Moody Becomes General Manager Junaluska Store

In Grocery Business Here For 20 Years; To Manage Store Of Jerry Liner At Lake.

E. C. Moody will close his grocery store on Main street on Saturday night after having been located in the same building since 1934. On Monday morning Mr. Moody takes up his duties as general manager of the Junaluska Supply Company store at Lake Junaluska, owned by Jerry Liner. Mr. Moody is well qualified for his new duties from a wide experience in business. He was with the firm of Blackwell-Bushnell, wholesale grocers, in 1908 and 1909, and then for ten years following he traveled for the American Tobacco Company here in 1918 and was with the company for six years. In 1924 he went into the retail business for himself, opening a store on Boyd Avenue, which he ran until moving to Main street in 1934.

175,000 Ex-Service Men Are Back At Civilian Work

Jobs Have Been Provided Through Government Re-employment Program.

Approximately 175,000 soldiers, sailors, and marines returning to civilian life during the last fourteen months have been given employment through the selective system, with few complaints and no serious ones. The men are asked to report at their local draft boards upon their discharge. Less than ten men have registered with the area draft board so far, it was learned yesterday. This total of re-employment cases handled through selective service local boards between July 1, 1940 and September 1, 1941, includes about 25,000 of the about 200,000 members of the regular army, national guard, and selectees who, the war department has announced will be relieved of active military duty during the last quarter of this year.

The large majority—approximately two-thirds of the ex-service men for whom employment was found previous to last September 1, were members of the regular army and national guard whose terms of enlistment had expired. It has been pointed out that the handling of these thousands of re-employment cases of men returning from the armed forces to civil life, without a serious hitch, and with virtually no complaints, is a splendid commentary on the efficiency of the members of the selective service system.

Credit has been particularly given on the initiative of the state directors throughout the country and the voluntary team work of the members of the local draft boards. They have proven just as zealous in finding jobs for men returning from the nation's armed forces as they are in recruitment of the army. Expanding the program for the re-employment of returning soldiers, national headquarters has arranged to have all members of army whose terms of service are expiring "screened" to determine their civilian occupational skills and aptitudes before they are relieved from military duty. This "screening" which is primarily designed to direct a badly needed flow of workers to critical defense industries, will be accomplished by "referral offices" in army camps. Arrangement for these referral offices were completed on October 13. The program provides for an office in each military camp of 8,000 or more men; with smaller camps covered by periodic visits of employment interviewers. What takes the sport out of the chase of a maid by a man is her managing to get caught.

Beaverdam News

Mrs. W. S. McCracken and Mrs. Crom Cole gave Mrs. Paul Robinson a surprise birthday party at the Robinson home Friday evening, Nov. 28. For the "gala" affair the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Jess Ivester, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Justice, Mrs. Lloyd Revis, Mrs. Ethel Morgan, Mrs. Mark Swain and small daughter, Mrs. Tom Higgs, Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. Hugh McCracken and two small sons, Mrs. Ruth Robinson, Mrs. Lloyd Reno, Dorothy Cole and Max Cole.

Mrs. Robinson was the recipient of many lovely gifts. A lovely birthday cake was displayed. Refreshments were enjoyed during the evening.

Stewards night was observed at the North Canton Baptist church Nov. 30. Bible verses were given by Sun Beams. The play, "Tithes and Offerings," was given. Those taking part in the play were: Bettie Lou Fletcher, Willie Mae Davis, Virginia and Jesse Lee Styles, Frances Williams and Talmage Rogers. All enjoyed the special program.

The W. M. S. had a study course on the book "These Things Remain" at the home of Mrs. Wilburn Styles Friday. Rev. Robert Rogers was the principal teacher of the book.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Ivester spent the week-end in Winston-Salem visiting the former's brother. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Vinson Ivester and Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Ivester also accompanied them.

Rufus W. Jackson Gets Promotion In Navy Service

Rufus W. Jackson, son of Mrs. Alice M. Jackson of Daisy avenue, recently was graduated from the Aviation Metalsmith School at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., according to an announcement by that station's public relations office. He has been assigned to duty with the Atlantic fleet.

Jackson enlisted in the navy at the Asheville recruiting office in May and was sent to the U. S. naval training school at Norfolk, Va., for his elementary training. Upon graduation from the school he became eligible for promotion to Aviation Metalsmith 3rd class, a petty officer rank with a considerable increase in pay.

Jackson is one of the many enlisted men in the navy today who are serving their country and at the same time building their future in a profitable, established trade. Courses in aviation mechanics, ordnance and metalsmithing, photography and radio are among the 45 trades open to enlisted men entering the navy to become specialists by attending the navy trade schools and working under qualified instructors.

Going Out Of Business Saturday Night Is the End

On December 8th I will become active manager of the General Store of Junaluska Supply Company.

My store will close Saturday night, December 6

An Appreciation

We sincerely appreciate the patronage given us during our many years in business. We appreciate the friends we have made, and the privilege of serving you with quality merchandise and prompt service.

There is a pang of regret in closing our store, but we are going to assume management of a larger store than ours, and will continue to be in a position to serve you efficiently and with quality merchandise at a price.

E. C. Moody

Again— I thank you all for the support given me.
