

Appreciated

We hasten to voice our deep sympathy to Brother Pope upon the loss of his jimmy pipe. Vexation of spirit may he be able to bear with that humility unbecoming a newspaper man. May the wretched robber prove too weak a specimen to inhale the aroma!—Harriet County News.

Woman Sues Host For Hurts On A Joy Ride

Greensboro, Oct. 18.—Walter Vestal, of High Point, little thought last January 21, when he had as his guests in his car Mrs. E. C. Bays and her daughter, of Buena Vista, Va., that they would be suing him some day, but that is how it turned out. Today Mrs. Bays entered suit in Guilford Superior court for $10,000 damages, claiming she was badly injured because of careless and reckless driving on the part of Vestal. It is alleged in the complaint that Mrs. Bays and her daughter were riding with Vestal when he ran into a telephone pole, while driving at a dangerous rate of speed, the plaintiff being injured because of the hoarding of the hospital because of the injuries, and because she was suffering, and that further hospital bills and medical attention caused her expense.

EVEN ISOLATED FARMS MAY HAVE ELECTRICITY

Electrical engineers declare that as soon as matter how far removed from cities, need be without the cheer brightness and the decorative charm of electric lights. In all places where a public utility lighting and power company has its lines of transmission wires, the house simply needs to be properly wired.

Farm houses that are isolated are in many places installing their own electric light and power plants. These are entirely self contained. A small gasoline engine furnishes power for an electric generator which produces the electric energy not only for lighting the house, but for running a pump for the water system and power for many of the farm machines.

These farm light and power sets are so comparatively simple that cases are on record where women have run them and taken care of them without assistance.

By means of these, electricity can be brought into any home that is out of reach of the lines of the electric light and power companies.

Electric Whip—for the Kitchen. The electric whip has also arrived. Calm yourself—this isn't a refinement on the rod that must be used if the egg is not to be spoiled. It's an egg beater, motor driven, and it's said to be capable of taming the wildest egg, cream, batter or dressing.

Chillies are monuments to the greed of men who farm for themselves alone; men who give no thought to the welfare of coming generations.
