

Haywood Institute Class of '24 Meets

The second annual meeting of the class of 1924 of the old Haywood Institute, of Clyde, was held at the Sulphur Springs, Waynesville, Sunday, June 23. Only a third of the thirty-six who graduated together were present. The afternoon was a delightful time of good fellowship.

A striking feature of the gathering was the absence of much reminiscence, but the lively interest and concern in present-day trends of thought and living. Plans were made that the group meet at this same time next year, and that efforts be made to have more members and their families attend.

Tentative place of meeting in 1936 is Soco Gap.

Jesse James was reflected to head the group for the coming year. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Hurst Justice and children, of Clyde, Orville and Sarah McCracken Noland and children, of Waynesville, Mr. and Mrs. Lowry Ferguson and children, of Crabtree, Ben and Hazel Crawford Patton and children, of Canton, Roxie Noland James and Mr. Orville James, Crabtree, Annie Hawkins, of Sandy Mush, Hilda Haynes Owen and Mr. Homer Owen and children, of Waynesville, Jesse Carr James and son, of Hazelwood, Guy W. Messer, of Crabtree, Grace Platt, of Waynesville.

Plan Extensive Safeguards For Nation's Mints

Washington, D. C.—Safeguards for the nation's mints will be made more extensive, according to the plan of the Federal Reserve Board, announced here today.

The board's plan calls for a new central mint building in Washington, D. C., and for the removal of the mints in Philadelphia and St. Louis to the new building.

The board also recommended that the Federal Reserve Board be authorized to issue currency notes in denominations of one cent, two cents, five cents, ten cents, and twenty cents.

Junior Music Club Met On Wednesday

The Waynesville Junior Music Study Club held its June meeting Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock in the auditorium of the Baptist church.

For some time the Junior Club has been studying church music, and this meeting brought to a close the course of study with each young member playing from memory one of the old hymns of the church.

For the best performance, a prize was awarded in piano and violin, and the highest honor went to Bebe Medford, pianist, and Phil Medford, violinist.

Must Be Remarried

Somerville, Mass.—The city clerk said that Arthur M. Colton, 27, and his bride, Annie, 23, must go through another marriage ceremony when they return from their honeymoon. A New Hampshire publisher made a mistake in marrying the couple on the basis of a Massachusetts license good only in that state.

Raiff's SACRIFICE SALE which opened here last week, will continue until the Fourth of July. Hundreds of BARGAINS await you there. adv

Two From Here Seeking Places On Highway Patrol

James H. Ooman and Fred J. Ferguson, both of this community, will be among the 154 North Carolinians who have been notified by Dr. M. C. Noble, Jr., assistant state revenue commissioner, to report in Raleigh on July first to undergo a training course at the State Fair Grounds to determine their qualifications for membership in the state highway patrol.

Out of the 154, a total of 64 will be selected as state patrolmen to bring the highway patrol up to the limit of 821 allowed by the 1935 general assembly.

In announcing the list of men ordered here, Dr. Noble said it had been quite a task to select the group out of the several thousand fine young men who had applied for the patrol jobs.

WHERE ARE WE HEADED?

Mr. Babson, usually cheerful and level-headed, has a bad case of the blues just now.

He lachrymously wants to know in a lachrymose article if the United States is "headed for chaos."

That, we had been thinking, are the conditions from which we have been trying to escape.

We were not sure where we were going during these past two years, but it is commonly consented that we were in a hurry getting away from chaos.

Now Mr. Babson frightens with the inquiry tending to indicate that in his judgment we may be headed either straightway into a new wilderness or that we have become lost in our windings about and are back-tracking it to the same dismal swamp of confusion and bewilderment we had thought ourselves to be leaving.

It's the increase in public debt that alarms the economist. So far this year the government has spent the almost unimaginable sum of $11,000,000 every week, more than that a billion a month.

He knows that in a month or so the same law will be in force in physics—Kepler's law of gravitation greater than the attraction of the vessel will eventually take the lotte Observer.

LETTERS to the Editor

Editor The Mountaineer—After hearing considerable adverse comments regarding our street "Eastern Entrance" sign, the writer wishes to call attention to the fact that we already have an Eastern Entrance into the park, also one through the park. So few of our own people really know this, that it is small wonder strangers are misinformed.

Sixteen miles over a good auto road takes us to Black Camp Gap. A new twelve mile road leads out from this point right into the park. Six miles out, at Flat Creek, we come to one of the outstanding, never-to-be forgotten views. From a mile elevation we look across the upper stretches of the deep Carolina valley to the outstanding panorama of the whole park. Range upon range seem piled before us in the sky, with the Great Smokies crowning all. Our leading park officials, as well as local people, who are quite familiar with the park panorama this the outstanding panoramic view of the whole park.

Then don't forget Cove Creek Gap with highway 284 leading through the park, past Mount Sterling, with a wonderful new trail on into Tennessee.

It is true that our sign is a little misleading to strangers. It could be changed but should not be removed as we do have an Eastern Entrance and a very good one right at our side door.
