Committeemen Instructed In Defense Program

committeemen of the triple A whose duties will be to aid the farmers in working out a new farm plan by which they can increase their production to meet the goal set for this county.

The old method of farm planning was usually done in the office of the county agent, but under the new program each one of the 2,578 farms in the county are to be visited and studied and the owners assisted in revising their work.

T. Weaver Cathey, one of the seven state AAA committeemen, pointed out the advantages of the triple A and the use of lime and phosphate.

J. L. Reitzel, assistant county farm agent, outlined the AAA program for 1942, pointing out some of the changes and goals of the program.

Wayne Corpening, county farm agent, spoke on the increase in production required under the program of "Food for Defense," which the department of agriculture is sponsoring throughout the country.

All speakers pointed out the fact that all government agencies assisting the farmer are working in perfect unison in the program being launched. They also emphasized the fact that all the increases of production are being organized in such a manner that every farm is being permanently improved and at the same time the goal will be reached in food production.

While the goal was outlined for increased production the Haywood farmers were told that it would not be necessary to plow up any land, but greater attention given to the soil and better methods of culture would bring the desired results.

The following goal for Haywood county was given: a 4 per cent increase in milk production, which would mean 970,000 more pounds of milk per year, with 200 cows added to the farms; egg production is stepped up 1 per cent, with an increase of 69,210 dozen eggs; soybeans increased 100 per cent, with 10 additional acres to be planted; oats 20 per cent, with 300 more acres planted; barley increased 100 per cent, with 40 more acres; hay five per cent, with 284 acres.

Every one of the farmers in the county will be visited and advised by the county committeemen during the month of November. This work is considered the largest job ever assigned to the committeemen since the initial organization of the program.
