D. L. Paschall Is New Assistant Farm Agent

modern agricultural practices, assumed his duties here this past week-end, succeeding Wayne Corpening, who was promoted to county agent after J. C. Lynn was made district agent.

Mr. Paschall specialized in animal husbandry and AAA work, and in Haywood will devote much of his time with demonstration farmers, similar to that carried on by Mr. Corpening.

The new assistant agent was reared on a Tennessee farm, near Paris, and after graduation from high school, spent his summer vacations working for different branches of the federal agricultural program, in such capacities as assistant field tobacco specialist, senior field assistant of the AAA, and even filled an unexpired term as a college professor after his graduation from the University of Tennessee.

Mr. Paschall, known to his farmer friends as Dwight, attended University of Tennessee Junior College and graduated from the University of Tennessee.

Since last spring he has worked with the war department in Tennessee doing special work, a position he held until coming to Haywood.

He has a brother who has served as county agent in Tennessee for 13 years, and a sister who was formerly a home demonstration agent. He is the youngest of eight children.

That is about all the reporter learned about the new agent, as he was anxious to go over some reports with District Agent Lynn, and get into the work, which "he dearly loves".

He is single, has wavy hair, a handshake that jars your teeth, and his name is pronounced "Pas-kul".

Eighteen Haywood Boys Enrolled This Week At CCC Camp

Eighteen boys from this county were enrolled at the CCC camp at Cove Creek on Monday. The camp, which has accommodations for 185 boys, has dropped enrollment to 145.

In the past there were only four enrollments permitted during the year in the CCC camps, but according to a new government ruling a boy may make application now at any time.

Authorities state that the increased number of jobs available and the selective draft have taken a large number of boys into employment and the service, who formerly were enrolled in the CCC camps.
