The Junior Woman's Club of Canton is sponsoring a dance at the Armory on Monday night from 10:00 to 2:00 o'clock. The Tarheels, a prominent Asheville orchestra, will furnish music. It is a strip dance, and admission will be $1.00.

TOO MUCH SERVICE

Chicago—A tired looking, weary-beaten itinerant asked the desk sergeant for a place to spend the night. The officer said he could have a place, then added jocularly:

"Of course, you'll have to be up at 6 o'clock. That's the rule at this hotel."

The man turned down the exit. "I never get up before nine," he said over his shoulder. "I'll have to try somewhere else."

Bats Need Little Food

Experiments by zoologists show that some species of bats can go for months without eating.

Shelton's Garden To Be Show Place For Flower Lovers

sidered scarce or rare as to quantity. It is a very striking rich purple known as photinain and is held on long stems which make it practical for arranging.

Each year Mr. Shelton and Mr. Ivey and their collections and discard the tubers that for some defect do not live up to the high standard set by them for dahlias worthy of the time, and attention they both give the plants. Now coming into bloom in the Shelton gardens are many of the favored varieties that will next week be on exhibition at the Dahlia Show, sponsored by the Woman's Club.

Leading all others in reaching the peak of development in the Shelton gardens are the Commodores, a decorative yellow of enormous size. There are some magnificent specimens of this variety, in bloom now, and many buds on just the show type of stems.

Among some of the others are the Buckeye Bride, the Sanheon Queen, Jersey's Beauty, Pen Charter, Mable Good, Kemp's Violet Wonder, Jane Cowl, Jersey's Beacon, Champung, the peaches and cream effect, Fort Washington, Hattie Shelton, the Thomas Edison, and the Frank Miller, one of the leading show dahlias.

But in a visit to the Shelton gardens the dahlias are just one feature. There are tall mallows, in a riot of pink bloom, delphinium in all shades of blue, roses, zinnias, salvia, azaleum, a new flower, a cross between an azalea and a chrysanthemum, large beds of Princess Feather in gorgeous colors and unusual shapes, and dozens of other flowers. Each variety grown is in a state of perfection. Along with the flowers will be seen vegetables grown in the same high state of perfection. There is a tomato patch containing 1,000 Van Tour plants staked on seven foot poles, growing above the poles and bearing tomatoes weighing more than two pounds.

50-YEAR-OLD TRIPLETS STILL FOOL FRIENDS

ADRIAN, Mich.—The Butrick triplets, who still look enough alike to fool their friends, have celebrated their 50th birthdays.

Daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Butrick, the triplets were graduated from high school together, taught school, and then married farmers.

For the last 25 years the three have celebrated their birthdays by gathering with friends and neighbors at one of their homes. This year, amid a variable forest of candles on the cake, they were entertained by Mrs. Floyd Preston, the only one of the three who married twice.

Huey Long Blocks $102,000,000 Bill As 74th Congress Adjourns Monday Night

The 74th Congress headed its way homeward yesterday after a tense and turbulent last session, leaving anxious Roosevelt leaders seeking ways to obtain millions in funds. As has been the case on more than one occasion during the past year, Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, took the last five and a half hours with his usual filibuster.

Talking on despite taunts, gibes and earnest pleas, Long held the senate floor until the senate adjourned at the stroke of midnight Monday night, and thus succeeded in blocking the $102,000,000 third deficiency bill, carrying funds to start the new deal's giant social security program, utilities regulation, the Guffey coal control bill, the new neutrality plan and other major measures.

Declaring he wanted action on 12-cent cotton and 90-cent wheat loan amendments which were abandoned when the AAA announced a compromise 10-cent-loan-subsidy program for cotton, Long was the center of a highly dramatic scene an instant before midnight, as gay crowds in galleries held their breath.

Long at that point was droning on in a leisurely manner reading from an old number of the congressional record. Previously he had shouted, "I won't surrender," as administration leaders sought to get him to desist.

Senator Schwelvenbach, democrat of Washington, who argued that Long was blocking funds for the aged and crippled, arose to point an accusing finger at the Louisiana senator and say:

"It is now a minute before midnight. I ask whether or not because of his selfish desire for publicity, the senator from Louisiana hasn't defeated the hopes, the aspirations, and the desires of millions of people."

Before Long could yell his oft-repeated "that ain't so," the big clock's hands moved to 12 and Vice-President Garner's gavel cracked.

"The senate is adjourned sine die," the Vice-President proclaimed.

(The two houses, hours earlier, had passed resolutions for automatic adjournment at midnight.)

The galleries, silent a minute before Garner's gavel fell, burst into a roar. Senator Long walked out of the chamber, leaders had turned their clock back in the half-expectation that perhaps the senate might do likewise, wear Long down, and speed the deficiency bill to enactment.

But when it became certain that nothing like that was to be done, the house too adjourned. It was 12 midnight by its clock when that happened, but actually it was 12:09 A. M. (EST)

Thus ended the historic session which saw such measures passed as the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill, largest appropriation of all time; the far-reaching social security measure; a new, if only temporary, neutrality policy for America; a bank bill giving a reorganized federal reserve board more centralized control over money and credit; amendments to strengthen AAA and TVA; a $250,000,000 new tax bill; utilities regulation, and a list of other major acts.

It also saw the supreme court strike down the new deal's number 1 experiment, NRA, starting a constitutional debate sure to echo in the 1936 campaign, and it saw the senate vote down American adherence to the

There are more farmers than persons engaged in any other occupation in this country.

It is claimed that if an elephant ate the same amount proportionately as a mouse it would consume 100,000 pounds of food daily. Actually it eats only about 100 pounds.

In 1900 the cancer death rate was 63 per 100,000. Now it is 100 per 100,000, but has begun a slight decline.

There are 20,000 drug addicts in the city of Nanking, according to the estimates of the Chinese government. A female alligator lays from 20 to 70 eggs. They resemble very much duck eggs.

Studies show the average speed of lightning to be 28,500 miles a second.

"GLIMPSE INTO FUTURE?" Sunnyvale, Calif.—And, asked Jack Francis, who wouldn't be surprised under the circumstances?

Francis drowsed at his gasoline station on the highway near here, visioning a steady stream of customers, or something, and along came this unmuffled motor sound and an airplane pilot taxied to his pump, yelling, "Fill 'er up!" The pilot, Charles P. Cooley, had made an emergency landing in a field beside the highway.

Facials may take the wrinkles out of your face
But TIRED FEET will put them back

Goodbye tired feet!

Nothing puts lines and wrinkles in your face as quickly as the strain of tired, aching feet.

An ungraceful carriage and round shoulders are also the result of foot fatigue

All this is banished forever with Perfect-Eze Shoes. Slip your feet into a pair. The sheer joy of such undreamed of comfort will mean more to your countenance than a course of beauty treatments.

Perfect-Eze Shoes are built on an entirely new principle: The soft, invisible cellular sole actually cushions every step you take—acts as a shock absorber for the tiring jolts and jars of unyielding pavements and floors.

Not only that, Perfect-Eze Shoes beautify your feet because they are so attractively styled. Try a pair today. You'll be amazed at the transformation they bring about in your appearance and carriage.
