Camp Dellwood Ending Success- ful Season 26th

Varied Program Given Boys In The First Season Of Camp;
J. A. Carlisle, Director

On August 26th Camp Dellwood for Boys will end its first season. It is the belief of J. A. Carlisle and the staff that for a beginning year the camp has had a fairly successful season.

The staff, composed of outstanding men and women, has made rich contributions to the program, each in his own particular field. The senior members of the staff are college graduates, and almost without exception each has done graduate work.

The junior members of the staff are freshmen or sophomores in college. Because of this fact the campers are in association with people of a high intellectual type.

The camp is non-denominational, but observes Christian principles and high standards along all lines of life, in work, play, and all phases of camp activities. In the forest there has been built an attractive chapel, known as "The Chapel-in-the-Park," where the camp meets for a beautiful worship service each Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

It is one of the principles of Camp Dellwood that all staff members so live that they radiate a fine influence, and will insult into each camper a sense of right living. It is another and deeply basic principle of Dellwood to believe in the policy of well-balanced development of each camper, therefore rather than become a camp which overly emphasizes any one sport, or activity, and in order to secure balanced development the camp program must include a wide range of appealing activities. To have such a program necessitates a group of instructors, all well-trained and qualified to serve in these many phases.

This year in addition to a large range of athletics, water sports, hiking and trips, there has been offered dramatics, classes in first aid, music, and an excellent grade of work, done in handcrafts, also natural science and very splendid work in sketching.

On the staff there has been a young Cherokee Indian who has made a fine contribution to the program in the way of Indian lore, and games, perhaps the richest contribution made by "Trail Boy" has been his fine influence upon the boys.

Evenings spent about the great fire-place in Lickley Hall (The Lodge) or out in the Dell seated by the campfire—hours of quiet conversation or the services in the chapel, the periods of fellowship in the cabins before "taps," mealtime and singing in Nottingham (the dining hall) and hours on the athletic field or in swimming, or at the work bench in "Robin Hood's Barn," busy with tools, all these and many more are of real value to a boy and will always form pleasant memories in the years ahead.
