State Commander Addresses Legion District Meeting

"Today, as the selective service lottery launched America's greatest peacetime preparedness program, we see the 21-year old policy of the American Legion justified, as the nation as a whole finally wakes up to the absolute necessity of an adequate defense, if American way of life is to be preserved," said R. Dave Hall, of Belmont, State Commander of the American Legion, at the dinner meeting of the 18th district held here in the Legion home on Tuesday night.

Mr. Hall pointed out that while the American Legion had been greatly misunderstood for many years, it was now being vindicated in its fight for a program of national defense. Often in the past it has been accused of wishing to foster an unnecessary spirit of militarism out of keeping with a peacetime policy.

"Thank God, public sentiment still governs America. Not only however, has the Legion's national defense program been justified, as the country has also recently awaked to the fact that there has been adequate justification for the Legion's long fight against the subversive element in this nation."

Thomas M. Green, of Oteen, district commander, presided. Among other special guests of the meeting were: Bascom James, of Paris, France, member of post number one of the American Legion of that city, who spoke briefly; Jim Caldwell, of Belmont, state adjutant; Dr. I. R. Wagner, and Dr. C. L. Moore, both of Oteen Hospital.

Representatives from posts in Asheville, Oteen, Canton, and McDowell as well as a number from the local group attended the meeting, bringing the attendance to approximately 90.
