

Euthusiasm Runs High At Meeting

Central Methodist church of Asheville, gave the invocation. Don S. Elias, president of the Asheville Chamber of Commerce, introduced Newton D. Drury, director of the National Park Service, who spoke briefly on the conservation of national parks in general and then of the further development of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

A number of visitors were recognized by Mr. Ray, including Stephen Tripp, of Washington, associate of Mr. Drury, J. Ross Eakin, superintendent of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, Robert P. White, park engineer, John T. Needham, chief ranger, Thomas J. Allen, regional park director, and members of the sponsoring park development committee.

The park officials arrived in Asheville on Wednesday morning and were driven out to the Cataloochee section of this county during the morning. From here the party proceeded by way of Maggie and Black Gap Camp into the park by way of Heintooga Overlook and Round Bottom to Ravensford. From there they went to Bryson City where a banquet was tendered them by civic groups at the Fryemont Inn last night. Following dinner a round-table discussion of the needed developments on the North Carolina side of the park and other services were held.

A number of local citizens accompanied the party to Bryson City and attended the banquet. The officials spent the night there and are leaving this morning for an inspection of the Tennessee side.

In addition to the barbecue generously prepared by Rufus Siler ice cream was given the group by the Pet Dairy and apples given by Barber's Orchard were served.

At the close of the meeting E. B. Whitaker, of Bryson City, extended an invitation to those present to be the guests of his community last night.

Among the local citizens present in addition to those mentioned were R. L. Prevost, J. E. Massie, T. L. Bramlett, Dr. Thomas Stringfield, J. H. Howell, W. L. Hardin, J. M. Long, L. N. Davis, Bill Prevost, J. W. Killian, Aaron Prevost, L. H. Bramlett, E. J. Hyatt, Geo. A. Brown, Jr., W. A. Bradley.

Three Directors Of Park Have Visited Here

Newton B. Drury is the third director of the National Park Service to visit Waynesville. Horace Albright paid the section several visits, as did Arno B. Crammer, who resigned a little more than a year ago due to ill health. Mr. Crammer addressed the North Carolina Press Association here in 1936.

Yesterday was Mr. Drury's first visit to this side of the park.

wood county 40 families were aided, and in some cases completely rehabilitated. The initial cost of this was around $2,350, with the Red Cross National headquarters taking full responsibility for the work.

Mr. Hammett pointed out that Red Cross aid was based on the needs and that in Jackson county, which area was damaged much more than Haywood county in the 1940 floods, was aided around a total of $19,481.

Others speaking briefly included Mrs. Chas. E. Quinlan, vice president of the chapter, Wm. Medford, treasurer and Rev. R. E. MacBlain, chairman of speakers bureau, who called attention to the national needs.

Rev. Mr. Williamson, stated that he hoped the drive would be completed by this week. He also reported that Mrs. E. C. Wagenfeld, leader, and the Girl Scouts, would be in charge of four booths, one in Hazelwood, and four on Main street open on Saturday.

Director Of Park Service Sending Specialists Down

began in my native state, California, but since visiting the Park and marveling at its grandeur, I feel the 'west begins in Western North Carolina.'

After being introduced by Don Elias, president of the Asheville Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Drury replied to Governor Broughton's statement that more road were needed into the Park, by adding: "I appreciate the open mindedness of your progressive governor. As far as I am concerned, the Park Service will approach the subject of road building with an open mind."

Director Drury pointed out that the defense program came first, but went on to say that projects were being "worked up" and put on the shelf until the defense work was over, and then these projects would become a reality and men now absorbed in defense would be given jobs. Road building will be an important item at such a time, he concluded.

"The defense work has slowed us down, but in one way that is good, because sometimes we spend money too rapidly."

Mr. Drury said it was wonderful to meet with such groups and learn of the trends of thought, and to get local slants on such matters.

The park director was emphatic in his remarks that "some sections of the Park should not be penetrated by roads. We should maintain some wilderness areas, to which man may retreat, and where wildlife may find refuge."

"I have come to think of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in that class of truly great things in America. I have made several trips into the park, yet this is the first from this side, and on one of those trips, I was with the late Arno B. Crammer, who for 7 years served as director of the Park Service. It was with him that I stood on top of Mt. LeConte and looked for miles at the colorful trees in their fall colorings. Since that time, I always felt very much at home in the Park area."

The Park official was highly complimentary of the barbecue, which was served, stating: "I have never tasted such delicious barbecue, even in sunny California."

ow of the late Col. Jones, for years, a leader in this section of the state.

Col. and Mrs. Jones came to Waynesville in 1888 from Tampa, Fla., where the former was the first editor and owner of the Tampa Daily Times. He was among the pioneers in the development of the state of Florida. He held large mining interests in this section and was a great booster for North Carolina.

Mrs. Jones was a native of Virginia, and before her marriage on December 26, 1883, was Miss Nannie Honaker, daughter of Samuel N. and Sarah E. Honaker, both members of prominent Virginia families. She was educated at Martha Washington College in Abingdon, Va., and was an accomplished musician.

She was an active member of the local Methodist church and had been closely associated with the women's organizations.

Mrs. Jones was one of the two living charter members of the Haywood chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy and was a former president of the organization. She was active in the work for years, being one of the members sponsoring the Confederate marker at the Haywood White Sulphur Springs, later moved to the court house grounds.

Surviving are five daughters, Ethel, Mrs. Harry C. Eldridge, of Franklin, Ohio, Lura, Mrs. Frank Smathers, of Miami, and Waynesville, Virginia, Mrs. T. Delos Cray, of Wilmore, Ky., and Miss Nannette and Miss S. A. Jones, of Waynesville, and one son, S. A. Jones, Jr., of the American Automobile Association, of Miami, Fla.; eight grandchildren, four great grandchildren; one brother, Crismond Honaker, of Bristol, Va.

The Massie Funeral Home is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Second, to inform themselves as to how local civilian groups may be organized and how a civilian can enroll and serve his country as surely as the men and women in uniform.

Third, to stimulate the establishment of volunteer offices so that active civilian protection and community service programs can proceed promptly.

The days of the civilian week have been designated as follows: Armistice Day, when the people of the United States should emphasize as a symbol of determination to preserve the ideals on which this country was founded; Wednesday, 12th, is "war against waste day;" Thursday, 13th, "sign up for defense day;" Friday, 14th, "health and welfare day;" Saturday, 15th, "civilian protection day;" and Sunday, 16th, "freedom day."

Sell Your Tobacco at BERNARD'S

Greeneville, Tenn.

Greeneville Market opens Dec. 2

Every indication point to high prices not only for this season but for the 1943 crop. Those selling early may wish they had sold later. Prices on the Carolina markets advanced each succeeding week. This crop is smaller than for years which means if not dumped on the market in a short period, every one can sell on the market and at the house of his choice.

The Bernard house in awarding premiums for the past several seasons for the highest price basket of the representative grades of required weight have employed the Official Grade Letter Marks. The Grade Letter Marks are not new to the Bernard force, every one being familiar with the grade marks.

The premiums to be awarded this season are the same as heretofore:

BIF Choice Tan Color Leaf—200 lbs. or more	2.50
BIR Choice Red Color Leaf—200 lbs. or more	2.50
CIL Choice Straw Color Cutter—150 lbs. or more	2.50
CIF Choice Tan Color Cutter—200 lbs. or more	2.50
XIL Choice Straw Color Lugs—150 lbs. or more	2.50
XIF Choice Tan Color Lugs—200 lbs. or more	2.50

Regardless of grade, the owner of the basket bringing the largest number of dollars will be awarded the premium of $1.00. In the event a sale floor does not contain the Choice Grade, the premium will go to the grade under, viz: B2F-B3F, C2F-C3F, X2F and etc. If there is not a basket eligible for premium in Straw color it will be awarded to Tan color grades containing the largest number of pounds. In other words, seven premiums will be awarded for every sale floor when it is half or completely covered. In the event any two baskets bring the same price, the premium will go to the basket containing the largest number of pounds.

Re-drying plants, double daily sales assure a higher price and a quicker sale.
