Tuesday—The Day of Conflict

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON 5-16

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 17 is Matthew 21:23-23:39, the Golden Text being Mark 12:10, "The stone which the builders rejected, The same was made the head of the corner.")

THE DAY of conflict, when our Lord disputed with the scribes and Pharisees, sternly telling them where they erred, in their ways of living and in their thinking. He knew very well that His days on earth were now numbered. His enemies would destroy Him as the person, Jesus, the carpenter, but by so doing would exalt Him to the skies forever.

These elders of the church gathered around Him as He was in the temple, apparently on friendly terms with Him, asking Him questions, which they craftily hoped would anger the people so that they could arrest Him. Their queries and His answers only went to show how inferior they were to Him in holiness and mentality.

At first they asked Him by what authority He taught and who gave Him this authority. They really had a right to ask this, as they were the rulers of the temple. Jesus answered by asking them a question: The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven or of men?

What could they say? If they said it was from heaven, the natural question rose. Why then did they not believe in him? And if they answered that it was of earth, the people would rise and overcome them, for to the people John was the last of the great prophets. They were stumped, as we say, and admitted they had no answer. Then, said Jesus, I will not answer your question.

Parable of the Two Sons

Then the Lord told them a story which involved another question: A man, He said, had two sons. He asked them to go to work in the vineyard. The first said he would not, but later was sorry and went to work. The second said "I go," but he did not. Which did the will of his father? Naturally the one who worked. The lesson of that parable was that many who thought themselves righteous and kept the letter of the law, did not do the will of the Heavenly Father; but those that at first seemed rebellious and rejected the command, later repented, accepted the Lord and the work assigned them. The first were these same elders of the church who rejected the Master; the second those who believed in Him.

The second parable concerned a man who had a vineyard which he leased to husbandmen which for him. When the fruit was ripe he sent his servants for it, but the men beat and killed the servants; others who were sent were also killed, and finally the man sent his son, saying, "They will reverence my son." But they plotted to kill him also and to take his inheritance, the vineyard. The Scribes and Pharisees saw Jesus meant himself by these wicked men, and Himself as the son whom they meant to kill (for well He knew what they were plotting), and were furious about it, but could do nothing because the multitude took Him for a prophet.

Parable of Marriage Feast

We have not room for the entire story of the king who made a feast for his son's marriage and invited his friends, who proved too busy to come. The second call was given, but no one responded, so the king sent his army and destroyed these false ones, and told his men to bring all they could find in the highways and byways, good or bad. They did so, and the wedding was furnished with guests. One, however, had arrogantly come to the feast without putting on the gala clothes provided, and him the king threw out "into outer darkness" because he was selfish and disloyal.

Then Jesus was asked if He thought it was lawful to pay the Roman taxes, which were humiliating to the Jews. It was a legitimate question, but Jesus answered, "Shew Me the tribute money," and when it was brought, "Whose image is this, and superscription?" They answered, "Caesar's." "Render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." This is one of the most complete and most crushing answers ever recorded. And probably the next is His answer to the lawyer who asked Him what was the greatest commandment in the law: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy mind," He said, and further, the second is, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Then in indignation and sorrow Christ called these men hypocrites who kept the letter of the law, made long prayers, were called Rabbi, etc., but neglected the poor, misled their converts, worshipped only the gold of the temple; paid their tithes but omitted judgment, mercy and faith. "Woe unto you!" He cried, and then sorrowfully, prophesying the ruin that was to come in a generation: because of their blindness and stupidity, "Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. Ye shall not see Me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

Fines Creek News

Mrs. D. N. Rathbone

Lee Green and Billy McCrary, of Fines Creek, had a narrow escape last week, when the steering gear of their car broke, sending the car crashing into a telephone pole in High Point. The two were enroute home from Newport News, where they are working.

Green was cut about the face, and had to undergo treatment in an Asheville hospital.

The accident occurred during the early morning hours, and McCrary was asleep on the back seat at the time. He suffered from shock, and a strained back.

The two continued their trip home via taxi.

The car was completely demolished.

Green is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Green and McCrary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCrary.

This writing finds almost every farmer through planting his corn and they are now busy preparing their snap bean patches. Many of the Fines Creek farmers have agreed to grow beans for the canon the foundation of Christ.
