Seals Long March

Leading the anti-administration vote, Sen. Ernest Lundeen (R.-Minn.) will have Gov. Earl Long in the Louisiana primary evaluate Long's failure to obtain a majority against the first New Deal WPA. Just the machine established by his brother, Huey, failed to secure the objectives in the last test.

AGAIN POLITICAL FRONTS

row for each of its tenants on his farm in Bertie. He is a Baptist, a Mason, Bittner, a member of the Junior Order, and a sponsor of humanitarian measures in the legislature. His first step in his campaign, a challenge to Commissioner Ben Scott to a joint debate in every county of the state, puts his methods down as akin to the old fashioned "stump" variety, which can be most effective. He may show off some fireworks that will live up to its situation.

The Dies committee is not to the liking of some of its opponents had hoped. Last week by a vote of 345 to 11 the House voted to continue the probe. However it is said that the extended vote did not reflect the heat with which the resolution was debated in Congress. Many representatives who later voted for the measure joined hands with its foes in criticizing it, and were vehement in their denunciations of anti-labor anti-New Deal, un-American methods. The request for this second extension of life of the committee are not so hot as yet. The house has voted $150,000 for expenses of the committee, which to date has spent $125,000. Mr. Dies has not presented to hear the furore raised over the committee. He was at home in Orange, Texas, recuperating from influenza. He will soon be back in his office to map out the next steps in the investigations, the first among the film studios in Hollywood, it is reported.

Politicians are speculating on how much John L. Lewis' public break with Roosevelt and the New Deal will affect the "labor vote" in the coming conflict. Although Lewis, president of the C. I. O., at the recent convention of the group made no move, or what is left of it, to speak for the duly established, but gave vent to his own personal attitude. But already the question is C. I. O. or the A. F. of L. or "Can the unpredictable miner chief swing the C. I. O. away from the president in the next few months and stop the trend Roosevelt movement which has already gained such momentum in that organization?"

Democratic legislators up in Washington are in a "fighting mood" these days. They are torn between a desire to follow a program of economy, and yet meet the "demands of the times." They are worried about the farm situation almost as much as the farmer himself, for it is causing them more deeply than ever to feel the pinch of the purse. Secretary Wallace is warning against cuts in the farm program. This is an election year. The polls in November will reflect their acts to the voters. Democrats have been here since 1933 and yet strive to give the people what they want. It's just one of the prices that is paid by those who "sit in the seats of the mighty." Bill Bailey

Politicians are getting so nearly worthless politics and the possibility of this one, and that one running, and there is more position than might be expected. It has been averred, although the prospective route, that "the woods are full" of would-be county commissioners.
