HERE and THERE BY HILDA WAY Gwyn

We all fall for human interest stories of the great and the near great—the most homey but of news seen in some time was the story of the maddening search they had last Wednesday night at the White House—merely for buttons for the President's vest—at your house or mine—where such things as dress suits—are laid away and brought out—only for inspection for possible moths—or annually taken out for wear on some extraordinary occasion—it seems that Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt were dressing for a dinner to be given in their honor by the cabinet members and their wives on the occasion of their third anniversary in the White House.

The President could not find his pearl buttons for his vest. He and Mrs. Roosevelt—as well as the valet hunted high and low—searched dresser drawers—and so on—Finally Mrs. Roosevelt remarked that they were already late enough—and the crisis was met—by the insertion of black buttons from the vest of his dinner clothes—of course on second thought there would be considerable difference in my house and yours—we wouldn't have a valet to help hunt—but we could call in a neighbor to take his place—and certainly there would be no extra buttons among the accessories—but we could have lost them in the self same mysterious manner.

The Community Safety League will meet again tomorrow night—if you are a civic minded person—interested in all the details of town improvement that seem to be nobody's direct business—you should attend one of these gatherings—which are staged by Oscar L. Belms—who is responsible for all the good works—but who modestly retires from the floor—and gives the glory to the program committee—and the speakers—Everything concerning the community and its welfare—as the name implies is covered—Solicitor John Queen will hold forth this time—and a very important matter—as we approach the summer season—Parking on Main Street—will come in for discussion—

Isn't it nice to see Mrs. Charles E. Quinlan back in active club circles—Mrs. Quinlan is a former president of the Community Club and has received much recognition from the State Federation of Women's Clubs—In fact there was a time—had she been so inclined—that she could have held the high office of president—one of the greatest gifts in the hands of the women of the state—to confer on one of its daughters.

I don't know who enjoyed the Fashion Show held on Friday night—by the Fashion Shoppe—most—the men or the women—one group scouted about as keen as the other—at any rate Francis Massie and Joe Tate never missed a trick—whose wives—by the way made distinctive models—Some of the models wore their clothes so well that as they demonstrated them to the public—I wondered if their modeling wouldn't serve two purposes—it certainly should have—"Joe" Gay will never and a more becoming dinner gown than the yellow crepe she wore—Fannie Pearl Felmet's clothes were made for her type—I hope Mrs. Felix Stovall has bought her gown—and Cornelia Boyd looked so natural—I can positively see her sitting on the Hotel Waynesville porch—in the coral suit she wore—

And while on the subject of spring fashions—dresses and otherwise—Have you seen "E. Kay's Sons" last shipment of dresses—Did you know that Huch Massie has opened another store—in Canton—have seen several Waynesville people who have been down and returned with complimentary reports not only about the wares—but the crowds—in a recent city ad—the startling statement was made—"Blushing in style again"—I suppose it has come back to keep step with the trend in the revival of the feminine touches of curls—frills—ruffles—and rustling taffeta petticoats of our mothers and grandmothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Burgin and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bradley spent Monday in Knoxville. They attended the opening of a merchandising firm.
