

HERE and THERE By Hilda Way Gwyn

A mother whose small son attends the East Waynesville school . . . has made a special appeal to this column to give publicity to the need of stricter traffic enforcement on the stretch of road . . . or street . . . as one might term it . . . that starts at Abel's Garage on the Asheville highway . . . and ends beyond the hospital hill . . . she is anxious that a policeman be stationed there during the hours that the children arrive and leave the school building . . . she claims that when the average motorist reaches that area after leaving Main Street . . . that they feel they are out of town and its time to step on the gas . . . and really go . . . and that they pay practically no attention to either the school bus or the children entering or leaving the school grounds . . . she cited one "near accident" . . . with the school bus last week that just missed being a very serious tragedy . . . and the driver of the offending car . . . just raced on by without so much as a glance backward . . . to see what it was all about . . .

Two young boys about town certainly can say of their summer vacations . . . "well done" . . . from a remunerative standpoint . . . they are Humes Harte . . . son of Mr. and Mrs. Humes Harte . . . Humes watching his mother Lillian Allen Harte . . . director of the Balsam Weavers . . . weaving in her shop became interested . . . his mother gave him some instructions . . . and Humes set about weaving like an old time hand . . . recently he had $22.00 saved up . . . a small portion of it gifts . . . but most of it what he had made by weaving . . . he was going to buy postal saving bonds . . . with it . . . the money was in change . . . but he had a great desire to know how it would feel to have in your hand a twenty dollar bill . . . so before he visited the post office . . . he went down to the First National and had twenty dollars of his money changed for a twenty dollar bill . . . and with pride and importance carried it up to the post office and entrusted his earnings into the hands of Uncle Sam . . .

The other young boy . . . Robert Gifford is the son of Mrs. Anna D. Gifford, widow . . . he has made $20.00 by peddling vegetables . . .

he has taken his carrots, beets, squash, lima beans, and tomatoes each day in a small red wagon . . . for several weeks . . . they have become a familiar sight about town . . . and he has seemed to like his trade as well as his grandfather, the late O. G. Kinsland . . . who for many years sold vegetables, chickens, butter and eggs around town . . . Robert's money has found many useful channels . . . some went for taxes for his mother . . . both boys are to be congratulated . . . for they are learning early in life the joy of work . . . and the satisfaction of a reward of one's labors . . .

Mrs. Mary E. Moore, of Lake Junaluska, contributed the following to this column . . . this week:

"The menace of the Roosevelt campaign does not lie in the third term, but in the state of mind that could desire four or more years of Roosevelt in the White House. . . Four more years of personal government . . . four more years of presidential lawlessness . . . four more years of autocratic rule . . . four more years of executive contempt for Congress, courts and the Constitution . . . four more years of centralization . . . four more years of wanton extravagance, of denunciation and demagoguery in the state of mind that wants the new national aims, that wants Federal interference with every form of human industry and activity, that wants the states stripped of their powers, that wants the minority deprived of all safeguard against tyranny of the majority, and Bureaucracy substituted for the Bill of Rights. . ."

Now don't get too excited . . . if you are a loyal New Dealer . . . this was not written about Franklin Delano Roosevelt . . . but about his cousin, Theodore . . . and appeared in the "New York World" . . . late liberal paper, in January, 1912 . . . These Roosevelts seem to have a way with them . . . but we have to admit they are active and popular leaders. . . .

The following was taken from a small town paper in Alabama . . . the novel way in which it was put . . . would attract anybody who had ever been on the inner circle of a newspaper . . . so with apologies to our new circulation manager, Mr. Clark

Mattress Worth $70,000 to Him

Petee showing how he found will

Because an old mattress was torn up, a $70,000 estate will go to the M. A. Petee family of Tulsa, Okla. Samuel Waller, octogenarian oil operator, who died a year ago apparently without leaving heirs or will, had made his home with the Petees for 20 years. The question of inheritance remained open for months until the state attorney general's office went to court in Tulsa, claiming the estate for the state of Oklahoma on the grounds there were no heirs. Petee tore up the mattress recently and found the will which left the estate

Tasty Dishes

CORN AND MUSTARD RELISH

... I repeat . . . it here . . . "If you have frequent headaches, dizziness, fainting spells, lame back, accompanied by chills, cramps, jaundice, chillblains, or epileptic fits, its a sign you are not well, and are liable to die any minute . . . Hasten to this office at once . . . and pay your subscription a year in advance . . . and thus make yourself solid for a good obituary notice. . . ."

such as used for jelly. Do not squeeze or handle much. When the cut vegetables are drained turn into an agate kettle and stir in the spice seed, sugar, salt and vinegar. Use a wooden spoon to do all mixing. Stir thoroughly, pack in clean jars or crocks. Press down lightly so the vinegar covers the pickle. Always keep the pickle covered with pure unadulterated vinegar. Cover jars tightly and keep in a cool, dry place.

WEST INDIA CONSERVE

- 1 pound dried figs.
 - 6 pounds rhubarb.
 - 1 pound raisins.
 - 3 lemons.
 - 1 orange.
 - 5 pounds sugar.
