RALEIGH .- Not the slightest hint of sabotage has been uncovered in the state bureau of investigation's probe of a series of disastrous forest fires in North Carolina, Director Fred Handy said yesterday.

Natives of the affected areas, he said, were responsible for most of them, although one or two were accidentally started.

Handy made the assertion as Lewis W. Tappon prepared to leave for Hendersonville to complete the department's investigation.

Eight arrests were made by the SBI in connection with the fires, which Tappon said, apparently were started by persons who had grievances against the forestry service or wanted jobs fighting the blazes for 35 cents an hour.

H. B. Bosworth, forest supervisor of the U.S. department of agriculture, wrote Handy that Agents Tappon and Guy L. Scott had "carried out the most efficient and effective series of law enforcement investigations that I have ever witnessed."
