lays her eggs and promptly expires. The larva feeds and fattens on your flesh. This raises itching bumps and the more you scratch, the more it itches.

If you want to embarrass the chiggers, get some hyposulfate of soda, which photographers use as fixing agent, mix into a liquid solution with water and rub it on your legs. Chiggers run from it. The same solution, if you have already been bitten, will kill them. Solutions of salt water, soda or ammonia are also said to help.

And then, of course, there is the plain old bacon rind, advocates of which maintain that it has no equal—so far as results alone is concerned.

Got a Stray Molar, Mister?

This will come as a painful shock to the dentist profession since, once this is well circulated, there will be few fishermen within a month's time but that will have false teeth.

Recently, on Lake Dallas in Texas, an 85-year-old fisherman, a Mr. Welch from Frisco, Texas, showed the state game and fish warden two large white bass. His story:

"I was pretty disgusted late this afternoon for I hadn't caught a fish and I had a toothache to boot. This tooth was pretty loose and I finally jerked it out of my jaw. I was willing to try anything just then so I fastened that tooth on my hook and dropped it in the water. It was not long before I had a fine white bass. Not much later a second white bass bit my tooth and here he is. But I lost the tooth in catching the second fish."

Play Safe!

You hear so many don'ts, dry precautions, and general advice about being careful with your guns that you get tired of it all and pay no attention to any of it. That's when you start getting dangerous with a gun.

If you will remember that death started most of these slogans, and that you can kill or cripple someone before you realize what has happened, then perhaps you would look on these seemingly hum-drum warnings in a new light. Know where your bullet is going when you shoot at a tin can. Always handle a firearm as if it were loaded and cocked. Never leave an arm loaded while in camp or in a car. Lastly, liquor plus gunpowder equals death.

Doggone Smart Dog

Edward Rowe, a farmer, writes that he has a mighty smart dog. While driving a cow to pasture Mr. Rowe was overcome with heat and nearly fainted. Mr. Rowe said that his dog ran to a nearby creek, jumped in and hurried back to shake water on him.

Mr. Fish—Hunter

The archer fish can project a drop of water with such accuracy and force as to bring down any insect which may alight near the surface of the water.

The fish rises cautiously beneath a fly or bug until his snout projects into the air; then he aims deliberately and shoots with such precision that an insect within a range of 12 to 18 inches is a certain victim.

First Of 2-Game Series Will Be Played In Canton

Both Teams In Pink Of Condition And Ready To Add Another Score To Record.

Football fans in Haywood county have been waiting (not very patiently) for Friday night when the Waynesville Mountaineers and the Canton Black Bears meet in the first of a two-game series with the first game to be played on the Canton field. The kickoff is scheduled for 8:00 o'clock.

Again this year the teams seem to be about on an even keel, with both teams having one defeat chalked up on their score sheet. Andrews took the locals 13 to 6 and also the Black Bears, 13 to 0. The Mountaineers have run up higher scores than the Black Bears, but in a Waynesville-Canton grid contest this plays a very small part in the prediction of the outcome of the game.

This is one of the most looked-forward-to games of the year and will be the deciding game in the Blue Ridge Conference for these two teams, although they have been defeated by a conference team, neither team ever gives up.

To add a bit of color and music to the annual affair, the Waynesville and Canton bands will be on hand to give demonstrations.

If the weatherman keeps his hand out of the bag of bad weather, it is estimated that around 2,000 to 2,500 fans will be on hand. Canton is preparing to accommodate a capacity crowd and adequate policemen will be present to handle the traffic.

Both teams are expected to be in the pink of condition. The Mountaineers suffered several slight injuries in their game with Sylva, but by game time Friday they are expected to be in tip-top shape. It is reported that James Bryson, tackle on the Black Bear eleven, will be out of the game due to injuries received in the Andrews game.

The forward wall of both teams will be about evenly matched in weight with the backfield of Canton a little edge over the locals.

The probable starting lineup, giving both the weight and the numbers of the individual players is as follows:

Waynesville:
Pos.	No.	Name
LE	58	Francis
LT	51	McRorie
LG	27	Evans

You can open or close to any desired choke you want. I'm going to investigate it further. If you want to, write The Poly-Choke Company, 178 Tuxis Street, Harvard, Connecticut, for their free booklet. In 1932, only 40 per cent of the nation's livestock went to market on the highways. By last year, department of agriculture studies of 67 major markets showed that 62 per cent of the cattle and 68 per cent of the hogs went to market in motor trucks.

"ARMY FLASH!"

Aircraft Warning Message!

Over telephone wires the warning of approaching enemy bombers is flashed from Observation Post to Filter Center to be plotted, evaluated, and transmitted to an Army office for action.

No fictional dream, but a glimpse into the intricate and efficient system of disseminating aircraft warning information by telephone to Army Interceptor Commands. This system of telephoned aircraft warnings, which will be tested during the Army maneuvers in this state, is vital to our nation's defense. These practice aircraft warning messages will place an additional load on the state's busy telephone lines. Carolinians will understand, however, that this is necessary to insure the perfect functioning of this invaluable defense effort.

Should you suffer temporary inconvenience while the Aircraft Warning Service is being tested, we are confident that you will realize that, although an "Army flash" message may delay an individual call during these maneuvers, it may save lives in time of war. Most assuredly, the telephone could not serve a better purpose.
