

Worker Thankful For Tapestry Mill

By Clarence T. Taylor.

While thinking of the many things we of this community have to be thankful for, I could not help being reminded of Royle-Pilkington Company, owners of the tapestry plant.

Since the opening of the plant some twelve years ago, a large part of the workers have come from our community.

Weaving requires skilled labor, and those of the community had had no previous experience, and had to be taught. The officials have been patient and considerate in this.

Those of us who work there feel that we are treated fairly and are contented with our work. There is a unity and co-operation between the employees and employers. Problems are solved through understanding and good will. Work moves along smoothly, with an atmosphere of happiness and lack of tension.

Because of the employment given so many of our community, many of the homes are more beautiful and comfortable. The community at large has everything to assure happiness and contentment.

Again, I say, let's be thankful at this Thanksgiving season for the things that bring about a better community in which to live.

Farmers Urged To Repair Farm Machinery Now

The year 1942, according to the United States department of agriculture, will be a critical one for the farmers. They are urging that the farmers prepare for this period by repairing their farm machinery now.

The "Food For Defense" program calls for a record farm production, and at the same time defense needs will limit available farm labor.

It is pointed out that farmers who are unable to get enough labor will have to rely more and more upon machinery, but the defense program will mean much less new farm machinery in 1942. This type of machinery requires steel and other metals, and metals are in a prime need in the defense program.

Farmers are advised to repair rather than buy new machinery. The government is taking steps to provide as much steel and other metals as may be needed for all necessary repairs for farm machinery in 1942. The only way to be sure of having farm tools and machinery in repair for 1942 is to make repairs right now, so the county farm agents point out.

Farmers are asked to cooperate in this matter and do the following at once: check over old machinery; order necessary parts from dealers; if parts cannot be obtained notify county U. S. D. A. defense board.

Bombers Must Breathe

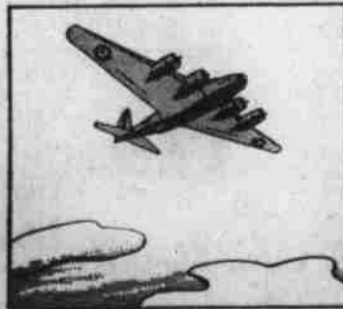

Today American-made bombers can fly at the unbelievable height of six miles. Here is the story of the small but all-important device that helps make stratosphere flying possible.

1. It started on Pike's Peak in 1918, where Army Air Corps engineers showed that an airplane engine could be made to run efficiently 2 1/4 miles above sea level!

2. This amazing feat was possible because a "turbosupercharger"—developed by the Army Air Corps and G-E engineers—pumps extra oxygen into the carburetors.

3. For 22 years these engineers have worked constantly to improve this vital device. As a result, U.S. bombers can fly above the reach of anti-aircraft fire.

4. Dr. S. A. Moss, G-E engineer who pioneered in this work, now at 69 has the thrill of watching the supercharger help carry our fliers higher than any others!

Few prescriptions call for a single drug. Most are compounded, little by little, of several ingredients, each of which must be measured and weighed with painstaking care. Therefore, it is as far-fetched to attempt to value a prescription by the cost of the ingredients as it is to value the physician's advice by the cost of the paper on which he writes it.
