Lend-Lease Ruler

Appointment of Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as a Presidential assistant is seen as a move to slash red tape in speeding war-aid deliveries. Stettinius will now have power to sign the President's name to allocations not exceeding $300,000,000 each.

Mrs. Alberta Monteith, Mrs. Sarah Crawford and Cornelius Deitz, teachers in the Balsam school, attended the meeting of the Western North Carolina teachers association last Friday in Asheville.

This summer an old paper of The Salisbury Herald, dated January 3, 1894, fell into my hands. Two short items attracted my attention. They were: 1. A bill to prohibit the running of railroad trains, freight, passengers, or even mail, in South Carolina on Sunday has been introduced in the Legislature of that state. 2. There is trouble ahead for Gov. Lewelling of Kansas. He has removed Mrs. Lease from office which she held. When she throws her mouth wide open and empties on him the avalanche of robust English she is piling up for him he will wish he was a tramp again in Chicago.

Oze Horton, son of Mrs. O. E. Horton and the late O. E. Horton, of Atlanta and Balsam, has just copyrighted his first play. Mr. Horton was graduated from the University of Georgia and took post graduate work in English at Vanderbilt University. This is his first effort. The play is beautifully written in blank verse. I read "Scallwag" one afternoon and it moved me deeply; several times I had to wipe the tears from my eyes. The adjustments and problems that faced the South during the reconstruction period immediately following the War Between the States when Lee's tattered army turned their faces homeward, were made very real to me. Mr. Horton has a depth of understanding and feeling for this time in Southern history when "the old order changeth, yielding place to new" that is uncanny; it was a painful and trying time as it always is after any war.

Miss Mary Moore and Miss Para Lee Brock, of Atlanta, Ga., spent the week-end of the 4th in Miss Moore's cabin. Miss Brock is educational director of radio station WATL in Atlanta. Miss Moore was, until this year, principal of Girls' high school. Recently a dinner party was given Miss Moore at the Piedmont Driving Club in Atlanta by the faculty of Girls high. Several pieces of silver were given to her as a token of love and appreciation for her work at Girls high school.

Charles Fox said that restorations were the most bloody of all revolutions; and he might have added that reformations are the best mode of preventing the necessity of either.—Colton.

Bethel News

The Bethel women's society of Christian Service observed its annual "Week of Prayer" with an all-day service at the home of the pastor, Mr. J. W. Blitch, Tuesday, October 14. Mrs. Blitch was in charge of the worship service and talks were made dealing with the four projects, the self-denial offering goes to. They were as follows: "Brewster Memorial Hospital for the Colored, at Jackson, Fla.," Mrs. W. P. Whitesides. "The Retired Deaconesses' Fund," Mrs. H. H. Garner. "Medical Missions," Mrs. Joe Beverage: "Christian Literature in Foreign Fields," Mrs. Clifton Terrell. Other short talks and music featured the day. At noon the ladies were served a favorite dish for the occasion.

The women's society of Christian Service of the Bethel Methodist church met with Mrs. Stella Hyatt, Wednesday 8th, in Canton, with Mrs. Paul Hyatt presiding. Mrs. Hugh Terrell was in charge of the following program: Devotional, led by Mrs. J. W. Blitch. Talks: "The Migrants' Our Neighbor," Mrs. Horace Peek. "Farm Youths Are Industrious,"

Mrs. W. P. Whitesides. "A Good Farmer Abroad Helps World Security," Mrs. Welch Singleton. Members were given bundles to sew for the Red Cross. After the business session delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. I. A. McLain.

There will be an old-fashioned singing held at the Bethel Baptist church Sunday, Oct. 19, at 2 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend and especially those using the old "Christian Harmony" books. Please bring your books with you.
