

NEWS REPORTS AT FT. JACKSON

The first phase of the fall maneuvers is completed without "bloodshed", so to speak on either side, for the problem was over before the real fight began. This was a "feeler" problem, and when the two armies—Red and Blue—were finally arranged in battle formation, the results desired for had been obtained, and so on Wednesday morning, the 120th Infantry returned to its base camp for the rest of the week. As always when returning from the field, the rest of the week was devoted to cleaning up soiled equipment, preparatory to the Saturday inspection. Retreat at five o'clock has been formal every afternoon except Wednesday and last Sunday. It certainly is impressive to realize that the entire group of soldiers who compose the First Army are at the same moment all over North and South Carolina standing at attention, and saluting the colors of our great nation.

We were lucky or unlucky (depending on how you look at it) to have been in corps reserve this past week's maneuver, which meant that for the most part we just sat around and waited to see what might happen. The 120th Infantry did not come into contact with the enemy in any large body during the entire problem.

There were some enemy troops in the area about ten miles away from us, but these, like our own, were merely detached patrols, sent out to glean information about the enemy. We captured quite a few of these "scouts".

During these maneuvers, because the soldiers are so far from home and generally located in remote areas which have very few natural recreation facilities, Uncle Sam in cooperation with the cities of the two states is providing transportation for the soldiers to various cities outside of the maneuver area. In this way, when particular towns are designated for the recreation of a particular unit, then a uniform number of soldiers are in each town, and no one town is overflowing. The 120th Infantry has been given Gastonia as one of the towns to which free government transportation will be provided on every free week-end during the maneuvers. This past week-end there were also convoys of our troops to Lancaster, where the good people of the town had invited 1,000 enlisted men of the 120th Infantry to a supper and street dance.

I couldn't say too much about the real hospitality these friendly people are offering us. In every town we pass through you can see where so many citizens have opened their homes and clubs have provided rooms for the soldiers to relax. Free showers, and places to go write letters, etc., are provided in almost every town. Great Falls, S. C. is not a very large place, but it offers at least ten such places and also a lounge for officers.

For those who are not able to make trips away from camp, the regiment purchased its own motion picture equipment in order that the men could be given free movies on the field during the maneuvers. So far we have had three good pictures. Because we have no electric lines, our own power has to be generated on the field. This is done by using a generator attached to a belt connected with the rear wheel of a jacked-up truck. The whole affair is home-made and the first two movies were presented in rather an amateurish manner, with occasional breaks and interruptions in the sound track, etc., but now experience has brought about changes, so that now a creditable performance is given. The same amplifying system used for our church service on the field is brought into use for the movies. This, plus band concerts by our band boys under the direction of Warrant Officer Burt, will give you an idea that we aren't exactly and entirely "stuck" way out here from nowhere, even if there isn't a home in sight for miles around.

Don't forget, you folks, to address your letters to the boys down here with 'APO No. 30', before the Fort Jackson. Remember there are already approximately a hundred thousand boys in our immediate area of Great Falls, and this will be augmented until if the address isn't complete, delays in delivery of mail, and general confusion will result. And speaking of letters, why not sit down tonight and write that letter to the soldier boy in the woods you have been putting off so long. It certainly is nice to stand at mail call and hear your name called out.

That's all for this week, folks!
