Judges Fail To Determine "First" In Kitchen Contest

of old ones. You feel it when you meet and talk with the people. The old idea of "what was good enough for ma and pa is good enough for me" is no longer used as an alibi for lack of ambition to better conditions in Haywood County.

One year ago this month Miss Mary Margaret Smith, all time county home demonstration agent, enrolled fifty-five women in a kitchen improvement contest. The contest was to cover a twelve month period in which the contestants would budget and accomplish each month some feature of their project. The entries were from over the entire county, all members of the county demonstration clubs.

Under the supervision of Miss Smith the kitchens have undergone vast changes during the allotted time. For various unavoidable reasons, some of the women were not able to complete the planned improvements on time, though each of the kitchens has been improved, and in the close of the contest there were only 34 actively competing.

The culmination of the year's work was featured in the Achievement Day program of the home demonstration clubs of the county, an annual affair, which was held last Friday morning at the Welch Memorial Building of the Baptist Church.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock with Mrs. J. T. Chappel, of Bethel, president of the county council presiding, and Mrs. R. E. Jones, of Dellwood, secretary. The principal speaker was Miss Pauline Gordon, extension specialist in home management and house furnishings. Following her talk Miss Gordon announced the prize winning kitchens, which she had been judging for several days, going to all parts of the county.

Others taking part on the program were Mrs. W. D. Ketter, who spoke on "Farm and Home Demonstration"; Mrs. H. H. Ferguson, who talked on "Farm Accounts"; Mrs. Henry Francis, who read a poem, "Kitchens," by Gene N. Crowell, and Mrs. Elmer Kuykendall, one of the prize winners, who spoke on "How I Planned my Kitchen."

Luncheon was served in the banquet hall of the church, after which a tour was made of the following kitchens: Mrs. Tom Hipps, Mrs. Crom Cole, and Mrs. Elmer Kuykendall, all of Beavertown; Mrs. Carl S. Green, Mrs. Mark Ferguson, and Mrs. D. Reeves Noland, all of Fines Creek, and Mrs. Tom Rainer, of Jonathan Creek.

In making the announcements of the winners, Miss Gordon stated that there would be no first or second individual prize winners, but that the contestants would be placed in groups, as so many features had to be considered in judging that a group rating would be the fairest way to consider the entries.

Winners in the first group were Mrs. Elmer Kuykendall, Mrs. Crom Cole, Mrs. Mark Ferguson, Mrs. W. D. Ketter, and Mrs. D. Reeves Noland.

In the second group the winners were Mrs. Carl S. Green, Mrs. Tom Hipps, Mrs. W. T. Rainer, Mrs. T. W. Rogers, Mrs. Ernest Edwards, Co., Inc., Robeson Rochester Corp., Hanson Scale Co., Corning Glass Works, Foley Mfg. Co., and Fuller Brush Co.

The first stop on the tour was at the home of Mrs. Tom Hipps in Beavertown. She had spent less than $5.00, but she had wrought wonders for that small amount in rearrangement of the kitchen equipment and magic with fresh paint. On the wall hung an old fashion slate which greatly interested the visitors. Mrs. Hipps stated that she used the slate to tell her family where they could find her. Not a bad idea for any housewife and might often be used to good advantage by the children and husband.

The second stop was at the home of Mrs. Crom Cole, who had everything in electrical appliances a heart could wish. In the year Mrs. Cole had changed the entire kitchen arrangement and the greater part of the equipment. It was not only convenient but pleasing to the eye, with its dainty curtains and pots of flowers.

Next to Mrs. Elmer Kuykendall's home. It was really amazing what she had done with the money spent. A great deal of the work she had done herself, including all the painting and much of the carpentry work. The handles and hinges on her cabinets caught the eye. They were such a convenient type and added an unusual artistic touch.

At Mrs. Carl Green's her laundry ran a close race as far as the visitors were concerned, with her spotless and lovely kitchen, which had many ideas worked out with cream and green as the prevailing colors.

Then on to Fines Creek around high roads and horse shoe bends to the D. Reeves Noland kitchen, planned by both Mr. and Mrs. Noland made a perfect picture of beauty and convenience. Nothing left out that is desired in a kitchen.

Then to the Mark Ferguson kitchen. Here the entire home, a very old house is undergoing a complete renovation, as the owners see their way clear. The house had been painted outside.

HANDS OFF

Robert sorely puzzled by the following question asked in an arithmetic examination: "If one horse can run one mile in a minute and a half, and another horse can do the same distance in two minutes, how far would the first horse be ahead if they ran a race of two miles at their respective speeds?"

He thought for a moment, and then he saw a way out.

"I regret to say, sir," he wrote, "that it is against my principles to have anything to do with horse racing in any form."

He passed.—Grit.

a suitable white. The colors in the kitchen are particularly pleasing, a soft buff that was made by mixing various paints. It was a room in which one would enjoy living. It had even a book shelf, with papers and magazines, as well as all cooking conveniences.

Last to the kitchen of Mrs. Tom Rainer, here everyone was interested in her floor, which looked as if it was covered with some unusual linolium, but was merely $1.25 worth of paint on which a heavy coat of wax had been rubbed. Here green and cream and touches of black lent charm to the well fitted kitchen.

In all the kitchens there were curtains of an appropriate design and color, and adjoining most of them a breakfast alcove, that was so inviting, you simply wanted to rest a while.

The story of the kitchen contest would not be complete without some tribute to the work of Miss Mary Margaret Smith. The organization of the home demonstration clubs under her supervision has been one of the most progressive movements made in the county in many years. When the county board of Commissioners engaged Miss Smith, as home agent, they employed a woman, who not only knows her job thoroughly, but loves her work in such a way that she gets results that will be permanent. She has brought the women of the county together in common bonds of interest that will have much to do in developing the rural life.

300 Head Cattle Sold At Clyde Stock Yards Last Week

Three hundred head of cattle, amounting to $15,000 were sold at the auction held at the Clyde Stock Yards last Thursday. This was the largest sale ever conducted at the yards, according to the operators, totaling a fifty per cent gain over last year.

The sale on Thursday was the annual auction which is held at this season of the year to enable the farmers and cattle men to buy feeders for winter pasturing to fatten for next year's markets.

The buyers came from this county, and from various points in this state and South Carolina, and represented the largest number of persons outside of the county ever attending a sale at the yards.

Cold Weather Fails To Check Bug Pests

"Don't let cold weather lull you into a false sense of security against household insects," warns J.O. Rowell, extension entomologist at State College.

Before modern heating came into general use, he said, houses would get cold enough in winter to check the damage of clothes moths, carpet beetles, cockroaches, silverfish, and other such pests.

But now many homes are so well heated in winter, and are so well constructed that insects keep up their activities the year round. Hence, clothes in storage must be protected in winter as well as summer.

Housewives can reduce insect damage to clothes by brushing, sunning, and airing them frequently during the winter. It is also a good plan to clean all cracks and corners of closets and storage rooms.

Wool sweaters and other garments that are even slightly soiled are particularly appetizing to moths. Clothes that are going to be left hanging up very long at a time should be cleaned and packed in moth-proof containers. Naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene flakes give added protection to clothes in storage.

Cleanliness is a good protection not only against clothes moths and carpet beetles, Rowell continued, but also against kitchen insects.

The small, grayish, scale-covered insects known as silverfish thrive in damp, warm basements, but often do much damage in other parts of the house, feeding upon paper, book-bindings, starchy or sweet foods, and sometimes on fabrics, especially rayon. They can be controlled with a poison bait made of oatmeal, white arsenate, sugar, salt, and enough water to moisten.
