The following charges are based on a close analysis of our costs of operation and are computed on a scale recommended by the American Bankers Association and approved by the North Carolina Clearing House Association:

"Accounts having a balance of $100.00 or less will be entitled to three checks drawn against the account without any activity charge, but if more than three checks are drawn a service charge of $1.00 will be made and the account will be entitled to ten items without additional charge. All transactions in excess of ten will be charged at 4c each."

"Accounts having an average balance of more than $100.00 will be entitled to one transaction for each $10.00 of average balance in excess of $100.00. Each transaction in excess of this allowance will be charged for at 4c each. (For example, an account with an average of $150.00 would be entitled to 5 debit items without charge. If there were 15 debits on the account, a charge of 40c would be made, or 4c each for the 10 excess items)"

Service charges are made on checking accounts only when the balances maintained are not sufficient to reinburse the bank for the cost of services rendered. Depositors therefore have the option of either carrying compensating balances or paying a small fee to cover actual cost.

Bank operating costs have increased sharply during recent years. At the same time depositors are receiving added benefits, among which is insurance of their deposits up to $5,000.00.
