Forty-Seven Year Old Deed Brought For Registration

A deed bearing the date of August 25th, 1894, was brought into the office of Chas. C. Francis, registrar of deeds during the week.

The deed had been probated by the late John K. Boone, when he was clerk of the Superior court. It was from T. M. H. Reece and his wife, M. M. Reece, to Mrs. R. A. Burke, wife of W. J. Burke, Joe Burke, a son of Mrs. Burke, brought the document into Mr. Francis for filing.

The property lies on Little East Fork, and since there had been no question as to ownership, the filing of the deed had been neglected these 47 years. With some divisions and changes in ownership in prospect it became necessary at this late date to file the deed.

Interest Growing In Local Defense Work

Two Will Leave For Ft. Bragg

Harry Lee Ward and Walter Eugene Culbertson, are scheduled to leave here March 21 for Fort Bragg, as the first two men to leave Haywood under the selective service system. Although the two men registered in New Jersey and New Mexico, respectively, the government provided they were too far away from their local board to report, and were granted the privilege of reporting to the Waynesville board.

Ward's order number was 122 and Culbertson was 700. The Waynesville board is expecting a first call for its own registrants about July first. Applications for volunteers to fill this call are now being received by the board, of which Dr. Thos. Stringfield is chairman.

Citizens Asked To Cooperate In Defense Program

"Most of us may feel secure as to danger from the United States from foreign aggression. No doubt, we believe that America will never be invaded by any foreign military power. Perhaps, however, we do not feel so secure against the invasion of ideas, of foreign propaganda, of an ideology that will tend to destroy our democratic way of life," said J. E. Barr, chairman of publicity for the agricultural group working out a program of national defense.

Serving with Mr. Barr on the committee to put the program before the public are Bryan Medford and J. R. Boyd.

Mr. Barr, pointed out that many persons seem to be disregarding entirely the effect of the present world conflict on America, but continue to go along in the same old way untouched by current events in the international field.

"Our presence has just signed the Lend-Lease Bill which brings us as a nation that much closer to actual war. It is now up to every patriotic American to do his part in making our defense strong enough to withstand any foreign invasion, not matter from what quarter it comes. Many of you have already sent your sons to the schools."

Four Bills Presented By Palmer

No Major Changes Made In Government Of Haywood By The 1941 Legislature

Four legislative measures have been introduced by Representative Glenn C. Palmer in the present session, which is slated to adjourn sometime Saturday.

All of the bills received favorable reports from committees, and it is expected they will pass and become law before adjournment.

One of the bills provides that the county tax collector collect taxes for the Canton graded school district for a nine month's school. This was made necessary inasmuch as some of the district is outside the town of Canton and the town tax collector there would not be authorized to collect the taxes on property outside the city limits.

Another bill for Canton provides for the extension of the city limits to include the property of only about two people who desire to come in, Mr. Palmer said.

In another bill, the law of 1919 would be changed, and allow the sale of witness tickets. This would put Haywood back under the general law, which provides for their sale.

The bill which would provide for the commissioners to set up in the budget a levy for expenses for county accountants and home demonstration offices will not mean any additional taxes, it was explained, but only a technicality in working out the budget. The constitutional limitation of a general fund is 15 cents, which Haywood now has.

In addition to that 15 cents, the county has in its budget three and a half cents for building fund, which the supreme court recently held was the same as a general fund. The law did provide, however, that certain offices could be set up in the budget and be taken from the general fund, and that is what will be done in the case of Haywood.

The three and a half cents that heretofore went to the building fund will in the future be designated for the expense of the county accountants and home demonstration offices and will not come out of the general fund. In other words, it is just a shifting of funds to meet constitutional requirements, without additional taxation on the taxpayer, it was pointed out.

Mr. Washburn's topic was "Platforms for Progress," in which he outlined the aims toward which he wished the group to work.

Polk, Transylvania and Jackson would each get a senator every six years.

Several here had expressed themselves as favoring a plan which would make a senatorial district of Henderson and Haywood, alternating with senators.
