

News Of The World As Seen By The Camera

Capturing a Position in "Invasion" of New York

During the defenses of New York, the Black Army, a make-believe hostile force attempting theoretical invasion of the city with dive bombers, power boats and parachute troops, launched an attack on Fort Belvoir and succeeded in wresting the vital defense from the 24th Coast Artillery Regiment there. Top, army soldiers leap ashore from a unit of the invasion fleet. Top, right, they set up a machine gun in a captured field piece guarding entrance to the fort. Bottom, the invaders charge directly under the muzzle of a huge 16-inch rifle. After the capture, they turned it around to menace the city.

U. S. Chutists Practice Attack on the Panzers

An army parachute squadron from Fort Benning, Ga., descends to earth during demonstration they put on as part of tactical showing of new army equipment and training staged at Fort Belvoir, Md. These chutists seem to be attacking an "enemy" tank, the backbone of the panzers. Members of Congress and noted diplomats saw the demonstration.

Fire Sweeps Massachusetts Defense Plants

Propelled by repeated explosions raged out of control in four plants of the Firestone Rubber & Tire Corp., Fall River, Mass., as 1,000 workers fled the flames. This is an air view of the scene. Firemen from seven Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities helped battle the blaze, which for a time threatened the entire community. The company is engaged in defense work.

Editor for Navy

Former newspaperwoman Mrs. Louise Daniels has been named women's editor of the Navy Department in Washington and will direct a campaign to tell wives, mothers and sweethearts of navy men what their loved ones are doing.

Red Peasants Continue Work Despite War

According to the official Russian caption with this photo, which was flashed by radio from Moscow to New York, the peasants of the Soviet are not allowing the war to interfere with their necessary work, and some of them are shown working in the field where a German plane has been shot down.

'I Tank I Go Home Now'

Keepers at Brackenridge Park Zoo in San Antonio, Tex., trying to move Punchie, the hippopotamus, to a new home, found that the 7,000-pound beast quite definitely didn't want to leave. He's shown almost upsetting the truck as he tries to leap over the side and return to his old abode. The keepers won out only after a seven-hour battle.

Yankee Hunter

Checking over his hunting guns at his Frederick, Md., home is Charley Keller, New York Yankee slugger, who has plenty of time on his hands before spring training starts and the Yanks start their campaign for another world championship.

After 17 Years

Mrs. Mae Meisner, of Oakland, Cal., and her son, Private Francis M. Bell, are pictured as they were reunited after 17 years. Bell was placed in a home when his mother and father separated in Oklahoma when he was two years old. He finally traced his mother while on leave from the 79th Coast Artillery at San Diego, Cal.

Re-Asserts Stand

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, appears before the special senate committee investigating the reported oil shortage and refutes testimony by Petroleum Coordinator Ickes that railroads lack necessary tank cars to haul needed oil to East. Pelley re-asserted that more than 20,000 cars are available.

Urges Wage Control

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson appears before the House banking and currency committee and urges Congress to set up wage control as part of the federal price fixing program. He declared "only through price controls can we be assured of timely and adequate production to meet military needs."

How Defense Will Affect Beauty

Defense needs may force Uncle Sam to curtail:

- A—Mascara is expected to become scarce.
- B—Powder and rouge will be available in "ersatz."
- C—No more metal compacts; plastics instead.
- D—No silk from Japan for stockings, even now.
- E—Ethyl acetate, used in making nail polish, is a vital need in making explosives.
- F—There's a hairpin shortage; aluminum permanent curlers are out; so are bleach chemicals.
- G—Nylon underwear grows scarcer and scarcer.
- H—And stockings may have to be painted on!

Photographer Turns Toreador

Seeking close-ups of the action at New York's annual rodeo, Sammy Goldstein, a news photographer, became an unsung hero as he averted by inches the rush of a maddened bull and lost $400 worth of equipment to the enraged beast. Sam is pictured clinging to the arena fence as the bull charges.