Seeks Trial For Slaying In 1900

James Lunsford Fugitive From Justice 33 Years; Lived In Louisiana

Marshall James Lunsford charged with the slaying 33 years ago of his cousin, Ed Lunsford, in the Big Pine section of Madison county, and since that time a fugitive from justice, returned to Marshall Thursday when he surrendered to officers and announced he wanted to be tried on the charge.

Back in the county from which he fled in 1900, Lunsford said he had lived in Louisiana since leaving Madison. Today it was learned he is a wealthy plantation owner and a prominent and influential citizen of that state.

An examination of records in the case today disclosed that a bill of indictment charging Lunsford with murder was returned in the case at the time also a bill charging John W. Randall of Big Pine, with being an accessory after the fact. Randall was tried and convicted of the charge and served a four months sentence.

Gray and worn by the years, Lunsford appeared unworried when officers told him he was in custody after he had surrendered. Following a conference between Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles and officials here, he was allowed bond of $1,500 pending trial which is expected to take place at the November term of Madison county superior court.

Repealists And Drys Staging Last Minute Drive In This County

Final Details Completed By The Mountaineer and Martin Electric Co. To Give Election Returns

Hon. Zeb Turlington and R. W. Griffith To Speak This Week, Both Sides Working Hard

With all election officials having received last minute instructions regarding the election, Grover C. Davis, Chairman of the board said yesterday that everything was ready for 7 o'clock Tuesday, November 7th, at which time, or within a minute of that time, the polls will open. The polls will close about 6:00 o'clock.

During the past few days much interest has been shown over the fact that The Mountaineer and Martin Electric Company will again this election give to the public by a public speaking outfit and bulletin board the latest returns from the county state and the five other states, which will vote on the 7th.

Mr. Martin said yesterday that he had all of his equipment ready and together with a Philco radio will be prepared to entertain the crowd as well as give them the latest news. The Mountaineer has arranged to get the returns as quickly as possible after polls close. The first returns should begin coming in an hour or more after the polls close.

In the event of rain or cold, the "show" will be held in a public building, probably the court house. Regardless of where the show is held it will be free to all. Those unable to attend may get the latest returns by calling The Mountaineer phone 137.

Club Women Hear A Noted Speaker

One of the most interesting and instructive features of the program at the District club meeting on Monday was an exhibit of material, including X-Ray plates, clinical reports etc. by the United States Food and Drug Administration and an explanatory talk by Mr. Lewis A. Smith of the administration. Mr. James A. Snider was also present and assisted.

The purpose was to stimulate interest in and create a better understanding of the Copeland Bill designed to correct the deficiencies of the Wiley Bill. The Pure Food and Drug Act which has done such wonderful service to human health and welfare.

New ways for new times, and unscrupulous manufacturers, have since the passage of the Pure Food and Drug Law found methods of evading the purpose of that law or the public that the new law has eight distinct provisions which will eliminate all dangerous poisons. For instance, if a pure drug is not used, it prevents manufacturers who have possibly made his label conform to government standards, from going on the list as an adulterator with spurious claims for his wares, or the type of "favor" made of in penalties for children to guard against choking or similar accidents; controls the resolution under which canned goods and other food products are packed and puts off the market various "venstrations" for which unwarranted argument are put forth.

Mr. Smith asked us to say that anyone desiring a summary of the bill may obtain it by writing to the Pure Food and Drug Administration, of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. and that a single copy of the Copeland Bill itself may be had by writing your Senator or Congressman requesting it. He also said the importance of urging the passage of the bill and feels that all club women will want to emphasize the importance of this measure on their representatives in Congress prior to the next Congressional session.

With Haywood county still in the "doubtful column" the repealists and drys are making last minute drives to enlist recruits for their side on next Tuesday. This week will bring to the speakers' platforms in the county some of the leading speakers for both sides of the question, which makes it evident that neither side is absolutely sure of the outcome. Leaders of both sides are, however, optimistic.

On Saturday night at 7:30 Robert W. Griffith, manager of chemical sales of Champion Fibre Company, will speak at the court house for the repeal forces. Mr. Griffith will speak in Canton at the high school Friday night at 7:30.

On Sunday night at the court house, at 7:30, Hon. Zeb V. Turlington, author of the Turlington Act, will speak for the dry cause. All other speakers in the city will be suspended for this service.

Other speeches to be made for the drys during the next few days are as follows:

Hon. J. J. Britt at the Canton high school Sunday night at 7:30.

Hon. Thomas J. Harkins at the Clyde high school Friday night at 7:30.

Grover C. Davis at Cranberry Thursday night 7:30.

Grover C. Davis at Fines Creek high school Friday night at 7:30.

D. J. Kerr, chairman of the repeal forces of this county, and member of state committee of repeal, said yesterday that he believed the majority in Haywood county would be for repeal. "Many of the voters, especially the women voters, have been misinformed," Mr. Kerr said. "We are going to present them with the facts, and we especially want them to hear Mr. Griffith at Canton or Waynesville and if possible at both places."

"All friends favoring repeal must vote," he said "and not stay at home."

Mr. Griffith is recognized as one of the outstanding speakers on any subject pertaining to national or international affairs. His work carries him to Europe several times each year and there he makes a study of social and economic problems.

W. R. Francis will introduce Mr. Griffith at Saturday night's meeting.

The drys are depending on Hon. Zeb V. Turlington, author of the Turlington Act, in his address at the court house Sunday night to make a convincing speech for the dry cause. Mr. Turlington has been a life long prohibitionist and has spoken for the cause hundreds of times to great audiences.

James Atkins, dry candidate, said: "We are indeed fortunate to have a man like Hon. Turlington to come to Haywood county at this time. His services are in much demand over the state. He has spoken to crowded houses throughout the state and we expect a large number to be present to hear this distinguished speaker Sunday night."

It is Sunday the dry forces had speakers in practically every Baptist church and others in the county.
