isent guests attending the rally.

Larry Cagle, chairman of the Young Democrats of Haywood, is assisting in the rally Saturday, and has named the following as ushers for the day: Mrs. Bill Harris, Mrs. Robert H. Clark, Miss Pearl Johnson, Mrs. Lee Bramlett, Mrs. Tom Campbell, Mrs. James Queen and Mrs. Dave Cabel.

Mrs. Oral Yates, Miss Eva Leatherwood, Miss Kathryn Queen, Mrs. Howard Hyatt, Miss Sarah Welch, Miss Marguerite Clark, Miss Mary Ann Turner, Mrs. Charles Ketner and Miss Carolyn Allison.

Chairman Brown made the prediction last night that with fair weather, about 8,000 votes would be cast in Haywood on next Tuesday, and he thought the Democratic nominees would be elected by a majority of at least 6,000.

In 1938 Haywood polled 5,483 votes, with a majority of 3,569 for the Democrats.

The rally here Saturday will end the series of meetings the Democrats have been staging over Haywood for the past few weeks. There is one tonight at Canton, at which time R. Gregg Cherry, of Gastonia, will be the speaker.

Fellowship Group Enjoys Hallowe'en Party At Hazelwood

Members of the Fellowship group of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church entertained with a Hallowe'en party in the Fellowship Hall of the church on Tuesday evening honoring members of the Friendly Bible class and some special guests.

The hall was decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, pumpkins and orange and black balloons. Hallowe'en decorations and features were noted throughout the party. It was a mask affair and the guests came in costume. The prize winning costume for the women was worn by Mrs. John Ferguson, while Glenn Noland won the men's prize.

Mark Goodman, Local Foxhound Wins In Tri-State Field Trial

Mark Goodman, 1940 Florida Champion, four-year-old foxhound, bred by Capt. George Plott, and owned by Tom Davis, of Hazelwood, and John Allen, of Iuka, Miss., won third place in his first entrance in a field trial since being retired from stud, in the Tri-State Field Trial held last week at Columbus, Miss. He missed first place by only 20 points.

One of his pups, Jolly Long Time, was high scorer the first day in the derby, but was excited by the crowd and was not caught until the third day of the hunt, and forfeited his score.

Five pups by Mark Goodman, are nominated for Chase Futurity, which is equivalent to the Kentucky Derby in horse racing.

Mark Goodman will also be entered in the Chase Futurity for the National championship, according to one of his owners, Tom Davis.

steps leading down to the bus terminal, but did not go to the bus, but down Wall Street. Then over to Patton Avenue, and then to South French Broad, where they entered an old model Ford.

They drove back to a filling station, then to Grove Street, and headed toward Waynesville. In the meantime there was a mistake about the car license.

Detectives Joyner and Davis then came to Waynesville, contacted the local police, and described the two women to Norman Caldwell. Mr. Caldwell stated that he felt sure he recognized the two women from the descriptions given.

In the meantime the Cases had moved from Boundary Street to Meadow Street, but it was not generally known and the house on Boundary was watched without results for several hours. About ten o'clock Monday the Waynesville police called the detectives back to town, and Sam Cabel helped them to identify Mrs. Case. A warrant was sworn out, and she was arrested.

At first she refused to talk to the officers, but when her husband was taken into custody, they both confessed their part in the theft. Case was lodged in jail, but Mrs. Case was set free under bond.

According to Case, he and a friend, Jack Edwards, both employed by the town, were shopping on Saturday night the 18th, and leaving Main Street at Church Street saw an object in the alley back of the Corner Drug Store. It looked like a suit case or a bag.

Jack Edwards was driving the car, and he is said to have backed the car up and got out and picked up the bag and put it in the back of the car. They drove to Case's home on Boundary Street. They hid the bag in some vines near the house, and went in and listened to the radio about two hours. After which they brought the bag in and opened it with some pliers. They took out one watch and examined it, but put it back and hid the bag again in the vines.

Case claims that they first thought of taking back the bag to where they had found it, but were afraid they would be caught. They then got into their car and drove up town, then back home again and hid the bag under the floor of the house. He says they did not take it out for two or three days. Then they read of the loss of the jewelry in the papers and were afraid to return it.

They talked the matter over and decided to take all the watches out of the boxes and the latter with the bag were put in the town incinerator on Water Street. The jewelry was put into other boxes and back under the floor.

On the 24th of August the two men resigned their work with the town and went to Newport News, where they found jobs. Case says they took some watches with them, which they pawned in Norfolk and Newport News.

Case stayed only about two weeks, but Edwards remained, and came back here for his wife and small child. Upon Case's return to Waynesville, he says he sent the greater part of the jewelry to Edwards in Newport News. Edwards returned to Waynesville on October the 12th and a division of the jewelry was made between the two men.

When he confessed, Case is reported to have said to the police, "Well I have heard that 'finders are keepers, and that keepers are weepers,' and I guess it's so."

Case and his wife turned over to the police around 61 pieces of jewelry after their confession, some of them valuable articles, worth from $300 to $450. Then after Case was put in jail Mrs. Case sent five watches to add to the lot, which were all placed in the vault of the First National Bank.

Norman Caldwell, detectives Joyner and Davis, with Case and Bryant Smith, left Tuesday morning for Newport News, to bring Jack Edwards, who had been arrested to Waynesville. The officers and Mr. Smith also planned to have the two men check with them on the pawn shops where they took the jewelry. In the meantime Ed-

Central Elementary Raises $75.55 At Hallowe'en Carnival

Both patrons and friends of the school contributed to the success of the Hallowe'en carnival, which was sponsored by the PTA of Central Elementary on Monday night. The sum of $75.55 was realized from the various features of entertainment.

The affair was given as a benefit to equip the school with a library so that the school and the PTA can meet standard requirements.

Many attractions included square dancing, bingo games, side shows, food booths and other Hallowe'en features were offered those attending.

Mrs. S. P. Gay is president of the Parent Teacher Association of the school.
